GOVERNOR DENIES MOONEY PARDON

Democratic Senator Opens Fight For London Treaty

PLEA MADE BY SWANSON TO APPROVE

Senator Borah Not to Take Active Part in Battle To Win Ratification

WILL SEEK PAPERS

Discussion on Resolution Asking Secret Notes Scheduled For Today

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(UP)—Rejection of the London naval treaty would be interpreted in London and Tokio as a warning that the United States had embarked on an imperialistic career in which she would seek to dominate Japanese and British destinies, Senator Swanson, Dem., Va., told the senate today in the opening plea in behalf of the treaty.

Swanson, rather than Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, seconded President Hoover's urgent request for ratification because Borah is disinclined to fight for the treaty and party lines have been disrupted during the treaty consideration. Swanson is ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee.

Papers Sought

A resolution by Senator McKellar, Dem., Tenn., asking President Hoover to produce all secret papers relating to the treaty was on the calendar for discussion after Swanson's speech.

"If this treaty should be rejected by the United States," Swanson said, "Great Britain and Japan immediately would conclude that the United States had embarked on a career of imperialism and had determined to be supreme on the seas and to control the destinies of nations like Great Britain and Japan, who are absolutely dependent upon the seas.

"It would create in these two nations such irritation and suspicion that they would at once tax all their resources in order to meet all new construction in naval craft that we should undertake.

"Whether controlled by selfish, material interests or the broader and nobler purposes of promoting world peace and betterment, the best interests of the United States demand ratification of this treaty.

Naval Supremacy

"It is evident from this treaty that the United States obtains absolute naval supremacy in the entire western hemisphere. The United States is absolutely protected from any apprehension whatsoever from the fleets of any other nation and her safety is assured.

"The American navy under this treaty becomes sufficiently strong to enforce the entire Monroe doctrine in all parts of the western hemisphere. The navy is made supreme in the waters of the eastern Pacific and the western Atlantic. With our bases at Panama, the British fleet operating in the western Atlantic would be less than a ratio of three for Great Britain and five for the United States."

ORANGE COUNTY'S ASSESSED VALUATION SHOWS INCREASE

ROCKEFELLER OBSERVES HIS 91ST BIRTHDAY

Multi-Millionaire Takes Two Hours in Which to Play Game of Golf

POCANTICO HILL, N. J., July 8.—(UP)—Secluded from all but a few relatives and servants, John D. Rockefeller observed his 91st birthday with an expression of gratefulness to his fellow men for the kindness they have shown him.

There was little in the routine at the great manor house in the hills of Sleepy Hollow to set the day apart from any other, although it was expected the famous oil millionaire would cut his usual birthday cake at dinner tonight in the presence of the family and receive the personal congratulations of each, including 2-year-old baby Rockefeller Hilton, his great grandchild. He played golf for two hours this morning on his private course.

The aged financier said he expected to grant no birthday interview, but through his public relations counsel, Ivy Lee, he issued a statement last night which said:

"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have had more kindness shown me during the last year from every part of the country than ever before in my life, and it is needless to state that I am unspeakably grateful.

"I am in the best of health, surrounded by dear friends, and have naught but good will toward all."

For the first time in many years the nongenarian's son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will not be at the birthday dinner tonight. He is on a business trip in the west.

BREA GIRL FATALLY INJURED AT BALDY

BREA, July 8.—Word was received here yesterday of the death of Miss Barbara Phelps, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Phelps of this city, who passed away at the Pomona Valley hospital following a 30-foot fall from a tree at Mount Baldy when her skull was fractured.

The accident occurred near Camp Baldy at 8 a. m. Monday and the child was rushed to the Pomona hospital where she died at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. In her fall the little girl's head struck a rock, causing fatal injuries.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of McAuley and Suters of Fullerton and the time for the services is to be announced later. The child is survived by her parents, and two brothers, Howard, 14, and Billy, 9, with whom she was spending a vacation in the mountains.

The family live at 424 Madrone street, Brea, and the father has been employed as a petroleum engineer for the Union company here for many years.

Women In Dispute Over Custody Of Child Will Meet

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., July 8.—(UP)—Accompanied by a police matron, Mrs. Allen Higdon prepared to leave here today for San Francisco to meet the "other mother" of the child whom she and Mrs. Ruth Smith both claim as their own.

The trip was planned in hopes of establishing definitely the identity of the youngster, 8-year-old Leta Joyce, whose possession caused Mrs. Higdon to be placed in jail here on a charge of kidnaping.

Mrs. Higdon declared she was eager to face the "other mother."

Mrs. Smith denies the child is that of Mrs. Higdon and contends she and her husband gave the little girl to Mrs. Hatfield, sister of Mrs. Higdon, who in turn allowed the latter to take her.

Applies Advice Of Einstein And Wins

PARIS, July 8.—(UP)—Miss Margaret Wilbur, who said she was "just a poor girl who applied Einstein's advice," swore off visiting gambling casinos today after having won 39,000 francs—about $1,560, at Frank J. Gould's new casino at Granville.

Miss Wilbur, who is a mathematics teacher at St. Louis, lost 12,000 francs, which were all of her available funds, in the first night's play at the casino. She pawned a diamond ring and a fur coat and went back the next night to win 39,000 francs.

"I'm just a poor girl who had to win," she remarked. "I applied Einstein's advice on the theory of chance but I'll never play again."

VETERANS GET HELP AT ONCE FROM NEW LAW

Benefits of New Pensions Measure Will Be Made Available Soon

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(UP)—The U. S. veterans bureau was acting today to make the benefits of the new pension law available as soon as possible for world war veterans.

Application blanks have been dispatched to all the bureau's field stations, while instructions have been telegraphed and radioed to all field offices.

Inasmuch as compensation under the new law is effective from the date of application, the bureau is doing its utmost to place application blanks in the hands of every eligible veteran quickly.

More than 100,000 veterans—men who served 90 days or more—are eligible for benefits under the bill. The payments range from $12 a month for veterans 25 per cent disabled to $40 a month for those fully and permanently disabled.

"Men ill enough to be patients in a veterans hospital because of a non-service disability not heretofore compensable, will merit immediate attention," Director Frank T. Hines of the veterans bureau said today. "We will examine these more serious cases first to determine the degree of their disability and the rate of compensation."

Veterans hospitals are now caring for 30,700 men, of whom 43 per cent have disabilities not directly traceable to war service.

The estimated cost of the bill for its first year is $25,281,000, but payments may exceed this considerably.

REPORTER LINKED IN PAPER "RACKET"

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 8.—(UP)—The St. Louis Star, in reply to a letter from State's Attorney John A. Swanson, Chicago, today suggested that Harry T. Brundige, Star reporter, be called before the Cook county grand jury immediately to tell what he knows of alleged "newspaper racketeering."

The letter from Swanson asked the Star to have Brundige "call at my office at his earliest convenience" for an interview. In a reply Frank W. Taylor, managing editor of the Star, said he felt "a preliminary conference unnecessary."

Hoover Appoints Hines To Pilot Veterans Bureau

WASHINGTON, —uly 8.—(UP)—Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' bureau, has been appointed administrator of veterans' affairs under the new law consolidating the various government agencies for veterans under the bureau, President Hoover announced today.

GIRL SUICIDES AS SHE LEAPS FROM AIRPLANE

Nebraska Co-ed Dives from Plane Several Hundred Feet In Air

LINCOLN, Neb., July 8.—(UP)—Determined on death, Alberta Brenkenfolk, a young University of Nebraska co-ed, decided on the most modern means of suicide—a leap from an airplane hundreds of feet in the air.

She was the second person known to have chosen an airplane jump as a suicide gesture, one woman having killed herself that way at a New York airport last year.

Alberta was fairly well known about the spacious campus of the University of Nebraska and up until yesterday fellow students thought she was content with her life. But yesterday she hired a taxicab and ordered the driver to take her to the flying field.

There she asked the driver to wait 20 minutes. In event she did not return the driver was to go back to the city.

She engaged an airplane piloted by Peter Orr for a short flight. Orr, as customary, strapped the girl to the cockpit and soon the plane roared away on the "death journey."

Once they gained altitude, Orr noticed the young co-ed. She had loosened the safety belt and slowly was climbing over the cockpit. Forgetting the plane for a moment Orr reached over and roughly pushed the girl back to the seat.

He worked fast, for already the plane had begun to show effects of not being controlled and Orr had to regain his controls.

But as Orr settled back he watched in horror as the young girl again clambered to the side of the cockpit and without hesitation leaped off into space.

Her body was found half imbedded in the soft ground hundreds of feet beneath and the coroner pronounced the case suicide.

Kingsford-Smith Aide Plans New Distance Flight

KANSAS CITY, July 8.—(UP)—Spurred by the success of the recent trans-Atlantic flight of the airplane Southern Cross, Everet Van Dyke, Amsterdam, co-pilot with Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, contemplates two new flights which may make aviation history.

The young Dutch pilot arrived in Kansas City by plane last night from Los Angeles, where he went with the crew of the Southern Cross to complete the round-the-world flight planned by Kingsford-Smith.

Reduction In Tax Rate Seen By Assessor

Prosperity Reflected in Announcement Made By Sleeper Today

CONTINUED EVIDENCE of Orange county's prosperity and indications that the tax rate for next year might be lowered, were seen today with the announcement by County Assessor James Sleeper of the total assessed valuation of the county. The figure, on which the county tax rate for 1930-31 is based, is $184,707,565, or $6,381,730 more than the total last year, which reached $178,325,835. The figure is reported by Sleeper as the highest in the history of the county.

Much of the increase is accounted for in increases in personal property, intangibles and improvements, as well as increases in real estate and trees, and in spite of a heavy decrease in valuations in mineral rights. In addition to the valuation on which the rates for county taxation are based, Sleeper announced valuations of $5,005,565 for special districts and $12,919,175 for operative property, making a grand total for the county for 1930-31, of $202,632,305. The special district and operative property figures are used in securing taxes for special district funds and for the state.

Low Tax Rate

"The increased valuations should mean a lower tax rate for Orange county," Sleeper commented in releasing the figures at his office today, "and I favor a decrease in the rate because of general business conditions that are in existence all over the nation as well as in Orange county. Citizens of the county should be interested in the tax rates and take this matter up with those bodies that fix the rates, such as the county board of supervisors, school, city and special district trustees. The assessor's office has nothing to do with fixing the tax rate."

Government Meets Defeat In France

PARIS, July 8.—(UP)—The government was defeated today when the chamber of deputies rejected the cabinet's proposed convention with the Compagnie Francaise des Petroles for handling of the French share of the Mossoul oil output.

The cabinet did not put a vote of confidence and therefore was only "morally defeated" and not required to resign.

The defeat, by a vote of 297 to 275, rejected the government's plan to farm out the Mossoul oil to a private firm.

MUST STAY IN SAN QUENTIN

FRIENDS OF CONAN DOYLE TO ATTEMPT TO TALK WITH HIS SPIRIT BEFORE CREMATION

LONDON, July 8.—(UP)—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's last interview was an exposition of his creed of life and death, given to the London Daily Herald only a few days before he died from a heart attack at Crowborough, Sussex, yesterday.

The interview was recalled today as his family and friends prepared for his funeral and awaited the confidently expected signal from the "spirit world" which would convince them the theories he had upheld during the latter period of his life were true.

The purpose of life, Sir Arthur told the Daily Herald, is to move from the material to the spiritual, and sorrow and conflict are the two most powerful means of attaining the spiritual being.

"If a man of 70 is no more gentle, no more kindly, no more sympathetic, no more unselfish than when he was 30," Sir Arthur said, "then his life has been wasted, and he must go through life again, either here or on another sphere.

Object of Life

"It cannot be the object of life that we eat three meals a day, have a sound night's rest, and work at some humdrum task. To me, it is a clear function that all creation is to move from the material to the spiritual, which is the object of life."

Sir Arthur, who had abandoned Roman Catholicism as a young man when he was convinced the foundations of all Christianity were too weak to build upon, said he did not believe creeds were of any value.

"One cannot say whether the increase of spirituality is greater in a Roman Catholic, a Greek Catholic or a Lutheran community," he said. "Character is everything; belief nothing. An agnostic may be a saint, while a purist in doctrine may be a devil. The age of faith is dead."

Sir Arthur said that he realized the existence of something wise and all-powerful called "God," but added that spiritualists could accept nothing without proof.

Future of Religion

"The religion of the future will be built on the standpoint of two worlds, not one," he said.

Those spirits who can be communicated with most easily are those nearest the earth, and not necessarily of the highest mentality, Sir Arthur said.

Although he had rejected the Christian doctrine, Sir Arthur said the character of Christ and His teachings had given a permanent standard in ethics. Summing up his views of death, he said:

"Life on a higher plane is the ultimate goal. Death makes no change. Man finds a natural life and homely surroundings, in which he develops his own natural powers."

Captain N. Leith-Hay-Clark, leader of the spiritualist community in London, told the press an attempt to communicate with Sir Arthur probably would be made within a day or two. A short delay will be allowed to give Sir Arthur an opportunity to rest, he said.

"If he is cremated, the attempt probably will be made before cremation, as it will be easier then," the spiritaulist leader said.

BEACH COUNCIL RESCINDS LAW OVER DERRICKS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 8.—At the request of Mayor Sam R. Bowen for speedy action on a referendum petition on Ordinance No. 332, commonly known as the derrick ordinance, adopted at the last meeting of the council, the city council in session Monday night in the council chambers at city hall waived a check of names by the city clerk on the petition of referendum which carried 375 signatures, and on motion of Councilman Elson G. Conrad, seconded by Councilman Chris King, repealed the ordinance and instructed the city attorney to draw the repeal.

Mayor Bowen urged that as there was evidently a large number of people who wanted to refer the ordinance for various reasons, that it was in his opinion advisable to concede that there were sufficient signers to effect a referendum.

In offering a motion for the repeal of the ordinance and following the vote which was unanimous, all five councilmen voting for the repeal, Councilman Conrad stated that in his opinion it would be proper to submit the questions involved in the ordinance to a vote of the people in September. Other councilmen spoke in favor of this suggestion and on motion of Councilman Conrad the city attorney, L. W. Blodget, was instructed to prepare the necessary provisions to submit the questions to a vote in September.

The city clerk announced receipt of the referendum petition and

Lila Lee To Take Rest In Arizona

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 8.—(UP)—Lila Lee, prominent film star, has been compelled to take a complete rest in Arizona because of overwork during the past year and a half, her friends in the screen capital revealed today.

While Miss Lee suffered no serious illness, it was said, she has been advised by physicians to abandon her work entirely for the present. Serious consequences might ensue from her disobedience, doctors said.

RADICAL TO REMAIN IN SAN QUENTIN

BOARD IS UPHELD

Recommendation of Pardon Board and Supreme Court Influenced Young

GOV. C. C. YOUNG today denied the pardon application of Thomas J. Mooney, noted radical, who is serving a life sentence at San Quentin for conviction on a charge of participating in the 1916 preparedness day bombing outrage in San Francisco.

The governor's decision was announced in a long formal statement based on his own study of the case, the recommendation of the state pardon board and the action of the state supreme court in refusing to recommend a pardon for Warren K. Billings, convicted of the same crime as Mooney.

The decision once again brought up sharply agitation for Mooney's release, started at the time Mooney was convicted of taking part in the bombing which caused the death of nine persons and seriously injured 40 others.

Third Denial

Governor Young was the state's third chief executive to rule against a pardon for Mooney. Former Governor W. D. Stephens declined to pardon Mooney but commutated his original death sentence to life imprisonment on the recommendation of the late Woodrow Wilson, former president. Former Governor Friend W. Richardson declined to act on Mooney's pardon appeals.

The governor's ruling here today was anticipated since he previously indicated the pardon board's recommendations and the supreme court's action in the Billings case would have a strong influence on his decision in respect to Mooney.

The governor said that until some further light could be cast upon the case he felt it necessary to accept the recommendations of the state pardon board and the supreme court.

"I am aware," the governor's decision read, "That this decision will be disappointing to many, particularly to those who have come to feel strongly on this subject without having had the opportunity to study the case at first hand, but in a matter like this, I must be guided by a conscientious regard for my oath of office rather than a willingness to respond to popular appeal."

The governor said that while two of his predecessors in office had re-

PUGILIST KILLED IN STREET BRAWL

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—(UP)—Thomas Fayne, 28, known as 'Battling Murray,' pugilist, was shot by an unknown assailant today as he left a Mission street bootleg establishment. He died almost immediately.

Because of contradicting versions of the shooting, three companions and a girl proprietor of the resort were arrested for questioning.

According to the stories of his companions, they left the place and walked east on Mission street. Two blocks away, they were accosted by a well dressed stranger who started an altercation over his hat, which he accused Fayne of taking.

In the midst of a fist fight, they said, the stranger drew a revolver and shot Fayne. Fearing that they would be implicated, they took to their heels.

Masonic Rites For Paper Counsel

OAKLAND, July 8.—(UP)—Funeral services for Jay W. "Judge" Curtis, 56, treasurer and general counsel for the Scripps-Canfield newspapers, who died yesterday, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the chapel of the Chimes, Piedmont. Fellow Masons will participate in the ceremony, which will comprise the full Masonic ritual.

Curtis died after a pratracted illness since an unsuccessful operation late in March. His death ended a period of service of more than 27 years as chief counsel of part, and, later, all of the Scripps-Canfield chain of papers.

ADDINGTON IS ACQUITTED ON STILL CHARGE

The jury that heard the evidence presented in superior court yesterday before Judge G. K. Scovel, in the trial of J. J. Addington, who was charged with owning and operating a still, required only 20 minutes to reach a verdict that set the prisoner free. A verdict of not guilty was returned to the court at 4:25 p. m. after the jury had retired at 4:05 p. m. yesterday.

Witnesses yesterday included Yvonne and Earl Miller, children of two other defendants in the case who previously have been convicted; Deputy Sheriffs Lloyd Fuller, Jesse Buckles, Tom Scudder and A. L. Steward, who participated in the raid that netted the evidence and prisoners; Herman Zabel, who was on the stand as a hand writing expert, and whose qualifications were stipulated by the defense; and Dr. E. W. Tock, of the county hospital laboratories, who made the analysis of the liquor seized.

Members of the jury were Madge DeLapp, J. B. Anthony, Maude Swarthwart, H. M. Peterson, John LeBaird, Margaret Fairbair, W. A. Borland, Ed H. Dierker, H. E. Rhinehart, J. L. Cardwell, T. S. McCollom and A. C. Merrick.

Addington previously had been tried under the charge, but the former jury had been unable to reach a verdict and the trial yesterday resulted. The prisoner was represented in court by D. G. Wettlin, Chief Deputy District Attorney Sam Collins and Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton appeared for the prosecution.

Deaf Mute Singers Will Appear Here

Mrs. Myrtle Cooper, missionary evangelist of Compton, will give an address tonight at the Full Gospel Assembly West, Third and Forest streets, Santa Ana. Mrs. Cooper is working with Mrs. Elsie Peters, pastor of the first church set aside for the deaf in the state of California. According to her, there are approximately 2000 deaf mutes in the United States, with between 1500 and 2000 in and near Los Angeles.

Mrs. Cooper will be accompanied to this city by Mrs. Evernew Lamont, (deaf mute singer) who will sing "When They Ring Those Golden Bells For You and Me." Miss Bessie Rafales, 15-year-old "Greek songbird," will sing "There Comes a Cry." The public is invited.

Postal Receipts Show Increase In Buena Park

BUENA PARK, July 8.—Buena Park is now receiving three mails a day, the new schedule which went into effect July 1, provides for arrival of mail at 5:45 a. m., 1 p. m., and 5:45 p. m. Departures from Buena Park are made at 5:45 a. m., 1:15 p. m. and 5:45 p. m. The noon dispatch connects with airplane mail service out of Los Angeles for the east.

Postoffice receipts for the past quarter showed an increase over the same period last year. Stamp sales gave a considerable increase over last year, and box rents raised over 60 per cent. The report in mailing of advertising matter by merchants, showed a slight decrease.

AWARD CONTRACT ON BRIDGE WORK

The board of supervisors today awarded a bridge contract, made an appropriation of $1000 to assist the Newport Harbor tournament of lights, and heard a request for increased appropriation to the work of the United States forest service nursery and research work.

Members of the Orange County Veterans Welfare association appeared and called attention to the fact that no provision was made for paying expenses of Harry Edwards, the veterans' relief officer, who recently became attached to the county welfare department under an agreement between the veterans' organzation and the board. The board indicated that this matter would be included in the new budget.

The bridge contract, amounting to $10,013, covering erection of a bridge on Walker street, west of Cypress, between Orange and Los Angeles counties, was awarded to the W. M. Ledbetter company, of Los Angeles. The cost of the work is to be shared jointly by Orange and Los Angeles counties.

The matter of increased appropriation for the support of the U. S. Forest work was presented by Charles J. Kraebel, of Berkeley, and J. E. Elliott, of San Bernardino.

The board took the attitude that they would not be able to make a larger contribution to this work than they had in the past, which is $1500.

LEGION PLANS TO TAKE PART IN CONVENTION

Plans for the forthcoming American Legion department convention which will be held at Sacramento August 18, 19 and 20, will be discussed by the American Legion post No. 131 at its regular dinner meeting Thursday night. This year's convention has aroused unprecedented interest throughout the state and one of the most pretentious programs since the inception of the yearly event has been assured.

The chief business before Thursday night's meeting will be election of delegates and alternates. In addition, nominations for post officers will be heard. In view of the fact that there is an unusual number of aspirants for the various offices, the keenest sort of friendly rivalry seems a certainty.

According to Lester Steinkopf, second vice-commander, all the Legion posts in Orange county will parade as one solid unit at the Sacramento convention. The local organization has but 30 days in which to fulfill its membership quota. To date, 590 members have been enrolled. The quota assigned is 625.

It also has been announced that the Legion auxiliary will attend the auxiliary state convention, which will be held in conjunction with the Legion convention. The local branch will make the trip to Sacramento in a special car and it is expected that a complete representative list in addition to the glee club will take an active part in the festivities. The special car will leave Santa Ana on August 17, arriving in Sacramento late that night. According to plans already outlined, the Legionnaires will leave here via bus on August 16 so as to be in Sacramento in time Sunday to take advantage of a sightseeing trip to points of interest in and around the convention city.

Sunday's program will consist chiefly of the reception of delegates and the registration of visiting outfits. Monday, the convention will open formally with a business session. Following this, there will be an elimination contest of drum and bugle corps. A highlight of the initial session will be a mammoth parade, with beautiful prizes being awarded winning organizations. In addition, competitive drill contests for bands, drum and bugle corps, and auxiliary drill teams will be a feature. Monday night a dance will be held in the Memorial auditorium.

Another business session will mark the opening of the second day of the convention. Following a consummation of the business of the day, a boat ride on the Sacramento river has been scheduled. The boat will leave the dock at noon and will not return until 5 p. m. Several dances will be held in the evening and for those who may clamor for more, a midnight show, featuring the best talent available, has been arranged.

A complete sports carnival will be held every day and there is some indication that members of the local post will represent Santa Ana in the various contests. Wednesday will bring the convention to a close. At this time business routine will be completed and final reports for the year presented.

Thursday night's dinner meeting will start promptly at 6:30. Dinner will be served by the ladies of the auxiliary. Harold Rasmussen, who is in charge of the entertainment committee, has promised a unique program and a full turnout is urged.

BAN ALPHABET

LONDON, July 8.—Vodka was recently added to the liquor stocks at bars of the House of Commons in London. It is a symbol of the resumption of diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia. Few members, however, ask for vodka. Beers is by far the favorite with British legislators.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, July 8.—(UP)—Highly irregular price movements occurred in a quiet session on the curb market today.

Public utilities, as usual, attracted most attention. Electric Bond and Share and Cities Service recovered some of an early decline when offerings drid up, while renewed demand was in evidence for American and Foreign Power warrants and Brazilian Traction. Niagara Hudson Power and Associated Telephone Utilities were weak.

Oils, investment trusts and mining stocks were in free supply during the session, with declines ranging from fractions to more than a point.

Father-In-Law Of Judge Tucker Is Given Elks Post

Joseph T. Farrer, of Provo, Utah, father-in-law of Judge J. B. Tucker, of this city, was elected grand esteemed leading knight at today's session of the convention of Elks in Atlantic City, according to word received here today by E. R. Majors, secretary of Santa Ana lodge, from Fred B. Newcomb, who is in attendance as a delegate from the local lodge.

Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, Pa., was elected grand exalted ruler, and J. E. Masters, of Charleroi, Pa., was returned to the office of grand recording secretary.

The great task of preparing the valuations and setting them up on the county books has occupied the time and attention of a force of 24 men since the work was started on the first of last March, in addition to the work of the regular office force. "We have made a complete survey of property in the county and have endeavored to give every property owner an equitable assessment," Sleeper declared.

An interesting sidelight revealed in the compilation of the figures shows that property totaling $2,028,030 is exempt from taxation this year under the soldier's exemption provision. Last year this figure was $1,961,085.

Personal Property

The largest increase in any one item of those used in arriving at the total on which the county tax rate is figured, was under the heading of personal property. The increase here was $4,093,025, going from $19,876,175 last year, to $23,969,200 this year. This increase was explained by Sleeper as being due to greater oil storage in the county this year, as well as additional wealth that has been brought into the county during the year by new residents.

The next largest increase was in intangibles, which rose in value from $5,315,725 to $5,208,920, for an increase of $2,893,185. Improvements ranked third, with an increase of $1,698,830. The figure this year was $25,957,610, while last year it was $24,258,780. Real estate made an increase of $806,270, jumping to $77,361,195 from $76,454,925. Trees went up on the books in valuation from $16,993,075 to $17,790,605 and increase of $797,530.

The item of decrease was under the division listed as mineral rights, where the valuations dropped from $35,427,145 last year to $31,420,035. This represented a loss of $4,007,110, which the assessor stated was due to decrease in oil production during the year.

The county tax rate last year was $1.45 inside cities and $1.85 outside cities.

COURT CONTINUES RALPH STULL CASE

The case of Ralph Stull, Orange man, charged with failure to stop and render aid after an automobile accident, and also with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was continued in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning until tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Stull is alleged to have been the driver of a machine which on July 4, ran down Pauline and Virginia Trickey and John Estes, of Santa Ana, at Newport Beach, injuring all three of them.

The car is said to have dashed away after the accident. The man was arrested by State Traffic Officers Buer and Vaughn at his home in Orange, two hours after the crash.

PARDON DENIED TO MOONEY BY GOV. C. C. YOUNG

fused to pardon Mooney, he, nevertheless, had given the application for pardon a most thorough and careful consideration.

In making a study of the case Governor Young said, he had absolutely no prejudice against Mooney for any social theory Mooney held or for any other crimes with which he may have been charged.

"If he was innocent of this particular crime, to keep him in prison would be an ineffaceable blot upon the good name of this state," the governor declared. "On the other hand, if he was not innocent he was guilty of one of the most uncalled for and atrocious crimes ever committed, the wanton murder of unsuspecting men, women and children gathered upon a public street to witness a patriotic demonstration of San Francisco citizens.

Is Not Convinced

"Although I spent months in studying these cases and carefully read the transcript of the trials, as well as thousands of pages of the briefs, petitions, affidavits and other documents filed with me as continuously stated during my investigation, I was not able to convince myself of the innocence of the two prisoners, but I had been convinced that innocence or guilt of the one implied corresponding innocence or guilt of the other, and that whatever treatment was accorded the one should in all fairness apply to the other."

"Accordingly," the governor's statement continued, "it was with much satisfaction that I learned that Billings had applied to the justices of the Supreme Court for a pardon recommendation for I realized that this would mean an independent and unbiased study by the highest judicial body of the state, composed of men of specialized training and outstanding ability, and I sincerely welcomed this assistance in a case which I found exceedingly difficult and baffling."

Cases Similar

The governor then went on to declare that as early as November, 1929, he decided that whatever recommendations the supreme court should make in the Billings case must apply with equal force to his decision in the Mooney case.

Under state law, Billings, a two-time loser, was forced to seek the approval of the supreme court before he could appeal to the governor for pardon. Mooney because he had only one conviction against him carried his request for freedom direct to the governor.

Jurisdiction On Misdemeanors To Be Changed Here

In accordance with a recent ruling of the state supreme court, District Attorney Z. B. West today issued an opinion declaring that all prosecutions for misdemeanors shall be prosecuted in the township in which the offense occurs. Notices of this procedure were sent by the district attorney to Sheriff Sam Jernigan so that the enforcement arm of the county government would be familiar with the change.

Prior to the recent amendment to the penal code, the right was given to the complaining officer or to the prosecution, to file all justice court matters in any justice court in the county, with certain limitations. The new amendment and the ruling of the supreme court make it necessary now that in every instance the place of happening of the offense must be ascertained and the prosecution must be handled in that township justice court.

Failure to file action in the proper court will result in defendants being entitled to a writ of habeas corpus, where convicted in the wrong township court, West pointed out in his communication to the sheriff.

SAYS PARALYSIS STILL THREATENS

The infantile paralysis situation in Orange county is still a dangerous element to be considered, it was announced today by Dr. K H. Sutherland, county health officer.

Dr. Sutherland revealed that while only on additional case had been reported, extreme precautions must be exercised by the public if the dread disease was to be conquered Irma Arundell, 16, Harper street, Costa Mesa, is the latest victim of the disease. Her case, however, is not considered critical, although she immediately was placed under quarantine by Dr. Murray Bates of the health department. This is the 26th case reported since April.

Dr. Sutherland issued a statement in which he urged parents to safeguard their children. He stressed the ease by which the disease could be contracted. "Crowded streets, any public place, are an open invitation to contagion," warned Dr. Sutherland.

"We have reason to believe that 5 to 10 per cent of the people may be carrying the infection without themselves knowing it or showing any sign of the disease, and it would be well for adults to keep this fact in mind."

GETS JUDGMENT

Judgment was entered yesterday by Judge G. K. Scovel for the plaintiff in the case of Bessie Mize vs. Alex P. Nelson, et al. The award carried foreclosure of a mortgage and $3500, which was the balance due on a note, interest amounting to $168.96, title search fee of $24 and attorney's fees of $225. Ira Kroese was appointed commissioner by the court to handle sale of the property.

BEACH COUNCIL RESCINDS LAW OVER DERRICKS

said he had not completed the check of the names as he is required to do. He said the check would be completed by Wednesday.

It was then that Mayor Bowen with customary decision asked that technicalities be waived and that the council take the situation in hand right now. Councilman Conrad, equally ready to meet the issue offered his resolution and without debate the matter went to a vote and carried unanimously.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

The only way to prevent your faith from degenerating into fanaticism is to keep your emphasis upon the nature of God.

When you bring every doubt and questioning close to the central truth that God loves you, you can be content to trust Him to do for you and for those who are precious to you whatever His love prompts.

With the consciousness of His love, you go forward serenely and devoid of fear, strong in the realization that nothing can overwhelm you. Even your heartache and sorrow He shares and He will help you to so live through it that you come close to Him and to the one dearest to you.

TORRES—At Owensmouth, Calif., July 5th, 1930. Jose Torres, age 18 years. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. at the Guadalupe Catholic Church under the direction of Harell & Brown. Interment Santa Ana cemetery.

TRANSCRIPT OF RECORD GIVEN TO PROSECUTOR

A coroner's jury, in an inquest this morning over the body of J. Edmund Snow, 55, prominent Santa Ana real estate man and pioneer of Orange county, who was killed in an automobile crash Sunday night, advised that the district attorney's office make a further investigation into the accident, but at the same time reported that Snow came to his death in an accidental manner.

Death was due to a crushed chest according to the findings of the jury. The inquest was held at the Smith and Tuthill Funeral parlors at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Snow was killed instantly at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night when the automobile he was driving, occupied also by his wife, was struck by a machine driven by Herman Millerat, 19, of Route No. 4 Anaheim. The crash occurred at the intersection of the Katella road and Haster street. Mr. and Mrs. Snow were returning to Santa Ana at the time.

Millerat said that the Snow car was speeding at the time of the accident and that he did not see the machine until after his car had entered the intersection.

Funeral services for Mr. Snow will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Smith and Tuthill Funeral parlors. Burial will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

Leo Friis, of the district attorney's office was present at the inquest today and questioned the witnesses. A transcript of the testimony will be turned over to the district attorney's office for further use.

Arrest Delhi Man On Murder Count

Alleged to be wanted in Los Angeles for a murder concerning which local officers knew none of the details, M. Gomez, 40, of Delhi, was arrested last night by Sheriff Sam Jernigan and Deputy Sheriff Jess Buckles.

The man was lodged in the county jail and several hours later was turned over to Los Angeles police officers, who came here to return him to Los Angeles.

Gomez was arrested on a Los Angeles warrant which gave no information regarding the asserted crime.

ROUND TABLE TO ENTERTAIN O. D. BRUNDAGE

The Santa Ana Round Table has completed arrangements for its regular weekly meeting and will have as its guest of honor, International President O. D. Brundage, of Dallas, Tex. The meeting will be held at Ketner's cafe Thursday noon instead of on Friday. This will formally mark President Brundage's first visit to Southern California and the local chapter considers itself fortunate in being able to secure his presence for this cocasion.

According to Clarence E. Olesson, district secretary, President Brundage will arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow noon and will attend the charter banquet of the Hollywood Round Table. He is scheduled to arrive in Santa Ana early Thursday morning. Immediately following Thursday's meeting, President Brundage will depart for San Francisco, where he is slated to attend a meeting in that city.

Elaborate preparations have been made to receive Brundage and district officers who have promised to attend. The entire membership of District No. 2 has been urged to participate in the program. As an added feature, initiation services will be held for seven new members who recently were admitted into Knighthood. A musical program, as well, will round out the entertainment.

It also has been announced that the Santa Ana Round Table will be represented at the annual convention, which will be held in Milwaukee July 16th-19th. Delegates planning to attend will leave here July 8th.

Seacord Pledged To Junior Lions

Emmett Seacord, graduate of Tustin Union High school, was chosen as a pledge at the regular meeting of the Junior Lions last evening, which was held in the home of Eric Twist, 1520 North Main street. A decision was made to hold the next regular meeting at Corona Del Mar, July 14. Following the business session, refreshments were served.

Members present were Ray Giesper, Delmer Brown, Truscott Lindsey, Oran Asa, Omar Williams, Virgil Brown, Willard Minor, Nelson Conway, Emmett Seacord, pledge, and the host, Eric Twist.

Youths Arrested By Fruit Patrol

James W. Saxton, 18, and a younger man were arrested by members of the Orange county fruit patrol last night and are being held in the county jail on suspicion of fruit thefts.

Both youths reported they resided at 2511 Forty-first place, San Diego. No official charge has been lodged against them.

BAND PROGRAM WILL FEATURE SPANISH MUSIC

Lovers of colorful Spanish music and dancing will welcome the announcement made today by D. C. Cianfoni, director of Santa Ana Municipal band, who stated that an all Spanish program, composed of typical Spanish favorites, will be featured at the band's regular weekly concert, to be given in Birch park next Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Senorita Faustino Lucero, one of the best known Spanish dancers on the coast, and especially popular with local lovers of Spanish entertainment, will appear on the program as a special feature. She will dance the vivid "Ja Jota," also the equally colorful "Estudiantina." She will be accompanied by the band.

Another feature of special interest will be appearance of the well known Spanish soprano, Louisita Yorba, connected with the celebrated Mission play of San Gabriel during several seasons in the past, and a singer of varied stage experienced. She will be heard in two favorite Spanish songs, "Estrillita" and "La Paloma."

Typical Spanish compositions to be featured by the band will include the march, "La Sorella" (Borel), "Valse Espanita" (Rosey), the overture from Carlos Gomez' Spanish opera, "Il Guarany," also the Spanish suite "La Feria," a modern work of richly colorful character.

This suite, composed by Paul Lacome, opens with the movement "Los Toros," followed by "La Reja Serenade," the suite closing with a third movement in waltz form, "La Zarzuela," a typical Spanish dance form.

Lacome was born in France in 1938 and was especially noted as a composer of operettas, having also produced three orchestral suites, considerable chamber music and over 200songs and piano pieces. He is also the composer of the popular dance "L'Estudiantina," in which Miss Lucero will appear on Thursday night's program.

Files Suit For $10,000 Damages

Alleging that he has suffered injuries to his damage in the sum of $10,000 as the result of an accident, Lewis C. Barrett yesterday filed suit against J. P. McCune and W. L. Pankratz.

Barrett alleged that the negligent operation of an auto by Pankratz, as an agent for McCune, on the 29th day of last March, resulted in the accident which caused his injuries. His complaint states that he was struck by the car while crossing the street on Ocean boulevard near Garden Grove. It is asserted that he sustained serious injuries, including internal injuries, and that he was confined to the hospital for a period of four weeks and four days as a result thereof.

'BAD MAN' GIVEN CHAIN GANG TERM

Asserted to be a "bad man," the killer of three, Encarnacion Guadan, 57, of La Jolla, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Harry Carter and F. L. Humiston last night, in a Mexican woman's house, near La Jolla.

In Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning, he was found guilty of failure to provide for his family and was sentenced to one year in the county jail, the time to be spent on the county chain gang for which the county will pay the family $1.50 per day.

On the way to arrest Guadan last night, officers were warned by another Mexican that Guadan was a "bad man" and would cause trouble. He was found at the woman's house and submitted to arrest without a word.

ANNOUNCE NEW ASPIRANTS IN MOVIE CONTEST

Three new contestants in the big Santa Ana Daily Register-Fox West Coast theaters popularity contest, now under way, were announced today, bringing the total number of aspirants for the various prizes offered to 19.

The new contestants are Miss Elizabeth Meyer, of 2035 North Broadway; Eddie Cochems, 1407 North Bush street, and Robert Maylon, of 1212 Lacy street.

Miss Meyer is the candidate placed in the field by the Santa Ana pyramid of Sciots. The Sciots met in a body at the Fox West Coast theater last night and announced their candidate in the contest, stating that every effort would be made to see that she won first place and first prize, which is the leading part in a feature motion picture, which will be made in Santa Ana.

Cochems and Naylon entered the contest on their own initiative. Both are well known in Santa Ana. Miss Meyer is at the present time visiting friends in Texas. She made the trip by airplane, but is expected to be back in Santa Ana on Friday.

Well known throughout the city as a ballet and toe dancer, she has appeared in a number of private entertainments here during the past several months. She is a pupil of the Santa Ana School of the Dance, at 417 1-2 West Fourth street.

The popularity contest is creating even more interest in Santa Ana than was expected, according to a statement made today by Norman Sprowl, Fox theaters manager here, who said that several additional prizes had been offered by merchants. The merchants and the prizes will be announced tomorrow. At the present time, the following prizes have been offered: Leading parts for a boy and girl in the motion picture to be made here by the Fox West Coast theaters; a ten-day trip to Catalina island, with all expenses paid; the down payment on a Willys-Knight sport model roadster; a $50 evening dress, a $60 set of photographs, a $50 ladies' wrist watch, a suit of men's clothes, and a free round trip via airplane to San Diego, the latter prize being donated by the Eddie Martin airport.

Merchants in the contest include the Sample shop, William Lorenz, jeweler; Cochems' Photography shop, Brooks Clothing store and the local dealers of the Willys-Knight automobile.

Votes in the contest can be secured through purchases at any of the stores of the above merchants, or through subscription to the Santa Ana Register or through admission tickets to the Fox West Coast theaters here. Each cent spent entitles the purchaser to one vote.

Sprowl announced today that the second accounting of votes would be made tomorrow and that, in the future, the official standings of the contestants would be given out every Wednesday and Saturday until the contest ends on August 24.

KEEPING COOL IN 'HOT' COSTUMES

College boys here and there who have been wearing campus shorts since the advent of hot weather have met their match in co-eds attending summer sessions at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., who surprised everybody the other day by calmly strolling to classes in a varied array of shorts and sports waists. Here are a few of the girls as they appeared in their abbreviated garb—and it was so hot that college officials didn't have the heart to object.

Ole Hanson Talks At Tustin Affair

Ole Hanson, founder of San Clemente, will deliver an address tomorrow night at the regular meeting of the Tustin Junior Chamber of Commerce in the Knights of Pythias hall, it was announced today by A. H. Holford.

Besides the talk by Hanson on city development and building the question of street lights and sewers will be discussed. All members of the group are urged to attend and bring their families, it was stated by Holford.

Court Notes

Judge G. K. Scovel issued an order yesterday approving settlement of a disputed claim for damages in behalf of Wanda Mae Wood, 6, daughter of E. C. Wood, of Costa Mesa. Under the agreement as approved the father is to receive $500 for the daughter in settlement for injuries she received in an auto accident June 1. The payment is to be made by an insurance company which carried insurance on the car driven by Elizabeth Gibson, which it is alleged was responsible for the accident.

Nannie Myers filed a complaint in superior court yesterday naming H. S. Elgin et al as defendants, in which she asks foreclosure of a mortgage on property in Santa Ana and judgment in the amount of $1637.50 plus certain costs, interest and attorney's fees.

A complaint on a promissory note was filed in superior court yesterday by the Southern County bank, of Anaheim, against M. N. Jay, asking judgment in the amount of $500 plus interest and $100 attorney fees. The basis of the suit is a note for $500 dated Dec. 2, 1929, which it is alleged is due and unpaid.

F. S. McClain and nine others are named as defendants in a suit brought yesterday by Lucy A. Kerch on a note and mortgage. Property involved is located in Santa Ana. Judgment is asked in the amount of $3000 plus interest costs and fees.

FULLERTON BANKER DIES AT SAUGUS

Lilburn H. Smith, 82, pioneer of Fullerton and the first president of the First National Trust and Savings bank of Fullerton, died of a heart attack yesterday while motoring to Sacramento, death occurring at Saugus.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later at McAulay and Suters of Fullerton as the case was put into the hands of the coroner. He was driving to the northern city with a relative, John Howe, when death came. He lived alone in the First National bank building at 118 Amerige avenue.

Smith is survived by four sons, Emmanuel, Dan, Will A., all of Fullerton, and Ozzo of Wilmington; two brothers, J. M. Smith of Enid, Okla., and C. F. Smith of Sacramento, and one sister, Mrs. Eliza Cooney. Dan Smith, who is now in Canada, is coming to Fullerton for the funeral.

LARGE GROUPS AT 'Y' POOL DROPPED

Swimming classes at the Y. M. C. A. for boys and girls today had been discontinued in an effort by the Y. M. C. A. to co-operate with health authorities in elimination of risks incident to the prevalence of infantile paralysis, it was announced today by Ralph Smedley, executive secretary.

"A large number of young people have been accustomed to going into the pool in the hot weather of the summer period," the secretary said. "Since the health department is trying to do away with assemblies of children, this action has been taken to eliminate the possibility of having 40 or 50 boys in the pool at one time.

"Individual instruction in swimming and life saving, or work with small groups of half a dozen at a time, may be carried on under the personal direction of R. R. Russick, physical director. The plunge will be kept in use by men and women, as usual."

PLANS COMPLETED FOR SNOW FUNERAL

Plans had been completed today for funeral service at 10:30 a. m., tomorrow, at the Smith and Tuthill chapel, for J. Edmund Snow, pioneer resident of Santa Ana, who was killed Sunday evening in an automobile accident near Anaheim.

The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will conduct the services. Interment will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

Mr. Snow was 55 years of age and had been a resident of the Santa Ana-Tustin district virtually all of his life. He was the son of the late H. K. Snow, one of the early pioneers of Tustin.

JULY SALE AT VANDERMAST'S IS ANNOUNCED

The July clarence sale of Vandermast, inc., will start tomorrow at the store at Fourth and Broadway. The annual event is designed to interest men and also women who buy for men. The sale will be the first since the organization moved to its present store. The store and display windows have been filled with seasonable, new merchandise.

The management declared today that no special goods had been bought for the sale, and pointed out that every item is a part of the regular stock.

New fall goods are arriving daily and in order to make room for the merchandise it is necessary to sell some of the present stock at reduced prices, it was pointed out.

The goods have been arranged to facilitate the customers making their selections with the least effort. Courteous and painstaking salesmen are on hand to be of assistance to visitors at the store.

One of the attractive features of the store is the downstairs section ,where the boys' department is located, one of the most complete departments of its kind in the state. The management reported that customers have come from as far as Hollywood because of the wide assortment that is on hand in this division of Vandermast's store.

Candidates Will Be Entertained By Breakfasters

A report by E. S. Morrow on plans being developed for the meeting of the Santa Ana Breakfast club on August 7, when candidates for all county offices, and newspaper men of the county, will be invited as special guests, will be a feature of the meeting of the club here Thursday morning, it was announced today by B. Z. McKinney, president.

Assurance was given by the president and Morrow that none of the candidates in any way will be embarrassed through attendance at the meeting, as there is no intention of 'horseplay" with the candidates as the "but end" of jokes.

James Anderson will officiate Thursday morning as program chairman, and it is anticipated he will make a brief talk on the condition of the stock market. Dancing girls who are pupils of Miss Gertrude Stebbins will provide a portion of the entertainment.

ROLPH COMMITTEE ORGANIZED HERE

Organization of an Orange county Rolph-for-Governor committee had been completed here today, it was announced by members of the committee.

Dr. R. A. Cushman has been named as chairman of the committee, other officers being as follows: Joseph P. Smith, Santa Ana, aid to chairman; J. P. Greeley, Balboa, vice chairman; Carl Mock, Santa Ana, secretary-treasurer; Owen R. Owen, Anaheim, assistant secretary; James Irvine sr. of Tustin, Louis Moulton, of El Toro, Sam L. Kraemer jr. of Anaheim, Phil A. Stanton, of Anaheim ,advisory board.

Members of the executive committee were named by supervisorial districts as follows: W. J. Kelly, Santa Ana, first district; E. B. Stevens, Huntington Beach, second; Thomas L. McFadden, Placentia, third; Dr. V. A. Rossiter, Orange, fourth; Harry H. Williamson, Balboa, fifth.

TEXT OF GOVERNOR'S DENIAL OF MOONEY PARDON

THE CASE OF BILLINGS AND MOONEY.

"I have before me an application for pardon in the case of Thomas J. Mooney, now undergoing life imprisonment in San Quentin prison, together with a communication from the state supreme court in which six of its members refuse to recommend a pardon to Warren K .Billings, convicted of the same crime though at a separate trial. Mooney was tried during January and February of 1917 and convicted for guilty participation in a bomb explosion in San Francisco on July 22, 1916—an explosion which took a toll of ten lives and maimed and wounded many more. The original sentence of death imposed upon the defendant was a year and a half later commuted to imprisonment for life.

"Although two previous governors had refused to pardon Mooney, I have nevertheless given his application most thorough and exceedingly careful consideration. I have been in receipt of many hundreds of communications from all portions of the world, most of them evidencing a sincere belief in the prisoner's innocence and urging his pardon, though in practically every instance with no first hand knowledge of the case except what they have been told by others, or have read either in the press or in literature sent out by the Mooney defense committee. There has been no propanganda or pressure of any kind directed to the keeping of Mooney in prison.

No Prejudice

"In making my study of the case, I have done so with absolutely no prejudice against Tom Mooney or any social theories he may hold or for any other crimes with which he may have been charged, or may have been capable of committing. If he was innocent of this particular crime, to keep him in prison would be an ineffaceable blot upon the good name of the state. On the other hand, if he was not innocent, he was guilty of one of the most uncalled-for and atrocious crimes ever committed—the wanton murder of unsuspecting men, women and children, gathered upon a public street to witness a patriotic demonstration of San Francisco's citizens.

"Coupled with the case of Mooney was the parallel case of Warren K. Billings, who several months before had been convicted of participation in the same crime, and who had already served a term in prison for another offense. The constitution of California expressly forbids a governor to grant executive clemency to a twice-convicted felon except upon recommendation by a majority of the justices of the state supreme court; and on November 7, 1929, Billings applied to the court for such a recommendation. In order to secure all possible assistance and advice as to the case of Mooney, I referred it to the advisory pardon board, which is regularly constituted by law to assist in investigating applications for executive clemency. Their report is now before me, and is hereby made a part of this statement.

Although I had spent many months in studying these cases and had carefully read the transcripts of the trials, as well as the thousands of pages of the briefs, petitions, affidavits and other documents filed with me, as continuously stated during my investigations I had not been able to convince myself of the innocence of the prisoners; but I had been convinced that innocence or guilt of the one implied corresponding innocence or guilt of the other, and that whatever treatment was accorded the one should in all fairness apply to the other.

Asks For Pardon

Accordingly, it was with much satisfaction that I learned that Billings had applied to the justices of the supreme court for a pardon recommendation; for I realized that this would mean an independent and unbiased study by the highest judicial body of the state, composed of men of specialized training and outstanding ability; and I sincerely welcomed this assistance in a case which I had found exceedingly difficult and baffling. Early in November 1929, I expressed myself on this matter as follows:

"In all the maze of conflicting testimony at the trials, and in all the doubts raised since that time, one thing stands out clearly, and is conceded equally by those who favor and those who oppose a pardon—that both men are guilty or that neither is. Although they were tried separately for the same offense, the evidence at both trials in all essential particulars applies to one as well as to the other. Therefore whatever recommendation the supreme court makes or refuses to make in the Billings case must apply with equal force to the case of Mooney."

I have quoted this statement which I made when Billings first made application to the supreme court justices, for I would not have it thought that I have changed my attitude in this matter in any particular. In fact, I have consistently stated that the justices' decision, after their independent unbiased study, would of necessity be conclusive; and in order to insure this independent study, I have scrupulously refrained from discussing the matter with the members of the court. In fact, until their recent communications of July 2 was sent to me, I had not received the slightest intimation as to what their recommendation would be.

In denying Billings' application for a favorable recomendation, the justices law particular stress upon the witness, John McDonald, who identified both Billings and Mooney as the men who placed the bomb which caused the loss of life. Both Billings and Mooney now contend that McDonald's original testimony was wiped out by an affidavit made four years later in New York City, in which he repudiated his original testimony. The question naturally arises as to how this reudiation was secured, and on what basis it is entitled to more credit than the testimony given on oath at the trials—testimony which might easily have led to a death sentence for both defendants.

Distrusted Affidavit

For various reasons which are set forth at length, the justices distrusted this affidavit; but in order to give Billings the benefit of the doubt determined that "some effort should be made to locate John McDonald, with a view to such further questions as might serve to shed light upon the circumstances and motives attending and animating the affidavit in question." This was the wisest and fairest action the members of the court could have taken, for if it could be shown that such witnesses as John McDonald had issued false affidavits through improper motives, obviously no pardon or commutation could be recommended; while if it could be shown that the repudiating affidavits were true and dependable, the case against Billings would be materially weakened.

Right here comes an action on the part of Billings that seems to admit of no explanation,—namely a letter under date of May 4, 1930, addressed to the court protesting against any such outside investigation as they were proposing, and stating his belief that neither the constitution nor the penal code conferred upon the supreme court the right to make such investigation. Upon the receipt of this letter the justices abandoned any attempts to secure the presence of McDonald. Meanwhile, there is no escaping the fact that Billings threw himself open to suspicion through his apparent fear to have McDonald come before the members of the court, where the circumstances surrounding his affidavit might be investigated.

In the case of Mooney, there were two witnesses who testified to seeing Billings and Mooney at the scene of the explosion—one of these was McDonald, who also testified in the Billings case, and the other was the cattle dealer, F. C. Oxman, who did not testify in that case. I have made a special study of Oxman's testimony, and desire to say that I thoroughly discredit it. I have personally and at great length interviewed both Mr. and Mrs. Hatcher of Woodland, where Oxman visited on the morning of July, and am convinced that he did not arrive in San Francisco until hours after the explosion took place. I believe that Oxman was nothing more or less than a publicity-seeking romancer, though I do not believe that his connection with the case was through any connivance or conspiracy with the prosecuting officials. I cannot agree, however, that the case against Mooney falls with the discrediting of Oxman, for the testimony of John McDonald is as strong a factor in that case as in the case of Billings.

Not Warranted

I think there would be general agreement with the concurring opinion of Associate Justice Shenk, who, though conceding that the showing now made by the applicant does not warrant a recommendation for pardon, nevertheless insists that

"The means should be made available, as occasion might require, to disclose the circumstances and conditions under which a witness, thoroughly examined and cross-examined at a public trial, has later cast reflections upon or repudiated his former testimony given under oath in open court. . . . The important thing is to arrive at the truth of the matter, and in order to do so we should have the power to employ any appropriate means to satisfy ourselves of the truth or falsity of the repudiation, especially in the absence of any statute or rule governing the procedure in the premises. If we should exercise that power it might be that the truth would be satisfactorily brought to light, either for or against the application."

In view of Justice Shenk's observation in this regard, I would most respectfully suggest to the members of the supreme court that, should McDonald or any other material witness who has repudiated his former testimony appear before them for the purpose of proving that such repudiations are trustworthy, and that their former testimony was perjured, it may be only just and right to consider the propriety of giving a hearing to such witnesses in the case of Billings, just as I should desire to do in the case of Mooney.

No Identification

Until the truth of the repudiating affidavits can be definitely established, no one can question the decision of the supreme court or the reasoning of the advisory pardon board, for there are certainly some portions of McDonald's affidavit which appear patently untrustworthy. For instance in his affidavit McDonald alleges that no proper identification of either Mooney or Billings was made by him—that Lieutenant Goff took him to the door of Mooney's cell and said "This is your man: This is Mooney;" and that he subsequently took him to Billings' cell, "asked a turnkey to open the door, and said, "Come out here, Billings!" Upon careful investigation I am convinced that nothing of this kind occurred; nor can any one believe that Billings and Mooney and their attorneys knew of such a spurious identification without calling attention to the matter in either of the trials.

In view of what has been said above, and in view of the fact that from the very first I have considered the cases of Billings and Mooney as parallel and in common with al lothers have recognized that both must be guilty or both innocent, until some further light is shed upon the case which I do not now possess I manifestly must accept the conclusions of the supreme court and the advisory pardon board, and accordingly must at this time deny a pardon to Thomas J. Mooney. I am aware that this decision will be disappointing to many, particularly to those who have come to feel strongly on this subject without having had the opportunity to study the case at first hand; but in a matter like this I must be guided by a conscientious regard for my oath of office, rather than a willingness to respond to popular appeal.

Quotes Letter

Along this line I possibly can do no better than to quote from a letter I wrote in December of last year to Mr. Fremont Older, who has from the begining taken such an earnest and sincere interest in these cases:

"Although I realize just as you that whatever decision I reach may be seized upon by political opponents, even though they themselves through similar study would have reached exactly the same conclusions as I, nevertheless the proper disposition of these cases is a duty too sacred to justify attack by those who would seek to use it as a political football, The good name of the state demands that this whole matter be removed entirely from the realm of politics; and I trust that it is not necessary to pledge you my word that, whether I am in a position to decide these before a campaign or during a campaign or after a campaign, my final will not depend one iota upon when it is made."

"That this 'final decision' has been made at the present time rather than six months ago is due to my feeling that out of deference to the supreme court I could not properly act upon the case of Mooney until the members of the court, in accordance with the constitution, had acted on the parallel case of Billings, I am announcing my decision at the earliest possible moment after receiving the communication from the court."

LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, July 8.—Mrs. Elizabeth Richardson has rented part of her house to Mrs. Vivienne C. Kearns, lately of Honolulu, who will be here for three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Loos, parents of Anita Loos, author of "Men Prefer Blondes," visited friends in this city last week.

La Casa del Camino had a record crowd over the Fourth with every room taken. Among the guests of note were Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Womer of Topeka, Kansas, Mr. Womer being president of Topeka University; Mrs. Helen Powers and daughter, Miss Lucile Powers of Hollywood, the latter being one of the rising young stars for M. G. M.; Henry Major, artist and friend of Ross Shattuck, and Guy Bates Post who came July 3 to spend the holiday with his mother-in-law, Mrs. J. B. Pultz, who is a permanent guest at the hotel. Mr. Post will leave soon for New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Hell G. Rider were given a pleasant surprise last week when Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pidwell of New York, while touring California, called up and were invited to spend Saturday and Sunday at the Rider place. Mr. Pidwell is head of the Irving Bank and Trust Company of New York and both he and Mrs. Pidwell are friends of many years standing of the host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jehle entertained a group of seven girls from St. Paul, Minn., who were formerly in the employ of Mr. Jehle when he was head of the West Publishing company in the twin city. Among the guests were Miss Susie Griffith, now librarian at the Milwaukee Public Library and librarian of the Law Library of St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Cannon of the summer art school entertained a number of week end guests over the Fourth among them Judge and Mrs. Charles B. MacCoy of Los Angeles, Mrs. Vera Vaughn of Santa Monica, Mrs. Ruby Pollitzer, concert pianist, and daughter Stephanie and Mrs. Townsend of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Champion visited their son Frank jr. and Mrs. Champion at San Marino recently. The hosts had recently returned from New York.

Miss Allie Heisler has taken an apartment at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth W. Brown for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jones of Alhambra entertained Mr. and Mrs. Peter Boyle of San Gabriel at their summer cottage here over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Heisler are having a pleasant visit from Mr. Heisler's brother, R. V. Meisler, who motored out this week from Riverton, New Jersey, near Philadelphia, and will remain all summer. Mrs. Heisler and the two children are with him. They are delighted with Laguna, seeing it for the first time, and Mr. Heisler scarcely recognized the place which he last saw 15 years ago.

Miss Ethel Gordinier, Mrs. Wheeler Davis and Miss Virginia Woolley have motored to Big Bear for a five days' outing.

Good looking . . . agreeable

(Body Odor)

EVEN AT a summer hotel where men were scarce, he couldn't make a hit with girls. They liked his looks. They would have liked him, too, if he hadn't had one fault they couldn't excuse.

Of course he didn't suspect the real reason. And nobody told him. People hate to hint at body odor even by its polite name—"B.O." . . . Later he found out the truth and a simple way to be safe. He's having a lot more fun now. He's one of the "crowd"—invited everywhere since he learned the easy way to keep perspiration odorless.

Hotter weather—take no chances

Don't trifle with "B.O." It's so easy for anyone to offend and not know it—especially these hot days when we perspire more freely. We quickly become used to an ever-present odor—don't notice it in ourselves—never dream it is annoying others. But it is!

Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy—then you're safe. Enjoy its cooling, refreshing, penetrating lather, so abundant even in hardest water. Heat and stickiness quickly vanish—every trace of "B.O." goes, too. For Lifebuoy's rich, creamy lather is gently antiseptic. It purifies pores. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that quickly rinses away—tells you why.

The finest of beauty soaps

Looking for a good complexion soap? Get Lifebuoy. There's none better at any price. Its bland, searching lather deep-cleanses pores—gently frees them of clogged impurities that mar skin beauty—coaxes back fresh, healthy radiance to dull sallow skins. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

MRS. NELLIE L. LENT

me. When we came to Long Beach last November I had such severe rheumatic pains at times that I could hardly get about, and I'd been suffering with indigestion for 10 years. My nerves were in wretched state and I was nearly always bilious and constipated. Four bottles of Sargon brought me wonderful relief! My rheumatic pains have entirely disappeared, my nervousness is fast leaving me and my digestion is perfect.

"Sargon Pills are wonderful! They have stimulated my liver to regular action, relieved me of biliousness, and for the first time in years I'm not troubled with constipation."—Mrs. Nellie L. Lent, 1428 Bixby Road, Long Beach, Calif.

Set Dedicaton Date For Presbyterian Organ

WILL FINISH INSTALLATION IN FEW WEEKS

ORANGE, July 8.—The dedication services of the new $10,000 pipe organ now being installed in the First Presbyterian church are to be held September 14, according to an announcement made this morning. The date for the dedication services was set last night at a meeting of the church board.

It is expected that work of installing the organ will be completed in about three weeks' time. The installation is under the supervision of W. W. Dorr, Pacific coast representative of the manufacturers of the instrument, who will take part in the dedication.

The organ is to be dedicated to the memory of Mrs. Lola Parson, late wife of the Rev. M. L. Pearson, who was prominently identified with the work of the church for many years. The echo organ is a gift to the church from a Sunday school class taught many years ago by Mrs. Samuel Armor. Many of the class members, now grown, live in this vicinity and the echo organ which is to be installed in the tower will be dedicated to Mrs. Armor. Mrs. Armor is at present one of the deaconesses of the church.

The chimes of the new instrument are a gift from Mrs. D. P. Crawford and are a memorial to her husband, D. P. Crawford, who passed away here some time ago and who was an elder of the church.

The organ was shipped here from Hartford, Conn., by the way of San Pedro. The Presbyterian church is one of the oldest in the city and until recently when a new Sunday school building was added, the original building was used as the Sunday school room.

S. A. V. I. Company Installs Pumping Outfit On Monday

ORANGE, July 8.—As the S. A. V. I. company has discontinued pumping from private pumps and is using only pumps that belong to the company, the price of water was reduced to $120 per hundred inches, the change becoming effective Monday morning, it was announced by O. S. Mansur, secretary.

Water was $1.40 per hundred inches per hour until the recent reduction.

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?

Use Tysmol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm.

The safest and surest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tysmol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing, aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear.

FRANK PROFIT DIES IN ST. LOUIS JUNE 28

ORANGE, July 8.—Frank Profit, who disappeared from this city about a year ago, died in a St. Louis hospital June 28, it was learned here yesterday. Profit returned from church one Sunday morning and left the house while his wife was preparing dinner, stepping from his home at 330 North Shafer street, into oblivion.

With but a few dollars in his pocket he made his way to St. Louis where he had relatives and where some months later he recovered his memory. Of how he traveled and what he did in the interim between the time he left Orange and when he came to himself in a hospital in St. Louis, he had no recollection, it was learned from hospital authorities.

A strange feature of the case was that while well known in this community no one has ever been found who saw him after he left home when he must have walked through at least a part of the city. Profit was an employe of the California Cable company and his widow, Mrs. Julia Profit still lives here.

BAY IMPROVEMENTS BRING NEW YACHTS

NEWPORT BEACH, July 8.—New yachts and other pleasure boats continue to arrive at Newport Bay, either for short visits, for the summer season or permanent, following the recent completion of the $200,000 improvement at the harbor entrance.

Among the vessels which arrived for July 4 week-end visits, according to Harbor Master M. S. Robinson, were the following:

Cruisers Tommy, of San Diego, and Julio, Seyelyn, Miss Vinn, Arbutus and Dordal, of Los Angeles; yachts, Katedna, owned by Otto G. Wildey of the real estate firm of that name, who have bought the P. E. tract and are developing it, and Eloise, owned by Commodore Piver, of San Francisco. The Eloise is scheduled to stay here for a month or two.

Craft which have moorings in the bay and will probably remain for the summer include:

ANAHEIM

Holiday visitors at the beach cottage of Mr. and Mrs J. E. Rymer at Newport included Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Alexander, Phyllis Alevander, Bruce Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Claude West, Donald West, Charles McCullah, Br. and Mrs. George Henry, and Miss Alander, all of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Lutes and Miss Jeannette Lutes of Santa Ana, Mrs. J. W. Lutes of Orange, and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Henry, senior of Anaheim.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Alexander attended a party Monday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Edward James of Denver, Colo., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fey in Santa Ana, hosts of the honored guests. The parties are all old time friends.

Orange Personals

ORANGE, July 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coats and daughter, Orange, of Los Angeles, were recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Randolph, 342 North Shafer street. Mr. Coats and Mrs. Randolph are brother and sister and the Coats resided here sometime ago, their daughter having been named for this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schar of San Francisco, have been guests of relatives, Mrs. W. H. Patrick of North Cypress street and Mrs. J. E. Profit, North Shafer street. Mrs. Schar was formerly Miss Pearl Sands of this city.

Miss May Kimball of the Orange public library staff, is spending her vacation in San Diego.

The Rev. A. C. Bode, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, is expected home this evening from the Lutheran Synod at Anaheim. Fred Bandick was the delegate from St. John's.

Mrs. Bertha Murphy, little Patty Jean Haag and Miss Tessie Winters, spent the week end in Hemet in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Harris. Charles Winters accompanied the group to Hemet, returning the following day.

Judge and Mrs. G. W. Ingle, East Washington street, spent a part of last week in Fresno, returning on Sunday.

Mrs. Jennie Conner of Rosemead, is a guest in the homes of relatives Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Farwell and Mrs. Nellie Rails of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bay spent Sunday in Hollywood in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Barr. Mr. Barr is Mrs. Bay's son.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Edwards are spending several days at Strawberry Flats.

Recent guests in the home of Mrs. A. A. Smith, South Olive street, were Miss Marie Herrickson, of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hopper of Beverly Hills, and Miss U. L. Chapman of Hollywood. Miss Herrickson is secretary to the dean of the university of California at Los Angeles.

Mrs. Jeanette Entler who was injured in an automobile accident January 4, was able to be dressed for the first time on July 4th. Mrs. Entler lives with her daughter Mrs A. A. Smith, at 270 South Olive street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Klaustermeyer of San Francisco, are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Peters, 243 South Tustin avenue.

Miss Rosella Sohre, 496 North Tustin avenue, expects to leave Saturday for the middle west and east where she will visit relatives. Miss Sohre will spend some time in the old home of the E. H. Sohre family at Good Thunder, Minn. She will also visit an aunt in Minneapolis and other relatives in Wisconsin and Chicago.

Miss Esther Klaustermeyer returned this week from a visit with relatives in San Francisco. Miss Klaustermeyer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Klaustermeyer, 250 South Tustin avenue, and is employed in the dental offices of Dr. H. A. Stryker of Santa Ana.

George H. Peterson, 414 East Palmyra avenue, who recently returned from the Loma Linda sanitarium, is improving in health. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson have as guests, Mrs. William Heffron of Senaca, Kan., and Miss Mildred Huff of Lincoln, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cleveland and children of Santa Ana spent Sunday with Mrs. Grace Cleveland, of 445 North Tustin street.

Mr. and Mrs. De Witt Cleveland spent Sunday at Alhambra.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cummings and children, of Anaheim, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller, of South Cambridge street.

Dwight Gates and daughter, Genelia, of Berkeley, and Mrs. G. A. Gates were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bivens, of 904 West Chapman street, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Kilgore and son, Junior, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kilgore.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Carlson, 242 South Center street and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Shelby and daughter, Miss Ruby Shelby, of Valley City, North Dakota, spent yesterday in San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Triplett have moved from 141 West Palm avenue to 307 West Mayle avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Claypool are established in their new home at 283 North Magnolia avenue, having moved to this address from 815 East Walnut street.

The summer garden house under a large sycamore tree at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller of South Cambridge street was the setting for a birthday dinner Saturday honoring Earl Miller, a member of the Miller household. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Shell, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Jessup and son, Byron, of Banning; Erma Fitzgerald and Meridith Fitzgerald and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller.

The C. M. P. club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Campbell at their beach cottage Wednesday. A pot luck dinner will be served at the noon hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Jessup, of Banning, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller, of South Cambridge street. Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller and their guests spent Sunday at Newport Beach.

Mrs. Minnie Neville spent the past week at San Diego with her daughters, Mrs. R. E. Jenson and Mrs. C. I. Thomas, at Ocean Beach.

Recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Richards, Main street, were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Richards of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. M. McGloghlin of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warner of Lynnwood.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clement, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mays and Mr. and Mrs. Baker spent the week end in the Clement summer home at Modjeska's.

New Dial Phones For Westminster Connected Sunday

WESTMINISTER, July 8.—The Westminister Telephone System is now a realty, the system having been "cut over" at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Practically all of the telephones in the new district were put in Saturday, a number of telephone crews being sent out by the company to hurry the work as rapidly as possible and leaving the subscribers with out phone service only a few hours at most.

There are 115 names listed in the new exchange which covers a section of 27 square miles in extent and serving Barber City, Westminister, New Westminister, Midway City, Voisa, and that part of Smeltzer, north of the Smeltzer road.

The system is the dial automatic and the company is rapidly completing the last minute work that completes the perfecting of the exchange. All long distance, trouble and information is dialed into the Huntington Beach exchange of which the new portion was a part up until now.

FOX TERRIERS LEAD LIST IN DOG DIRECTORY

ORANGE, July 8.—A drive on unlicensed dogs will be begun on July 15, according to Chief of Police B. F. Richards About 50 canines of the city are now wearing new tags, issuing of new licenses having been in progress for the past eight days.

The most popular dog in the city, according to the records at the police station, is the terrier, with the fox terrier leading by a good margin. The police dog follows next in popularity and to date but one St. Bernard and one collie, have received the right to live and roam the streets of Orange.

Queerly enough those old favorite names for dogs, "Rover" and "Towser" generally associated with animals of a large and rugged variety, are borne by two fox terriers. "Spark Plug" is the cognomen given by a Spitz and "Laddie" is a popular name among those listed.

New City Library In Newport Beach Adds Two Workers

NEWPORT BEACH, July 8—The Newport Beach public library, which recently was moved into the new building in the city park at Central, Bay and Island avenues, will hereafter be open longer hours than in the past, it was announced by the library board today.

This policy was decided upon as the new librarian,, Miss Wilma Linneman, took up her duties. Instead of being open from 1 to 6 p. m. the library will now be open every day except Sunday from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m.

Miss Linneman will have as assistants during the summer season Miss Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Alice Wyckoff Putnam. Mrs. Elizabeth Douglas, who recently resigned as librarian, will take a vacation, starting July 15, and about September 1 will take a position as relief librarian.

53-YEAR OLD DOLL SHOWN IN CITY LIBRARY

ORANGE, July 8.—A doll 53 years old occupies a place of honor at the children's department of the Orange public library this week. The doll was made a part of an exhibit in connection with the awarding of the prize for the best children's book in 1929 to Miss Rachel Field, who wrote the story of a 100-year-old doll. The book is called, "Hittie, Her First Hundred Years." Miss Field was awarded the Newberry prize at a recent meeting of librarians.

The doll who represents "Hittie" in the Orange library has a home made body with a china head. Her shiny black hair is parted and waved above a broad, white brow and her red lips are parted in the same smile with which she greeted her owner, Mrs. F. J. Pearce, 226 East Washington street, more than a half century ago.

The doll was dressed by Miss Vernell Butler of the library staff and her costume follows the fashions of a half-century ago—a low necked short-waisted dimity gown, resplendent with tiny ruffles, black satin shoes and plenty of white muslin underwear, popular at that long ago time.

The pillows on which the doll rests her china head are the work of Mrs. A. J. Butler, and are of the patch-work variety. They represent the tree and the basket design, carried out in daintily flowered percales and white muslin.

The original "Hittie" who inspired the tale is shown in her book as writing with a quill pen and her Orange replica has a brilliant pink quill pen in her hand. Around the doll are grouped the books which have won the Newberry prize since it was instituted in 1021.

These books include "The Story of Mankind," by Hendrick Van Loon, for 1921; for 1922, "The Voyages of Dr. Dolittle," by Hugh Loftus; for 1923, "The Dark Frigate," by Charles Hanes; for 1924, "Tales From Silver Lands," by Charles Finger; for 1925, "Shen of the Sea," by Arthur Crisman; for 1926. "Smoky," by Will James; for 1927, DhanGopal Mukerji's "Gay Neck," and for 1927, E. P. Kelley's "Trumpeter of Krakow."

The original "Hittie," belonged to a little New England girl, Phoebe Preble, and the doll's body was carved from white ash.

The Newberry prize was established by a librarian of London, who had been obliged to read grown-up books as a child and who wished to encourage the writing of children's books, it was said at the library yesterday. Each year a vote is taken and the book is selected by the librarians of the nation.

Churches Forced To Drop Sunday School Services

ORANGE, July 8. — Sunday school for the younger classes of the First Presbyterian and First Methodist churches will be discontinued after convening but one Sunday, July 6, this summer.

The decision to discontinue the classes was reached yesterday and it is expected that they will not be opened again until September. The action was taken by the two churches as a voluntary effort to co-operate with health authorities in preventing the possible spread of infantile paralysis.

Older departments will continue to meet as they have been in the past few weeks.

REV. PEARSON TO PREACH FOR REV. MCAULEY

ORANGE, July 8.—The Rev. M. L. Pearson will occupy the pulpit at the First Presbyterian church during the summer months when the pastor of the church, Dr. Robert Burns McAuley, will be away on a vacation, which he will spend in Colorado, it was learned this morning.

Dr. McAuley expects to return in about two months and will again occupy the pulpit here the first Sunday in September. He will make the trip to Colorado by airplane.

Plans for summer services were completed at the meeting of the church board last night and the evening services will be held in the First Christian church, when members of the Presbyterian congregation will join in the union services now in progress at that edifice on Sunday evenings.

COOKIE PLANT OWNERS OPEN ORANGE STORE

ORANGE, July 8.—A cookie factory has been added to the industries of this city with the reopening of the old cookie plant on South Pepper street. The plant was recently leased by F. W. Hudson of Costa Mesa. The products of the factory are to be sold both at wholesale and retail.

The present equipment of the plant includes one large oven, mixers, trays and pans and 120 dozen cookies may be baked an hour. The plant was formerly operated by Ed Ward who moved to Brea last November.

It is expected that several bakers will be added to the staff of workers and a large variety of cookies made by the concern.

TUSTIN

Mrs. N. L. Edson and son Royce, of Pacific avenue spent last evening in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Humeston and family left last night for Chino, where they will spend two months on a ranch.

Miss Ida Spicer, of A street, accompanied by Dan Grewell, of Orange, left yesterday morning for San Francisco, where they plan to remain a week. They will visit in the Rev. Snider home, former residents of Tustin.

PROVEN RELIEF FOR STOMACH AILMENTS

PEERLESS STOMACAL has afforded thousands of people permanent relief from Ulcers of the Stomach, Gas on the Stomach and other chronic Stomach ailments. It tones up the Stomach, restores a normal, healthly condition, allowing natural digestion to take place. Every person troubled with any form of Stomach disorder should use PEERLESS STOMACAL to correct their condition by removing the CAUSE that produces pain and suffering. A neglected stomach ailment may, if not attended by proper treatment, lead to serious complications. This remedy is especially beneficial in the treatment of Stomach Ulcers.

Valuable Park Land Deeded To Newport Beach

CITY COUNCIL ACCEPTS LOTS FROM R. FRICK

NEWPORT BEACH, July 8.—This city today was in possession of two valuable pieces of property on Balboa Peninsula which may be used for park and beach purposes, following formal acceptance of the deeds by the city council last night. The donor is Robert N. Frick, owner of the Seville tract, most of which was recently sold en bloc to a Los Angeles syndicate.

One lot is a triangular piece of land, surrounded by streets and suitable for a small park. It is lot 73 at Granada avenue and M street, located about a block from the water near the end of the Peninsula. The other is lot 42, on the beach at N street. The total value of the property was given at $14,500.

Much of the building activity experienced here in recent months, causing 1930 building here to be much higher than any former season, was in this vicinity, and much more is anticipated as a result of the purchase by Los Angeles operators of part of the Seville tract. The land was given to the city, it was stated by councilmen who investigated the matter, as a promise was made to lot buyers that they would be given some park space and beach frontage. The most satisfactory manner to handle it was to deed it to the city.

The council last night also approved the assessments on the tract, there being no protests.

Plan Meeting House

This city may soon have a much-needed building to house large meetings and dinner and small conventions, it became known today, following action of the council. The Harbor Post of the American Legion asked the city to deed it a narrow strip of land in front of the Legion Hut on the Bay Front at Tenth street, and the Legion plans, it was stated, to construct a $25,000 building for its own and other public uses.

Want Sewer System

The Newport Heights section presented a petition before the city council last night asking for a sewer system and signed by owners representing 210 lots of the 668 lots in the section. The matter was referred to City Engineer R. L. Patterson, who stated off-hand that the desired improvement will cost about $60 per lot.

Construction of the $410,000 Newport Harbor union high school, now being speeded up so as to be ready for occupancy this fall, and general development of the city and district, has created a demand for the improvement, it was declared.

Some time ago, the city retained the Currie Engineering company, sewer experts, to make a survey of the sewer needs. Their report is no whefore the council. With Lido Isle putting in sewer mains, in connection with the $1,170,000 improvement project there, an entirely new system may be the outcome, it is said.

The council awarded a contract to the Newport Boat Builders, Inc., for the dredging recently asked for north and southeast of Balboa Island, at a price of $8427. The part north of the island will be done first.

Submit Station Plans

City Engineer Patterson also submitted plans for a proposed station for the Pacific Electric and a comfort station at 36th street. Ralph P. Maskey, realty developer, said that the P. E. would co-operate with the city in the matter and intimated that it might pay half the cost. Patterson was instructed to take it up with the railway company.

A petition signed by 44 residents of Balboa Island, asked that a full-time policeman be on duty in that section of the city, particularly during the summer months, and stated that the petitioners preferred Ralph Walterlue, who at present is on duty for both Balboa Island and Corona del Mar. Councilman Hilmer said it was physically impossible for one man to cover both districts and the council authorized Chief R. R. Hodgkinson to hire another man, one to work on Balboa Island and the other in Corona del Mar.

Complaint About Noise

Councilman Claire reported that about 50 complaints had been made to the police during the past week in regard to loud speakers, and Jerome Freeman, manager of the new Balboa Inn, said that some of his guests, who were glad to pay high prices for accommodations here during the summer months, had complained of the loud speakers and about a shooting gallery on Main street. Mayor Johnson promised consideration of the matter.

The council adopted a budget for the year, following a meeting last week at which the figures for all departments were considered.

Must Report Violations

Persons who know of violations of any city ordinance or any other law and who desire the violations stopped should make formal complaints, the city council was told by City Attorney Roland Thompson.

This advice followed a letter written by residents of West Central avenue, who asked whether a workshop at 1051 West Central was lawful. If so, they stated they would allow businesses on their own lots, and if not, they wanted the ordinance enforced. The location in question is in a residence district, it was said, and Thompson said that if such were the case, it was up to those complaining to swear out an information at the office of the city recorder.

OFFICERS MEET AT BEACH CITY ON WEDNESDAY

SAN CLEMENTE, July 8.—More than 100 members of the Orange County Peace Officers' association will gather in San Clemente on Wednesday for the regular monthly meeting of the organization. Mayor Thomas F. Murphine of the Spanish Village will welcome President John Stanton of Tustin and his association. Golf will be played in the afternoon and a banquet served by A. Travaglini at the Golf clubhouse in the evening.

Hal Warner, in charge of arrangements, announces that Billy Hanson will give an exhibition of dancing and that Earl Morrow, manager of the telephone company in the county, will present two of his girl stars in a song and dance number.

TEA TESTER

LONDON, July 8.—Margaret Irving has one of the oddest jobs in England. She is a tea-taster, and the only woman employed in such a capacity in the country. Every day she samples nearly 300 different teas, and she can distinguish every one of them.

NEW FEATURES ON LIGHT FETE PLANNED TODAY

NEWPORT BEACH, July 8.—New features for the Tournament of Lights, and the names of the judges in the various classes, for which handsome prizes are offered, were announced today by H. L. Sherman, general chairman, as final preparations to stage the big illuminated carnival began.

The Richfield Oil company's plane with a Neon sign visible from the ground, will again fly over the bay during the parade, which will begin at 8 p. m. and end about 10 p. m.

This year for the first time, four powerful anti-aircraft army searchlights from Fort MacArthur will light up the skies, while the lighted plane flies around.

With these aerial features to add to the usual brilliant parade of lighted craft in the bay, it is appropriate also that the musical part of this year's program be via the ether, and this as another novelty announced by Sherman today.

To Broadcast Music

The music of Everett Hoagland's Troubadours, playing at the Rendezvous ballroom, Balboa, will be breadcast by remote control by radio station KGER, Long Beach, which is donating the station for the two hours of tournament, to three radio sets on floats in different parts of the parade, and it will be given the spectators through three public address systems on the floats. Interspersed between the musical numbers will be announcements of the parade.

Several more entries in the parade were announced today by W. L. Jordan, chairman of the entries committee. Practically every civic organization in this city, and many outside, will be represented.

Sherman announced that the judges will be six members of the Laguna Beach art colony, who will be guests of the tounament committee at dinner here prior to the parade. They are William A. Griffith, president of the Laguna Beach Art association; W. A. Riddell, Ross Shattuck, Frank Cuprien, Miss Virginia Woolley and Miss Julie Raymond.

Cake and Candy Sale Planned By Humane Society

LAGUNA, BEACH, July 8.—Cakes and candy will be sold by the Laguna Beach Humane Society Saturday, July 19 as a means of raising funds for carrying on the work of the association. It will be held at the office of the Perine-Peak realty company on Coast boulevard. A similar sale held last fall proved very successful. Donations of cakes are being asked.

The summer and fall are the seasons when the society has most to do, as many pets are brought to the city and abandoned by their owners or lost, becoming a charge upon the society. The report of the treasurer, Miss Maud Peek, showed $42.63 in the treasury. The only source of revenue is the $10 allowed each month by the city and the dues of the members. The latter are $1 a year and an invitation is extended to all owners of pets or lovers of pets to become members of the society.

OBJECTIONS TO DANCE DENIED BY H. B. COUNCIL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 8.—Featured by the repeal of the ordinance governing oil derricks, the Huntington Beach city council met last night and considered many important topics.

Prior to consideration of the referendum petition, several matters of interest were disposed of by the council. The J. R. Dennis Construction company which had completed its street paving or resurfacing contract, presented its bill for the balance due under contract and the bill was allowed, with the reservation that the Dennis company post its $2500 bond to guarantee the pavement work for the time specified in the contract. When the bond is posted with the city the contract check will be paid. Dennis had posted a $1500 bond, but the arrangement under the settlement of contract plan provided for a $2500 bond.

Reports of the city clerk and city treasurer showed $512,883.76 cash on hand. Of this sum $196,651.46 is in the general fund. The balance of the cash is mostly bond issues including the $122,000 received from the sale of pier bonds, and not yet paid out.

Ask For Lights

A petition asking for installation of lights on the East Side was received and referred to the light committee composed of Bowen, Conrad and King. The committee will check the light plan with the plan as prepared by the city engineer at the request of the council several weeks ago. Mayor Bowen announced that a speedy determination of this matter would be reached by the council, as the question of East Side lights has been under advisement for several weeks, and has been held up partly through the illness of the city engineer, Merwin Rossen.

A petition for closing the Marathon dance was read by City Clerk Charles R. Furr. The objectors to the dance as shown by the petitions were the W. C. T. U., the T. H. O. class of the Christian church, the Men's Bible classes of the Baptist church and Christian church.

Deny Marathon Objections

The matter caused considerable discussion by the council, each councilman being heard and the mayor also making a statement. The statement of Mayor Bowen was to the effect that he personally had failed to find either entertainment or amusement at the marathon dance, but that the council had already taken action and could not in good faith change its course, unless specific charges set forth were established beyond doubt in the minds of the council.

Councilman King said he had visited the marathon dance and could not see that the objectionable features complained of by the petitioners actually existed. Councilman E. B. Stevens said he had visited the marathon dance and had failed to find any of the objectionable features complained of, that the dance was properly conducted and that he felt the petitioners should investigate for themselves and not base their request on heresay evidence.

Councilman Conrad and Councilman Butcher also made statements that upon hearing complaints from reputable citizens as to what they had heard about marathon dances, they had investigated the dance here and found it not objectionable. At the close of the debate on the dance petition, the council adopted the amendment to the ordinance providing for 1 o'clock closing of dances.

President Osborn of the Chamber of Commerce addressed the council just prior to adjournment and asked that the orchestra concerts at the beach pavilion be continued through July. On motion of Councilman Conrad, seconded by Councilman Butcher, the request for a continuance of the delightful Sunday afternoon orchestra concerts was granted by the council, the concerts do not cost more than $125 each week.

The council voted to send two members of the fire department to the state firemen's convention in Oakland. The report of the fire chief, J. K. Sargeant, for the fiscal year ending June 30, showed the fire loss for the year to have been $18,580, with an insurance coverage of $16,300. There had been 38 alarms compared with 37 in 1929. Eight fires were in the oil field, seven were in homes of citizens, five occurred at apartment houses, two in autos due to shorting in electric wiring systems. The rest were from various causes.

Beach Mayor Celebrates Natal Event

SAN CLEMENTE, July 8.—Mayor Thomas F. Murphine celebrated his birthday yesterday at San Clemente. The mayor was congratulated by his many friends who wished him many more years of health and good golf scores.

Mayor Murphine was visited by Frank Goss of Long Beach, an old time Seattle newspaper friend, and by Henry Carroll, city comptroller of Seattle who is visiting in California. Carroll was comptroller during Ole Hanson's term as mayor and when Murphine was director of public works. Carroll, born in Sacramento, made his first visit to Southern California yesterday.

Chamber Forms Men's Glee Club For Beach Events

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 8.—The chamber of commerce meeting at the Golden Bear cafe at noon Monday, endorsed plans for organization of a men's glee club in the city. At the Womanless Wedding held here recently, many solos by the male cast were enjoyed, and it was evidenced that there are capable men singers in the city and Mr. Proctor suggested the formation of the glee club to promote interest in music and to give the city advertising by singing over radio broadcasting stations.

A meeting will be held next Tuesday night, at the city auditorium to which all men of the city are invited. At this meeting the glee club will be organized.

Why Fat Men Stay Fat

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99 per cent of the men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or 'pep' to keep it off. Lost all interest in any healthy activity and just lazied around accumulating the old pounds until I got that 'Kruschen feeling'."

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate, you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Then watch the pounds slide off! Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water tomorrow morning and every morning—and if they don't change your whole idea about reducing, go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks—at Mateer's Drug Co., and Givens & Cannon, or any progressive druggist anywhere in the world.—Adv.

RAYMER TALKS AT FULLERTON KIWANIS CLUB

FULLERTON, July 8.—"Giving —and Going On" was the subject of an address given by George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, before the Fullerton Kiwanis club yesterday noon at McFarland's cafe.

"If we pull together, Orange county can add $25,000,000 to its industrial development within the next five years with its natural resources and conditions as a basis," the secretary said. "Only with faith, work and co-operative effort can we have this prosperity."

Raymer stressed the idea of co-operation and declared that despite the ups and downs of business and commercial activities the spirit to go ahead was essential and that surveys of various lines showed conditions not as bad as many people believed, but rather much better.

"Tin cups" were the trophies given by Dale King to G. W. Finch and W. A. Goodwin in recognition of the Kiwanis club golf championship attained by reason of a victory as challengers over Phil Damon and Henry Parry in a recent match. A new challenge was immediately made in behalf of the losers, who are seeking to regain their pestige on the links.

Plans for the annual outdoor meeting of the Kiwanis club to take the form of a barbecue in Hillcrest park next Monday at 6:30 p. m. were announced by Harry Maxwell. The families of Kiwanians are also to be included as guests at this meeting.

Beach Police Dog Returns After Scare

SAN CLEMENTE, July 8.—Hypo, police dog of George Alden, San Clemente photographer, is home again. The dog, becoming frightened by firecrackers at Laguna Beach left the car and could not be found. Alden upon arriving home notified Chief of Police L. A. Warren, who got in touch with Chief of Police Johnson of Laguna Beach. The result was that Hypo has been found. He was located on a front porch of an Arch Beach home.

Alden says that Hypo is happy to be home, has lost his nervousness due to firecrackers and that next year he'll take him to Mexico on the Fourth.

SAN CLEMENTE BOYS SMASHUP CAR AT BEACH

SAN CLEMENTE, July 8.—Not a person was hurt within the city limits of San Clemente over the week end, but Valentino Eugenio, house boy for the John B. Callerys', was cut by flying glass and Albert Reyes, house boy for the I. M. Bartows' was shaken up when their car was hit about seven miles south of San Clemente late Sunday night.

A light car driven by Daniel Smith, negro truck driver in the tin can department of Los Angeles, crashed into Eugenio's car. Outside of a shaking up, a few minor cuts and dents in the two cars, there was no damage.

Because of the congressional elections in Mexico on Sunday the border cities were closed tight and traffic started coming north about noon and at no time was there the jam of last year.

HANDLESS POSTMASTER

BELL, Calif., July 8.—This town has a handless postmaster in Charles C. M. McGonegal, 34, a World war veteran. After losing his hands in the war, he returned to this country and secured his present position. With special devices on his arms, he handles the mail, drives an automobile and performs other duties required of his position.

SANTA ANA, LA HABRA IN CRUCIAL GAME

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

Night baseball ought to give itself up if it doesn't offer us a thrill and a throb or two this week. Those who have been following the doings of Santa Ana's Stars know that tonight's game at La Habra and Friday's at Whittier will put the cream in our baseball coffee,—nice, rich cream or nasty, sour cream.

The Violet Rays are mighty tough; Whittier, to my notion, even tougher.

If the Stars slip by both, I don't see what is going to keep 'em out of the playoffs.

We mustn't forget, however, that a week from tonight the Santa Anans draw anything but a soft touch. Long Beach, 1929 champion but a disappointing dud through the first part of this year's race, has been acting like it might do some damage this half itself.

With their offense pretty well shot by the ineligibility of Orv Schuchardt, the Stars will do mighty well to win two of their next three games.

And that brings me to the Schuchardt question, which almost has to be discussed in a column of this kind.

Personally I should rather lay off the subject. These "internal" difficulties always get me down. Still you can't pass up something that is street corner gossip for everybody who knows who the Stars are.

Poor Schuchardt suddenly finds himself in another Santa Ana-Anaheim maelstrom, only this one has a deeper and more significant meaning and there is more at issue than his mere eligibility of ineligibility.

As best as I can assemble the facts, Schuchardt early in the spring conveyed to the Santa Ana management the impression that he wanted to work as soon as his school term was completed.

The employment did not materialize, neither as quickly nor as abundantly as Schuchardt apparently had been led to believe.

In the meantime, other teams learned of Schuchardt's state of mind, began dickering with him. One of them, Anaheim, offered the player a position of some sort at its city plunge.

The work paid $30 a month more than the employment finally offered Schuchardt here. The plunge chores formerly were consummated by Al Bushman, an Anaheim pitcher, who was promoted to another city task when Schuchardt took over his swimming pool duties.

I am not prepared to drive verbal shafts at our friendly enemies. Those who live in glass houses should not disrobe before dark. We've all cast covetous eyes at somebody else's talent in the past. It was not so long ago that Santa Ana would have lassoed Senor Joseph Ochoa and put him out there on the knoll. And I doubt whether Joe Corlenius changed his residence from the sometimes enervating Imperial valley to Santa Ana without at least a wink when the matter of employment was suggested.

The real problem at issue, however, is not one of employment after all. It is whether one club can, by the simple expedient of hanging up a job as bait, draft another's outstanding performers during the heat of a pennant race.

I don't blame Schuchardt for taking care of himself as best he can. That's business acumen. But after his case is disposed of, the league should see that lightning does not strike twice.

There should be a deadline for the trading or peddling of players somewhere along the line, say at the end of the first half of the season. All organized professional baseball leagues have such legislation.

If the National Night league doesn't I don't know how it expects to protect the small cities from the city "slickers" and their more numerous jobs.

EUGENE CORSON WINS CADDIES' GOLF TOURNEY

He had a handsome silver cup, donated by Col. W. C. F. Nicholson, to prove it, and so did Kimball Pratt who had low gross score and was second net to Corson in the caddies' tournament yesterday.

Corson shot a 99-30-69.

Pratt had a card of 80-10-70, good in anybody's league.

Marvin Myers finished third. He shot 90-18-72.

Twenty-six caddies took part in the tournament, the first of its kind ever held on the Santa Ana course. Their scores:

Eugene Corson	99-30—69
Kimball Pratt	80-10—70
Marvin Meyers	90-18—72
Charles Corson	95-20—75
Walter Carruthers	94-18—76

'DARK HORSES' DON'T FIGURE AGAINST JONES

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 8.—When Jones beats them, they stay beaten thereupon and forever henceforth.

There are, roughly speaking, a matter of 150 good men and true working out today over Interlachen's rolling terrain in preparation for the great drama of tionship, starting two days hence. But approximately 145 of them are wasting their dubious time. Only the old guards seem to have a chance with Jones. The old line champions of the past, the Hagens, the Sarazens and the Diegels.

Most Challenges Futile

Gone are the futile challengers that came forward overnight to meet Bobby in man-to-man tests, and as suddenly subsided.

There is no talk here of what Joe Turnesa may do. Everybody knows what Joseph will do, or at least they think they know. He has done nothing with painstaking zeal since the year 1926, when he led Jones in the final nine holes at Scioto and forthwith collapsed, never to be the same again.

Al Watrous furnished another harrowing example of the dire effects that follow in the way of a Jones triumph. In the same year of 1926, Al also led Jones by two strokes with three holes to play in the British open. But Bobby came on to win as only Bobby can, and Watrous, convinced for all time relapsed into an obscurity in which he remains to this day.

Cruickshank

Where is Bobby Cruickshank, who fared forth at Inwood in 1923 to take issue with Jones over another open championship? Cruickshank isn't even in the field this year, having failed to qualify. I would also like to inquire about the activities of Roland Hancock—who practically won the 1928 championship at Olympia Fields—but forgot to keep it won. Roland has been goin the best he can since that memorable day, but his best is pretty much like Kipling's worst.

Al Espinosa Routed

That seems to apply, too, to Al Espinosa, who finished in a dead heat with Jones last year and lived to regret the incident exceedingly. Jones beat him 25 strokes in the play-off, and Espinosa no longer is considered a golfer worthy of real championship consideration.

They say Densmore Shute is playing none too well at the moment, and here is another young man who had Jones beaten only he neglected to make the matter permanent. Shute "blew up" in sight of the finish in 1929 and perhaps his failure to come on as he should this year and at this time can be attributed to the memory of the dramatic and, to him, painful finish at Winged Foot.

Personally, I think not. Shute won the $10,000 Los Angeles open last winter end, if he isn't playing golf now, it probably means nothing, except that he isn't playing golf now.

Shute Has Chance

Of all Jones' victims, this man would seem to have a real chance at Interlachen. It is almost as much as his kind of a course as

Swim Queen Spurns Bids To Turn Pro

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—Gold as a recompense for her unparalleled aquatic achievements holds no appeal for Helene Madison.

The famous Seattle high school girl, who added to her other laurels by breaking four world records at the Long Beach A. A. U. national swimming championships last week, made this plain today in rejecting an offer of $10,000 to turn professional.

An unnamed New York sportsman offered this sum to Miss Madison if she would start a tour with Martha Norelius, 1928 Olympic champion and former holder of several free style records now held by Miss Madison.

PRINTERS NEAR CHAMPIONSHIP IN CITY RACE

Dennis' Printers today were one step nearer their second successive Santa Ana City league night baseball title.

The Typesetters virtually cinched the championship for the first half of the intermural race by beating down the challenge of the Courthouse, 5 to 3, in the Bowl last night.

Frank Nickey's Orange County Builders' exchange troupe is the only one that has a ghost of a show to outfinish the Printers now. The Builders can get a tie for the title by trimming the Auto Club of Orange County Thursday night and the Printers in a "rematch" next week.

The Courthouse proved to be a stubborn foe for Carlyle Dennis' hirelings. Bagging six hits off Bill Humphrey in the first three innings they ran themselves into a 3-3 tie which remained until the Printers came up for their last licks in the seventh. "Spike" Spicer, the Courthouse gunman, had thrown no-hit ball after the second round but he weakened in the final chapter and was rapped for the two runs that meant the game.

The last half of the double-header saw Peek's market win its third straight game after it had begun the season by dropping five in succession. The Auto Club of Orange County was the new victim of the Butchers, the score being 9 to 1.

Wilson Seacord, the Peek pitching phenom, was much wilder than usual and walks had him in hot water several times but he mastered the Clubmen in all the pinches. The Butchers got their runs in clusters off Ed Perry—two in the first, five in the third and two in the seventh. Don Smith hit a home run in the final round.

BIG BAT BRINGS BALL ROOM

Boston has a new Bambino. His name is Walter Berger, and a few years ago you could have seen him on the docks of San Francisco. He was walloping cargoes then; he is punishing pitchers now. And they say he is the best looking National league recruit of the season. The Braves got him from Los Angeles.

SANTA ANA 'BEES' WIN FROM WESTMINSTER, 5-3; TO MEET GARDEN GROVE HERE TONIGHT

By beating Garden Grove in the Bowl here tonight, Santa Ana can go into a tie with Westminster for first place in the Orange County "B" Night Baseball league, little sister of the National league. Kenneth Sturzenger's Shells made this situation possible by winning a hard fought contest from the Westminster Aviators, 5 to 3, at Westminster last night.

A four-run rally in the first of the third put the Santa Ana crew well ahead and Ed Banta was too good a pitcher to let the league-leaders catch up with him. Banta whiffed 10 and stopped Westminster with three hits.

Four successive hits by "Franny" Norton, Lory Walbridge, "Sloat" Dorman and Ora Sands and a triple by Banta after Blower had fanned were responsible for the Shell runs in the third round.

Marvin Johnston's double, "Speed" Hankemeier's sacrifice and a passed ball accounted for the other one in the ninth.

Westminster got its first run in the fifth when Gardner singled and took second on Norton's wild throw, stole third and scored on Sauers' sacrifice. McGuire singled to open the seventh and scored all the way from first on Johnston's error. DeBusk's two-base life on Blower's error and B. Davis' single gave the Aviators their third and last tally in the eighth. In every other frame except the sixth, Banta retired his opposition in order.

The Garden Grove contingent which invades the bowl tonight is led by Charles Anderson and is one of the strongest aggregations in the "B" loop. The Pepper Juniors won the first half of the split schedule and are still factors to be considered this half although thus far they have lost three games against their four victories. Santa Ana has won five and lost one.

CRESS WINS FROM SLABACK ON COURT

Results of nine matches in the Santa Ana summer round-robin tennis tournaments were reported today by Merle Ewell, director.

The only Class A contest paired Johnny Cress, former city champion, and Lester Slaback. Cress won in two hard fought sets, 6-4, 8-6.

Other results:

Class B—G. G. Smith won from F. W. Bettis, 6-1, 6-1; Faris Edgar defeated C. D. Hardesty, 6-1, 6-1; B. O. Scoltlock beat A. Anderson, 6-4, 6-2; Ward Bettis and Harold Smith each had one set when they were forced to retire.

Class C—Regina Devault defeated Mary Ortiz, 6-1, 6-0; Barbara Rurup beat Helen Bowers, 10-12, 6-2, 8-6; May Maag won from Regina Devault, 6-2, 6-4.

Class D—Toby White won from Lewis Wetherell, 6-0, 6-1.

Marshall Meets Stecher In L. A.

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—With the snythetic Pacific Coast heavyweight wrestling championship at stake, Everett Marshall, 220-pound Colorado giant and Joe Stecher, equally large Nebraskan, will meet tomorrow night in a finish bout at the Olympic auditorium.

Sonnenberg, Lewis Draw In Mat Bout

SEATTLE, July 8.—Before a crowd of 9000 fans Gus Sonnenberg and "Strangler" Lewis wrestled through eight ten-minute rounds to a draw last night, each wrestler took a fall.

Lewis, who was the aggressor, took the first fall in the fourth round with a headlock after wearing Sonnenberg down with a series of rabbit punches and headlocks.

YES! NO! BUT TILDEN LIKELY TO SEE ACTION

NEW YORK, July 8.—Although Fitz-Eugene Dixon, captain of the United States Davis cup team, and William Tilden, himself, have declared officially that Tilden will not play with the American tennis team in its 1930 Davis cup matches, it appeared likely today that the tall Philadelphia will be in the line-up when the United States takes the court against France at Roland Garros stadium, July 25, 26 and 27.

Dixon's announcement that Tilden was not a member of the team and not eligible for play was offset by the statement of Joseph W. Wear of Philadelphia, chairman of the Davis cup committee.

Wear said he "had every hope that Tilden will play."

Tilden's statement, in which he revealed that the "one complication" was a contract with a newspaper syndicate to report the Davis cup matches, was counteracted by the offer of the syndicate to release Tilden from his contract.

Wear speaks with unchallengeable prerogative on Davis cup matters, and if he insists that Tilden be named for the team, the United States and Wimbledon champion is certain of a place. However, "Big Bill' may complicate matters by making a test of the U. S. L. T. A. ruling against players reporting tournaments in which they play.

HELEN WILLS MOODY SAILS FOR AMERICA

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., July 8.—(INS)—Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody, four times champion of Wimbledon, sailed for home today aboard the liner Majestic.

"I'll be glad to get back to my home and husband," the tennis star said.

BELL REPLACES SCHUCHARDT IN STAR OUTFIELD

The Stars face La Habra, the wonder club of President George Peterkin's wheel, the club that finished dead last in the first half of the split season and then did a right-about face until at this writing it is crowding Santa Ana for the pacing position.

The one-two teams of the confederacy mix on the La Habra playing field—where there is ample space for everything but fans. Since the biggest crowd of the season should be there at post-time, Santa Ana fans will do well to snatch an early dinner and climb in the family "hoopie" by 7 o'clock.

Game Considered Tossup

When two high class ball clubs get together, and both get smart, clever pitching almost anything is likely to happen—and that is what will happen up La Habra way.

The Violet Rays certainly have pitching. Big, square-shouldered Frank Sabella, better known as Chico, is the Bob Grove of the loop. He puts all his 200 pounds in every throw plateward, and his fast one is faster than McDonnell's, Ochoa's or Morning's.

Santa Ana isn't complaining about its pitching either. Joe Cornelius isn't a fast ball pitcher and gets very few strikeouts but he is a tough hombre to work for runs and that is what counts. Cornelius is wise enough to know he has eight men back of him who can go and get 'em as well as he can strike 'em out. The Stars are the sweetest defensive team in night baseball. Cornelius also has the best catcher in the business. Nobody in the league can hold a candle to the crafty, alert, hustling "Eeny" Wilcox, one time darling of Santa Ana football crowds.

Bell Replaces Schuhardt

The Stars are a bit handicapped for the fray, it is true.

Orv Schuchardt, the finest defensive outfielder in the legaue and one of its most dangerous batsmen, is no longer with the team. He is under suspension pending a hearing of circumstances attending his recent "jump" to the ranks of the Anaheim Valencias.

Schuchardt will be missed, of course, but not as badly as might be estimated at first blush.

Manager Herb Salveson has a high class ball player to replace Schuchardt. His name is John Randolph Bell, a fellow who would have been a regular with any other outfit in night baseball anyway.

Salveson intends to shift the brilliant Wayne Nelson to center field and put Bell in left, a post the big boy played through the entire term of 1928 when Santa Ana won the Southern California title.

Merrill In Right Field

"Rosy" Merrill stays put in right field.

It is doubtful whether the club will even miss Schuchardt defensively. Nelson makes all kinds of sensational catches himself and Bell, a long striding player who covers an amazing lot of territory with little effort, has made only one error in three years. Furthermore, they are both better throwers than Schuchardt.

But when it comes to batting Schuchardt is Schuchardt and he will be missed—plenty. You can't take a .450 hitter out of the lineup in any league and not know it.

Salveson has made no official announcement about his plans but it is understood he will use Bill Hunter at third base instead of "Scotty" Scott. The latter is in a batting slump and it is doubtful whether he would snap out of it against the kind of pitching the Stars will look at tonight.

Daley May Lead Off

Bill Cole will be at first base, Leavitt Daley second and "Memphis" Hill short.

Either Hill or Daley will head the batting order. They will be the one-two men whichever starts it. Merrill probably will mace third with the hard-hitting Nelson fourth. After them it is problematical.

When you look at the records you have to hand it to La Habra.

The Violet Rays were terrible during the first half of the race. It may be said now that some of the big shots in the league were afraid the club would get discouraged and throw up the sponge in midstream.

But the oil company that is sponsoring the team, didn't quit. It just went out and got a ball team and now the Violet Rays are playing to full houses all over the circuit.

Dangerous Batsmen

Led by Pussic, Rady, Johnson and Young, all well known hardball players, the La Habra gang is liable to make a flock of runs any time it goes to the post. The boys didn't hit much at first because night ball pitching looked different to them than the Sunday afternoon brand but now that they are getting accustomed to the fast ones they are doing lots of damage.

If they get by the undefeated Stars tonight you can bet your U.S.C.-Stanford football ticket the Rays are going to be the ones to whip for that little old streamer.

The Whittier-Olive conflict at Olive looks to be the best of the other games on the schedule. Olive is always hard to beat and has a good chance to win from the Quakers who haven't been so invincible this half.

Anaheim Plays Oilers

Fullerton plays at Garden Grove where the Peppers will be heavy favorites.

'DARK HORSES' HAVE NO CHANCE IN OPEN

it is Jones', or Deigel's, or Sarazen's, or Hagen's. He has the golf, he can come from behind, he can stay in front. This would seem to leave him little to do, except for the slight formality of winning the open championship.

However, Jones must look to the challengers he has known through his great seven years of prosperity, for the man, if any who is to say him "nay" in this championship, of the younger school, only Shute and Horton Smith, and possibly Ed Dudley have a white man's chance. Otherwise, it will be strictly up to Hagen, Sarazen, and Diegel to furnish the challenge, or according to most accounts there will be none at all.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Paavo Nurmi, the Flying Finn, says he should have run 20 seconds faster when he broke the six-mile record over in England recently . . . and declared he will win the Olympic marathan in Los Angeles in 1932 in spite of what Clarence De Mar or any other American marathoners have to say about it . . . two pitchers who hurled for the 1914 champion Braves are still active along the New England baseball front . . . Dick Rudolph was managing Portland and Lefty Tyler was an umps before the league blew up . . . the Athletics average 28 years of age . . . the Cardinals average 31 years . . . the last year in which Brooklyn won a pennant was 1920 . . . Ken Holloway, the pitcher the Yankees recently acquired from Cleveland via the waiver route, said that as long as he had to leave the Indians, he was glad he was going to New York . . . you would be, too, Algernon.

FORTY DAYS, $40,000

The bull market has seen sensational advances, but Pacific Coast league ivory salesmanship has the Stock Exchange looking like a blind man selling pencils.

The Giants bought a ball player from the Missions recently, sending to the coast in return cash and ball players in the amount of $40,000.

The player was Harry Rosenberg, and he had been playing professional baseball two days short of six weeks. Forty days, $40,000. That's a gain of $1000 a day for 40 days, starting from nothing. It's big business.

The Misisons took the young outfielder from the sandlots. Walter Christensen, former Yank, was playing in the outfield. In no time at all, Rosie demonstrated the kind of class that Manager "Red" Killefer couldn't ignore. Rosie was placed in the outfield and hit .380.

And McGraw has picked up another Jewish ball player. He thought he had one before in young Andy Cohen, who was a sensation when McGraw first took him on. Probably, however, Rosenberg will spend two years more in the minors before he starts appearing regularly in a Giant uniform.

HARD TIMES? HUH!

A long about this time of year, the bullish market on the coast picks up, no matter how hard times are in other lines.

Sacramento sold Meryl Hoag to the Yankees for sums reported to range between $40,000 tnd $75,000.

Now Oakland has a young third baseman to peddle named Johnny Vergez, who is said to be a real ball player. You can bet anybody all the cranberries on Cape Cod that if he is a real ball player, it will take real money to bring him from the coast. They say the Oakland team would be satisfied with 100 grand for Mr. Vergez. The line forms to the right.

HOAG'S UPS AND DOWNS

Hoag is said to be a better ball player than Rosenberg right now, but he isn't due to report until next spring. He has the smallest feet in baseball, wearing a 5 1-2 shoe. He has been among the first 10 hitters in the Coast league all season.

Hoag comes from a baseball family, his home being at Davis, Calif. His grandfather, father and three uncles were good ball players. He is a son of Tracy Hoag, whose pitching will be remembered by big league fans of another generation. Meryl is 21.

Lewis Moreing, owner of the Sacramento club, signed Hoag three times before the youngster clicked. In 1927 Moreing sent Hoag to Pocatello, and Manager Bill Leard gave him the once-over and sent him on his way. Moreing signed him again and sent him to Twin Falls, also in the Utah-Idaho league. The next spring he reported to Sacramento and Moreing handed him an unconditional release. But in 1928, in the winter league, Hoag played like a demon on wheels and he was signed again.

Released three times in two years and now a big shot! That's how it goes.

Townsend Favored To Defeat Medill

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—Billy Townsend, Vancouver lightweight, will be a 7 to 5 favorite to whip Joey Medill, chunky little Chicago battler when the two clash over the 10-round route at the Olympic.

The flashy Canadian, whose lightning-like lefts have scored a half dozen sensational knockouts in the past few months, is given the pre-match nod mainly on his ability to hit. Medill is a better boxer.

PLANE TAXIS

BERLIN, July 8.—A cheap airplane-taxi service is in effect in Germany. Single-engineered machines are used and the charge is about 25 cents a mile, regardless of the number of passengers carried. These air-taxis will serve as transports to any place on the Continent.

RADIO NOVELTY TO GREET KREG FANS THURSDAY

A riot of fun, with plenty of novelties and lots of "work" for the announcer, will greet KREG listeners Thursday night when Kansas Kal's Old Timers, begin a new feature performance on the Santa Ana radio station.

One of the most versatile radio groups on the air, the entertainers will play guitar, violin, steel guitar, banjo, mandolin and harmonica numbers in various arrangements. They will appear as soloists, will play duets and trios and present numerous instrumental numbers.

The Old Timers have no consideration for the announcer ,it is said, and pick on him at intervals, as part of the fun. They also spring plenty of "gags" on each other when the announcer has had all he can stand.

Suggestions for a name for the group will be received by KREG after the first program, Thursday from 9 to 10 p. m.

The three men making up Kansas Kal's Old Timers have a repertoire of over 250 numbers and will welcome requests. They have played over KMBC, Kansas City; KFWC, Pomona, and KFXM at San Bernardino.

CORY OUTLINES GRAIN GROWING IN KREG TALK

Editor's Note—The complete text of the talk by Acting Farm Advisor W. M. Cory, of which a portion is printed below, will be found on the farm page of the Register next Saturday.

In an address over KREG last night Acting Farm Advisor W. M. Cory talked on the economic importance of grain growing in Orange county. He pointed out that it was the first major crop here and that today, despite shifts to fruit and nuts made possible by irrigation, grain still returns to growers annually a gross sum of approximately $500,000. The crop occupies about 35,000 acres.

Production costs are somewhat higher than in other parts of the state due to the rolling character of the land, which prevents use of larger equipment and attendant lower operating costs. But growers are meeting the problem through crop rotation and use of selected varieties of seed. Sometimes the land is summer fallowed, clean cultivated, alternate years, tending to destroy foul weeds.

Cory outlined the variety test plots which have been maintained since 1922 to determine the best type of seed to use. Each variety is tested for five years. Two dozen varieties of wheat, barley and oats have been tested. He said that observations have showed that Oregon Club Mariout, Hero and Tennessee winter barleys have stood the test of time. Escondido and Early Baart wheat have gained recognition as the highest yielding wheat varieties, and Kanota oats have proved good, he said. Variety selection has proved its worth in increased yield. A given variety is observed closely after it is adopted as a field crop.

Growers at present are looking into the feasibility of changing over to bulk handling of grain in place of using sacks, as at present. In some sections the change has resulted in considerable saving in harvesting costs.

POPULAR KREG ENTERTAINERS TO BROADCAST

Musical programs by the Evelyn Vee Gaylord School of Singing and Dancing, Brewer's Kentucky Wanderers, the Cornhuskers, Doc and Ray Vibra Banjo Duo and Dorothy McMillan Wright, accordionist, will be offered over KREG tonight in addition to other popular features.

From 6 to 6:30 p. m. the Evelyn Vee Gaylord school entertainment will be on the air. The Kentucky Wanderers will be heard from 6:30 to 7 p. m., the Cornhuskers will broadcast from 8 to 8:30 p. m., Doc and Ray will play from 8:30 to 9 p. m. and Dorothy McMillan Wright will entertain from 9 to 9:30 p. m.

The children's hour, from 4 to 5 p. m., with Inez Moore, will be followed by the Shoppers' Guide, with music, from 5 to 5:45 p. m., after which news of the day will be read from 5:45 to 6 p. m.

Following the Evelyn Vee Gaylord and Kentucky Wanderers programs the Santa Ana Merchants entertainment, under the direction of Marie Dolor, featuring orchestra numbers, will be on the air.

The selections by the Cornhuskers will be heard on Steiner's Lawn Mower Shop program, from 8 to 8:30 p. m. Following this program and those given by Doc and Ray and Dorothy McMillan Wright, the American dance marathon contest at Huntington Beach will be put on the air by remote control from 9:30 to 10:30 p. m.

Earle's Condition Reported Better

William H. Earle, KREG technician, who was taken ill Sunday night, was improving today and is expected to return to his duties in the near future. Earle was able to come to the radio station for a few minutes yesterday but returned to his home immediately.

He will rest and recuperate before assuming his duties again. Phillip L. Peterson, of KGER, is working as technician during Earle's absence.

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—After waiting 16 years, Charles Arthur has filed suit for divorce here. He charged that shortly after they were married he returned home to find his wife with another man.

IS THIS YOU
five years from now?

When tempted to over-indulge
"Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

*An investigation conducted by the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors and the Actuarial Society of America revealed the fact that the death rate increases practically 1% for every pound of excess weight carried between the ages of 40 and 44 years. In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

PEOPLE'S PAPER FOR ALL ORANGE COUNTY — DAILY EVENING

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

SECTION TWO — SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, JULY 8, 1930 — PAGES ELEVEN TO EIGHTEEN

Citizens' Beach Association Officers Are Elected

ALFRED GUY IS PRESIDENT OF ORGANIZATION

The Citizens' Beach association of Orange county today had become a permanent organization to fight for preservation for public use of all the beach frontage possible along the Orange county shore line.

Permanent organization was perfected at a meeting of the association held last night at the school house at Capistrano Beach.

Selection of one vice-president from each city and community in the county is contemplated as a later activity of the association for strengthing its influence, according to the president, who pointed out that residents of the interior are more vitally interested in the objects of the association than are residents of the beach districts. Members from interior communities also will be developed. Some prominent Mexican also will be named as a vice-president so that this element in the county may be represented in the organization.

Dues were established at $1 a year. The membership now is approximately 100, according to Guy.

In discussing the purposes of the association last night, the president emphasized the point that it was not fighting any particular person or corporation, but that it was waging a campaign against monopolization of public beaches by private individuals or corporations.

Stuart Lucas, who is a candidate for nomination as supervisor for the fifth supervisorial district, was present, and he stressed the point of needed activity for maintenance of open beaches.

The association will meet at the Capistrano Beach school house at 8 p. m., July 18.

NEW MECHANICAL MAN

SCOUTS LEAVE FOR OUTING AT ROKILI TODAY

Forty-three boys went into Camp Ro-Ki-Li this morning for 10 days. Boy Scouts from Santa Ana who entered were: Johnny Griset, Richard Gilliland, Robert Fowler, Dick Geeting, Alfred Eastman, Franklyn A. Munsell, Carroll Joy, Weston Sprague, Charles Downie, Robert Lee Wilbur, Arthur Salisbury, Stanley K. Smith, Lawrence Smith, Alex Lowe, Donn V. Hart. Those going from Tustin were Carl Allison, John Haskell, Reynold Bullock, Arthur Nissen, Peter Plumb.

From Costa Mesa and Newport those who went were Leonard Collins, Calvin Warner, Donald Stevens, Jack Dodge, Wilford MacDonald and Charles Langmade. From Laguna Beach, William Walter and Hubert Piety went to camp; from Orange, Oswald Thomson and Loren Gillogly went in; from Brea, Yorba Linda and Fullerton, Herbert Warren, Lloyd Whipp, Paul Whipp, Robert Townsend, Warren C. Shaw jr., Crval Smith, Norman Andrew, Lyle Blystone and Walter Zeigler went to camp.

Boys who are staying over from last period are Hal T. Smith, James Pegues, Robert Hull and Wm. L. MacArthur. The fourth and last period opens July 18th. Already quite a number of boys have signed up and applications are coming in every day according to George Walker, scout executive.

B. & P. W. CLUB WILL MAINTAIN YOUTH IN CAMP

Among business matters arising for discussion at yesterday's meeting of Business and Professional Women at St. Ann's Inn, was that of continuing in their support of a youth at the Orange County Health camp in the valley near Irvine park. The club members were unanimous in their decision to continue this activity, and the president, Mrs. Hazel Northcross, stated that the board would take up the matter of raising funds to continue the work, and present its plans to the membership as a whole, at an early date.

It also was announced that at next Monday's meeting, the club would be asked to vote on the requested increase of federation dues from the present 75 cents per member, to one dollar.

Mrs. Laura McNaught, chairman, Miss Mayme Brightwell, Dr. Mary E. Wright, Fredda Moesser Barger and Mrs. Rae House comprise the program, and Mrs. McNaught stated that they had equally interesting features in store for remaining Mondays of the month. She asked Dr. Kright to outline plans for the social meeting which will be held Monday night, July 21. The clubwomen will motor to the English tavern on Whittier boulevard for a 6:30 o'clock dinner, during which Rae House will present a fashion show. The after dinner entertainment will be provided by Dr. Stewart Fish, of Pasadena, who will show his motion pictures of a European trip.

Mrs. McNaught introduced a group of the city's talented young artists for the day's entertainment, Miss Mary Hendietta Nau, pianist; Miss Betty Smedley and Robert Forcey, violinists, and Miss Henriette Morris, reader.

With Mary Henrietta at the piano, Betty and Robert played Dancla's "Second Symphony" and "Moonlight and Roses. Robert then played two solo numbers with Betty as his accompanist, "Indian Snake Dance" by Burleigh, and "Berceuse" by Delbruck. Everyone was impressed with the musicianship shown by each individual young artist.

No less pleasing was the monologue given by Harriette Morris, who read "Portrait of a Lady Talking to an Actress" and as an encore, "Sign Wanted," an amusing Italian sketch by T. A. Daley.

SEES AFTER 30 YEARS

Speeding autos, modern styles, airplanes and the telephoto amazed J. F. Fish, founder of a Chicago business college, when he recovered his sight after 30 years of blindness, but his biggest thrill came when he saw his bride, as pictured here, for the first time since their honeymoon. His sight began to return gradually a few days ago.

TUSTIN C. OF C. TO HEAR FROM BEACH SPEAKER

SAN CLEMENTE, July 8.—J. C. Herbsman, San Clemente lecturer, will deliver an address before the Tustin Chamber of Commerce at 8 p. m., Wednesday, in the Knights of Pythias building. Herbsman is making the talk in place of Ole Hanson, who was called to the southwest on business and will be gone two weeks on a tour of Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona.

Herbsman is scheduled to speak before the San Diego Realty board at noon on Wednesday and will drive from that meeting to talk at Tustin in the evening.

POSTPONE MEETING

SUNSET BEACH, July 8.—Due to the fact that the Fourth of July fell on the first Friday of the months, which is the regular meeting night of the Sunset Beach Cmamber of Commerce, the meeting was postponed until the following Friday night, at which time new officers will be elected.

CONDITIONS IN S. A. BUILDING ARE CRITICIZED

Following charges by W. W. Chandler, county sanitary inspector, that Mrs. Emma French, owner of business structures on the northeast corner of Fourth and Main streets, had refused to comply with directions of the health department to make certain improvements in sanitary conditions, the city council last night instructed Chandler to submit his charges in writing in order that the council may proceed to force the improvements recommended.

The buildings recently were inspected by the fire chief, the sanitary inspector, city electrician, plumbing inspector and building inspector, and recomendations were made at the time for replacement of a portion of the flooring under the foundation at the Kelly drug store, a change in the location of the kitchen at the drug store, extension to the ceiling of a partition separating rest rooms on the upper floor, and other corrections of asserted unsafe and unsanitary conditions existing in the group of buildings owned by Mrs. French.

City Attorney C. D. Swanner advised the body that the buildings could be closed if sanitary conditions were such as to create a menace to public health.

The Nash-Ward Motor company was awarded a contract for furnishing the city with a Reo truck and L. D. Coffing was given the contract for delivering a Dodge Brothers truck. The bid on the Reo was $2942 and on the Dodge $2519.15.

The Hollywood Paving company was given the contract for paving Shelton street, from First to Fairview, on its bid of $17,929. The engineer's estimate was $20,183. The street to be improved with a four-inch asphaltum concrete pavement. B. G. Ford, general manager of the company, said that his concern is going to build a plant at Capistrano for mixing and heating the "black pavement" and that the heated mixture would be hauled here from the plant.

The planning commission renewed its recommendation that the jog in Bush street at Tenth be eliminated. City Engineer Clyde Jenken reported that plans for the improvement, formerly under consideration, had not been completed.

The street department was directed to post the northeast corner of Sixth and Birch streets giving notice that a hearing would be held in the council chambers on Monday evening on an application by the First Christian church for permission to erect a church building on the corner.

Requet of Captain C. J. Cain, of Company L, for an appropriation of $200 to the company's mess fund, was taken under advisement. The company is going into the annual summer training camp on July 18, and Capt. Cain said the money was needed to supply additional kitchen equipment. Giving assurance that the company would not make a similar request in the future, the commanding officer said that while the company is under his command there will never again be an appeal to the public for donations to the mess fund. He said the extra money for special use at training camps would be secured by a series of entertainments, including dances.

An ordinance was adopted providing new schedules of rates for water services. The minimum monthly charge is reduced 25 cents on each classification of service. It is estimated the reduction will save water consumers $24,000 annually.

The council voted to use approximately $500 of the city auto money for an appropriation to the expense of widening and paving East First street. Anticipating that the board of supervisors would assist in the work to the extent of $7000, the council provided for this sum in the resolution of intention declaring the necessity of the improvement. The board of supervisors agreed to bear one-fourth of the cost of the paving and made an appropriation of $6515.

It was necessary for the council to either make up the difference between the two amounts or start the improvement proceedings again. In order not to delay the work, the council chose to make up the difference, which is about the equivalent of what it would cost to institute new proceedings.

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for a sedan not to cost more than $800. The sedan is needed for the fire department, according to announcement.

DEAF PATRONS TO HEAR SOUND FILMS

A device by which deaf persons can hear as well as see talking motion pictures has been installed in the Fox Broadway theater and is now in operation, according to an announcement made today by Norman Sprowl, Santa Ana manager of the Fox theaters.

The "deaf sets," as they are called, have been installed in 15 different seats in the Fox Broadway theater in various places. Persons who cannot hear are given these seats, together with head phones, and through wiring that runs from the talking instrument itself to the seats, the patrons can hear every word that is spoken.

The invention, recently announced in Los Angeles, was immediately installed in the larger Los Angeles theaters. The Chinese theater at Hollywood was the first to use them, and the success of the instruments has made their usefulness apparent.

Sprowl has had men working here for the past several days installing the "deaf sets" and the work was completed yesterday.

Patrons of the theater who are deaf are requested to leave $1 as a deposit at the box window when they purchase their tickets. Then they are given the ear phones. The phones are connected to the seat and the patron hears.

The invention is a product of the Western Electric company, and has been perfected after years of research. It is believed it will open up a new world to persons whose hearing is not good, and to many persons who never have heard a talking picture it will come as a revelation.

There is nothing intricate about the new invention so far as the patron is concerned. Ushers will attach the ear phones to the seats and the patron has nothing to do but go to the show and enjoy the performance.

MARATHON PASSES 274 HOUR MARKER

The American contest being held at Third and Ocean streets, Huntington Beach at 9 a. m. yesterday was in the 274th hour, with eight couples still going round and round.

The early morning hours find a varied number of positions and facial expressions, for it is at this time the boys and girls show their tiredness and try to ease their body weight from side to side.

Many of these contestants are known from the Santa Ana and Bell marathons. The eight remaining couples are Edna Stewart and Freeman Moore; Bernice Curtis and Al Atherton; Alice and Eddie Lyons; Donna Stimson and James Johnson; Ruth Strain and Harry Bachelor; Hazel Ross and Shafer Kreuter; Babe Priddy and Lorenz Krimeyer, and Marie Bott and Harry Le Fever.

If you are unable to attend this contest, tune in on station KREG at 9:30 p. m. and hear the broadcast direct from the dance arena, conducted by Master of Ceremonies Al Stefens.

There is at all times free public dancing with the price of admission.

Yachting News

BY S. H. LUCAS

The schedule for the coming week calls for a girls snowbird race on Thursday, July 10. As several competent sailor lassies are now summering around Newport Bay, this event should not only bring out a good entry, but prove an enjoyable spectacle to view from the gallery of the Newport Harbor club house.

A sufficient number of snowbirds will be provided so that all entries can be supplied with boats. This event starts at 1:15 p. m.

Fifteen minutes later at 1:30 p. m. the Bay Sloop handicap will start. It is the wish of the regatta committee to make this event a thoroughly enjoyable one. This race can be participated in by any one on the bay, whether affiliated with any club or not. Star boats are barred. It is hoped that any boy or girl with a boat will enter one of these events as it is the desire of the club officials to foster boating at Newport Bay, and these races are to provide opportunities for non-club members to get into the game. All are welcome.

On July 11th will be another of the ladies bridge luncheons that have proved so popular with the members in the past.

Saturday, July 12th, has a snowbird race at 1:15 and the star event starts at 2:30.

One of John's special dinners will be served Saturday night, and the Tournament of Lights takes place that evening. Informal dancing will be provided for the members and guests after 8 p. m., and the week end promises to be a full one.

Sunday sees the second of the elimination races at 1:30 over the outside course, while the second performance handicap for cruisers is scheduled for 1:20. The snowbirds race at 1:15 over the inside course.

COULD HARDLY DO HER WORK

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mission, Tex.—"I have used a good deal of your medicine and always find it gives wonderful help. I was feeling so weak and miserable that I had to lie down very often and I could hardly do my housework. I read in the paper how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women who were in the same condition so I said I will try it for myself. I am very much better now and I recommend this medicine, and will answer letters from women asking about it."—Mrs. J. W. Albertson, 1015 Miller Avenue, Mission, Texas.

YOUR HEALTH

Will Never Be Better Until Certain Necessary Corrections Have Been Made

DO YOU have one bowel action a day? DO YOU ever pass a jelly like substance, called mucus? If so then the SOURCE of your trouble is in the intestines, and you are in need of our COMPLETE INTESTINAL HYGIENE.

YOU may have constipation, or, worse yet, mucus and toxic poisons in the intestines and toxemia in the blood. After these poisons have spread into the blood streams they can manifest themselves in Rheumatism, Arthritis, or other chronic ailments. And regardless of whether it's one or the other, it's still coming from and being fed and maintained by the INTESTINAL AILMENT. This is the BIGGEST fact in chronic ailments, and since this fact is fixed in your mind you will have the "KEY" to the situation and will no longer spend your money on AIMLESS METHODS. THINK IT OVER AND SPEND YOUR MONEY WISELY, for these are facts that you will come to "sooner or later."

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Stoval, among the earliest of the July newlyweds, are receiving the congratulations and good wishes of a host of friends, upon their nuptials which took place Saturday evening, July 5, in this city.

Mrs. Stoval was Miss Eugenia Davenport, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rennie, 615 Wellington avenue. Mr. Stoval is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stoval of Los Angeles. Their wedding was a quiet affair taking place in the First Presbyterian manse, with the pastor, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, reading the service.

Miss Davenport wore a graceful gown or orchid georgette fashioned modishly on long flowing lines. She was attended by her sister, Miss Alive Davenport, while William Poh jr. of Tustin, and Cecil Beard of Los Angeles, completed the wedding party. Only members of the family circle were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoval will be in this city for a limited time at the home of the bride's parents, but expect to make their home in Los Angeles.

Chiropractics Plan Irvine Park Party

Plans for a big picnic of members and their families of Auxiliary No. 22 of the California unit, American Bureau of Chiropractic are being made, with the date of Thursday, July 10, selected for the event, which is to be held in Irvine park. Each family will provide for its own picnic fare for the supper to be enjoyed as a sequel to a lively afternoon of games and contests. Among the games will be a baseball match between the men, captained by Dr. James Workman, and the women, with Dr. Estelle Workman as their captain. The losing side will furnish ice cream for the winners.

A feature of the program will be the talk by A. W. Griewe, a layman, who will give his interpretation of the initiative bill now being circulated to repeal the present chiropractic law. Guests are being welcomed to the affair which promises to be one of the most successful meetings of the auxiliary.

The picnic supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

Angelenans Conclude Holiday Visit Here

Concluding an enjoyable holiday week-end visit with Dr. and Mrs. A. Karl Loerch, 2648 North Main street, Miss Wyla Norton and Norman Doyle have returned to their homes in Los Angeles.

Dr. and Mrs. Loerch, whose marriage was a June event of much interest, had planned a delightfully informal program for their house-guests, including a Fourth of July spent at Laguna Beach, where they dined at Las Ondas, and exciting rounds of golf for each morning of their stay.

Susannah Bixby Bryant Son and Heir to Wed At Early Date

When Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Albert Bryant of 3210 West Adams street, Los Angeles, and Rancho Santa Ana, Orange county, return in mid-July from their extended European trip, and Mrs. Bryant, better known in this vicinity as Susannah Bixby Bryant, again assumes management of the famous Rancho Santa Ana in Santa Ana canyon, they will be greeted by news of the marriage plans of their son, Ernest Albert Bryant jr., and Miss Judy Tilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Tilt of Pasadena.

During the absence of Dr. and Mrs. Bryant, Ernest Bryant jr., has made his home on the Long Beach ranch, managing the affairs of that property, a part of the famous Bixby holdings of the district. He is a graduate of Williams University, and active in Southland social circles, especially the exclusive Bachelors' club of Los Angeles.

His fiancee, Miss Tilt, a Vassar graduate, is one of the most popular of the younger society girls of Pasadena and Los Angeles, and was one of the organizers of the Spinsters' club, which plays important part in Los Angeles' social life equal to that of the Bachelors' club. The betrothal of the young people was announced at the time of the latest Bachelors' ball, but yesterday Mr. Bryant and his pretty fiancee appeared at the city hall in Los Angeles, and filed their notice of intention to marry. The wedding date was not revealed however, and it was suggested that it would not take place until the return of Dr. and Mrs. Bryant. Two of the most prominent families in the Southland will be united in the ceremony.

Rancho Santa Ana comprises thousands of acres amidst the rolling hills of Santa Ana canyon, and the home erected there within the past two years, is one of the most interesting in the coutny. Mrs. Bryant plans to make the ranch one upon which every species of flora indigenous to the Southland, will find a setting, and it promises to be a botanist's paradise.

Harbor Yacht Club Was Setting for Holiday Festivities

Summer holiday celebrations at Newport Harbor Yacht club are always pleasurable events, and it was especially delightful that the first of the season's weekly luncheons should be an event of Friday afternoon, supplying in the stead of the Fourth's noisy confusion, a retreat where members and guests might enjoy the holiday quietly. The luncheon was the beginning of an exceedingly busy three days in the clubhouse, for many were the parties given Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Hostesses at the colorful luncheon were Mrs. Carolyn Heseman of Riverside, mother of Commodore Leon Heseman, and Mrs. Andrew Wilson, wife of Staff Commodore Wilson, Newport Beach.

Especially enjoyable was the afternoon of bridge, with Mrs. J. Hutton of Los Angeles, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Ross Noble, winning high score in contract, and Mrs. Alice Kerr in auction.

The activities on the bay, with the put-put of the speed boats, the plash of waves against stately yachts, and the brilliant blue of the sky, flecked with filmy clouds, all had their part in delighting the guests, as did the quiet dignity of the clubhouse itself, with the spirit of hospitality which is so evident there.

Many of those present at luncheon remained for a dinner party in the evening, followed by the informal dance which drew a large crowd of participants. Saturday, too, was a favored day for social gatherings of all varieties, and the dining room and deck were crowded with gay groups. Mrs. A. D. Knupplo and Mrs. Edward H. Kelley, of Los Angeles, were co-hostesses to groups of young people both Friday and Saturday evenings, with dinner served in the ballroom. Mrs. Walter Hubbard, also of Los Angeles, was a hostess of Saturday evening.

The usual informal dance on Saturday night came as a fitting climax to the exciting holiday events, and as an introduction to a more quiet though equally enjoyable celebration on Sunday.

Erroll Barnes Home Was Scene of Gay Reunions

The delightful hospitality of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erroll Barnes, at 1114 South Birch street, was extended to a number of friends and relatives over the holidays, two different groups sharing the pleasures planned by the hosts.

Coming as a fitting celebration of the "Glorious Fourth" was the first of these, when friends were invited to spend the day in the Barnes home. A delicious luncheon was served at noon, followed by an afternoon of such pleasures as always are enjoyed by a group of intimate friends. When evening drew near, a sumptuous dinner was served outdoors, and was reminiscent of several years ago when members of the party had shared various picnic outings together. Fried chicken and home-made ice cream were favorites on the menu.

Those present other than the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, were Messrs. and Mesdames Lloyd Sutar, Kenneth Thomas and daughter Beverley, G. Jones and son Raymond, and Edward Secrist, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Johnson and Mrs. Clara Barnes, of this city.

Sunday evening marked the second of the week-end parties in the Barnes' home, when a group of friends had been invited to share a most appetizing dinner in the evening. A variety of colorful blooms from the home gardens provided a pretty setting. Forrest Smith, one of the guests, and the host were especially interested in discussing earlier days, for their friendship was founded a score of years ago in Los Angeles.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Smith and children, of Colton; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Snyder and daughter Norma, of Brea; Mrs. Clara Barnes, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes.

Chicagoans Were Taken On Tour of Beaches By Local Hosts

In entertaining friends from Chicago over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Erickson of 1041 West Sixth street, were extending more than the hospitality of their cozy home, they were displaying the delights of the western coast to a happy group who are planning to make their home here in a very few months.

The guests, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lemke, and Mrs. M. Fresha, motored to California from the "Windy City," and have remained here for about a month exploring the varied delights of the Pacific coast. They arrived at the Erickson home on Friday, and from that time on until Sunday evening they were visiting various beaches, Friday was spent at Long Beach, Saturday at Newport and Balboa, and Sunday at Laguna. The last destination was the only one that held nothing but interest and pleasure for the travelers, for there they witnessed the terrible airplane accident which took the life of a prominent citizen of Beverly Hills. Shortly after this they started on their journey homeward to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lemke and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lemke are planning to become Californians just as soon as their business interests will permit.

SUNSET BEACH

Misses Rosalie Phillips of the Los Angeles junior college, and Catherine Phillips, of Los Angeles, were the charming young hostesses at a house party held at their beach home here. The guests were Misses Peggy Wade of U.S.C.; Agnes Barrett, U.C.L.A., and Tom Law, Mark Herrington and Russ Collins.

Redondo Beach Home Was Setting for A. D. Party

Mrs. Floyd Lyman, a former resident of this city, was a gracious hostess recently, when she entertained members of the A. D. club at an evening party in her lovely home in Redondo Beach. Bridge was played, and when scores were added it was revealed that Mrs. Louis Rohrman of Los Angeles, held high score, receiving as the prize a pair of much coveted hand-embroidered pillow cases. Mrs. Dean Campbell of this city, was awarded a charming set of bridge tallies and score pads as holder of second high score. Miss Gladys Young was consoled with a chiffon dance handkerchief.

During the refreshment hour, the card covers were exchanged for white linens, which were centered with velvety red roses. Little red and white nut cups bearing American flags completed the patriotic color scheme.

Those present other than the hostess, Mrs. Lyman, were Miss Gladys Young, Mrs. George Seba, Mrs. Harry Milligan and Mrs. Dean Campbell, of this city; Mrs. George Harris of Bellflower, Mrs. Louis Rohrman of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Noble McBride of Long Beach.

Bridge Group Enjoys Pot-luck Luncheon

Mrs. Leland Eubank was hostess to a little group of bridge club members recently, when she entertained in her home on North Bristol street. The interesting afternoon began with a pot luck luncheon served at the dining doom table which was gay with a variety of summer blossoms, pastel-toned gladioluses predominating.

In the bridge game which followed, Mrs. Roy Ivans, a guest of the day, held high score, Mrs. Daisy McGee, second high, and Mrs. William Batt, low. All were awarded attractive prizes.

Those present were Mesdames Roy Ivans, Mary Schlesman, A. Norris, Dairy McGee, and the hostess, Mrs. Eubank, all of this city; Mrs. J. P. King of Anaheim, Mesdames George Merriman and William Batt of Orange.

The group will meet with Mrs. Harry McCoy July 17.

Mrs. Webster Makes Flying Visit Here

Her Santa Ana friends were happy yesterday to greet Mrs. Elmer E. Webster, formerly Mrs. Mabel Rockwell, who paid a flying visit to this city in connection with her dance studio on East Fourth street, coming from the beautiful country home of Mr. Webster on his orange grove property at Fontana on the Foothill boulevard near San Bernardino.

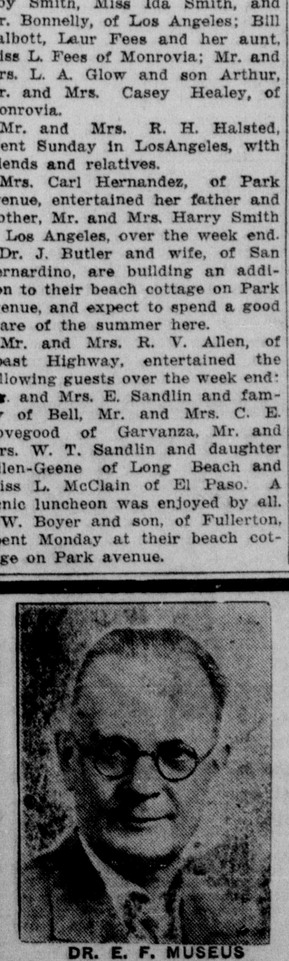

Mr. and Mrs. Webster, whose marriage was an event of late June in Agua Caliente, have been spending their honeymoon at Hotel Coronado, and at the Pacific Coast club, Long Beach, proceeding to the ranch home only a few days ago. There is a possibility that they will establish a permanent home in Santa Ana, a move that would be welcomed by the many friends of the bride in this city.

AUTOMATIC DOOR

CHAPTER XLVIII

Into the twilight of the room stepped a woman's figure. The soft closing of the door was followed by the click of the light switch beside it. In the dazzle of light from the four wall brackets Mrs. Letitia Lambert was revealed, leaning against the door, as if she was too exhausted to take another step.

Slowly she lifted the newspaper. Her closed eyes opened, fastened upon the picture with agonized intensity. With sudden fierceness she crushed the paper against her lips, low, dreadful moans throbbing in her throat, her usually serene face a mask of agony.

"Motive!" Captain Strawn breathed in Dundee's ear and the younger detective pinched him to warn him to silence.

The woman could not have heard, but she lowered the paper, lifted her breast in a tearing sigh and slowly started to cross the room. Her right hand, from whose wrist her handbag dangled, went up automatically to remove her close-fitting black hat.

Dundee held his breath. The supreme movement was upon them. For as he had known they would, those tortured eyes flew to the dressing-table. Not once since Saturday morning—he felt sure—had Mrs. Lambert returned to her room without casting a terrified glance at her dressing-table to make sure that the black-and-gold perfume bottle had not betrayed her, that it was still there. How many times she must have seized it, wildly casting about for a means to hide it or to destroy its tell-tale contents, only to realize each time that she was safer with it in plain sight, in the place where Della, the maid, had been accustomed to see it. In its rightful place, it looked supremely innocent, for the black glass concealed the fact that, once nearly empty, it was now full. Missing, destroyed, it might betray her.

Handbag, newspaper and hat slipped from her nerveless hands to the floor. Jerkily, as if she were half paralyzed, Mrs. Lambert crept to the dressing-table. The detectives saw her stare at the label, which Dundee had printed and pasted upon the face of the bottle. A shaking hand went out to touch it, then shuddered away. Only then, it seemed, did she see the grayish-white remains of her tennis oxfords....

"Quick! She's going to faint!" Strawn whispered urgently.

Dundee was in time to catch her as she fell but she was not unconscious. For a long minute she lay passive in his arms, her eyes still fixed in a blind trance of horror upon a vision of ruined shoes and a grotesquely labeled perfume bottle.

Finally the paralyzed lids relaxed and curtailed the dawning agony of realization in her eyes.

Dundee was merciful to her. Motioning to Strawn to stay in the closet, he rose with his burden and carried it to the bed. She lay as if dead until he had gone to the bathroom, mixed a dose of aromatic spirits of ammonia and held it to her gray lips.

After she had drunk the dose, she closed her eyes again and lay motionless, except for the rising and falling of her breast in quick, gasping sighs. Finally she spoke, her voice a gusty whisper:

"How long—have you known?"

"I wasn't sure until today," he answered gently. "At first I could not believe that you, who said you loved Doris, could kill her."

"I did love her!" the woman cried, beating her breast feebly with clenched hands. "That is what made it so—horrible....Oh, I'm glad it's over! Glad, glad! Do you hear? I couldn't have gone on much longer, trying to be natural, having to talk of—her....I was going to kill myself tonight. Why couldn't you have given me time?"

"Wouldn't you feel better if you told me about it?" Dundee suggested, very gently. "I am not trying to trap you, Mrs. Lambert. You realize that the evidence is conclusive, without your confession."

"Evidence? What do I care about evidence now?" she moaned, her hands still feebly beating her breast. "I warn you now that I'll not live to stand trial. I'll find a way somehow—soon!....But you shall not go on thinking I lied about being fond of Doris!"

"You killed her in a frenzy or terror, Mrs. Lambert, because she was determined to expose you, not only as Mrs. Berkeley's would-be murderer, but as Phyllis Crosby's blackmailer," Dundee told her quietly.

"Blackmailer?" she whispered, her eyes enormous. "I—never called myself that, but—I suppose it's true——We all lie to ourselves, justify ourselves, don't we, Mr Dundee?" she asked pitifully.

She was silent for so long then that Dundee was afraid he had pushed her too far, that she would not confess. But at last she cried:

"Oh, what does it matter? It will hurt Seymour less to know the truth than to go on being tortured with doubts of Phyllis's love for him."

"I am sure of that, Mrs. Lambert," Dundee encouraged her.

"Please try to understand—not to judge me too harshly," she began, in a weary, flat voice. "All my life until my husband died I had more money than I needed—and all the pleasant things that go with money and high social position. When my husband's estate was settled, I found that nearly everything was gone. You see, a woman had been blackmailing him heavily for years. Disillusioned, sick at heart, for I had loved my husband, I faced the world almost penniless. Forty-four years old....

"The thought of marrying some middle-aged or old widower for his money was abhorrent to me and I was not trained for any sort of work. The only position I could possibly fill was that of social secretary and the idea was unthinkable—then. I was too proud....

"But to go back a little. A few weeks before my husband died—he was killed in a polo accident—I met and took a great fancy to Phyllis Benham. It amused and delighted me to force her upon society. My nephew, Tommy Cavendish, liked her immensely and I rather hoped he would fall in love with her. But Phyllis fell in love with Seymour Crosby. Seymour did not have much money; he hesitated to ask the child to marry him, for fear her father would regard him as a fortune-hunter.

"One Monday morning Mr. Benham telephoned me that his daughter was ill and hysterical, that she wanted to see me. I went. Phyllis told me a wild almost incredible story. She had a friend who had joined the chorus of a musical comedy, opening in Atlantic City the previous Friday. As a lark, Phyllis accompanied her friend, staying backstage. When the show was over, two young men, thinking both of them were chorus girls, invited them to go to a roadhouse. Phyllis thought it would be fun to accept. There was some drinking—not much, she insisted to me—but several hours after Phyllis awoke, to find herself in a hotel bedroom with her escort of the evening. She began to scream. Guests reported the disturbance. The hotel detective came and was about to take them both to the police station. The man in the case squared it with the detective, however, and left as soon as he could dress. Phyllis had not given him her right name, the night before, and I tried to soothe her hysterical fears—told her she would hear no more about it, that it was not her fault and that she must try to forget it. Then she showed me a letter she had received that morning from Seymour Crosby. It was a proposal of marriage. She protested that she could not accept, although she loved him with all her heart. The fear of blackmail, she said, would hang over her head for the rest of her life.... May I—have some water, please?" she gasped.

"So it was Phyllis herself who suggested blackmail to you," Dundee said thoughtfully, as he held the glass to her lips.

"Yes. But at the time I told her that it might be best for her or for me to tell Seymour the whole ugly story, trusting to his love for her. But that idea frightened her more than the other. The next day my husband was killed. I saw almost no one for weeks and had almost forgotten poor Phyllis's dilemma until I saw her picture and Seymour's on the society page of a New York paper, announcing their engagement and early marriage.

"Phyllis called on me just before the wedding and confessed that she was in terror lest her companion of that dreadful night had seen her picture and had recognized it; that he would blackmail her, knowing that her father was a very rich man. Again I advised her to tell Seymour, but she said she could not; that she was going to beg him to take her to England to live for a year, at least.

"As you know, that is what happened. I visited in their home in London, then went to Monte Carlo, where I lost almost my last penny in a frantic effort to win enough to live on for a few months, at least. It was then—in January—that I conceived the idea of—of blackmail. Phyllis had told me the man's name, or at least the name he had given her. I typed a letter to her, signing the man's first name and asking her to send a thousand pounds in banknotes to W. L. Parker,' care of the American Express Company, in Paris. The money came. I asked for mail for Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Parker, representing myself as Mrs. Parker, and received the package without difficulty. It was—so easy—"

"That you tried it again and again," Dundee suggested softly.

"Yes. But the last time I was frightened, for I had her send the money to the American Express Company in London. Doris saw me there, but I was sure she believed me when I remarked casually that I was asking for my own mail.

"Phyllis told me that her worst fears had been confirmed; that she was being blackmailed and that her father had refused to cable her any more money. She could not meet the blackmailer's last demand. Seymour had sent for me, you know, to try to cheer her up. Me!"

Tears forced themselves out of her closed eyes and slipped down her pallid cheeks. "It was—the night she died. I told her, begged her, to end it all by telling her husband the truth. I hated myself, wanted to sin no more, but so long as Seymour didn't know, I knew I would be too weak to resist the temptation. Phyllis thought the man had followed her, of course, that it was he who was bleeding her. Doris knew as much as Phyllis herself knew; the mistress and maid were the closest of friends.

"At last Phyllis agreed to tell Seymour, and I left Phyllis on the roof to give him the message. You know the rest—that she died rather than tell him the truth.

"At the inquest Doris exonerated Seymour, of course, but she confided to me that she would avenge her adored mistress if she had to devote the rest of her life to the cause. Her plan was to hire detectives to trace Phyllis's blackmailer and make him pay for his crime. That is why she wanted the beauty shop—to make money more quickly. She never suspected that it was—I. She trusted me, was fond of me, until—"

"Until Friday night when she saw you pouring wood alcohol into Mrs. Berkeley's perfume," Dundee finished the sentence for her.

"Yes," Mrs. Lambert agreed dully. "I did not hear her come in; she moved so quietly always. She must have been watching me for a minute or two, for she said: 'So it was you—you!—who killed Miss Phyllis!' I knew then that she would have no mercy, would not try to understand why I was planning to murder—"

"I believe I do, Mrs. Lambert," Dundee interrupted. "There were three reasons why you wanted Mrs. Berkeley to die. First, you loved her husband, and wanted him to be free to love you and marry you—"

"But he didn't know! He never by a word or a look—"

"I know. But you hoped he would marry you for Gigi's sake, then come to love you for yourself. And Gigi knew you loved her father. Friday night, in a fit of hysterical resentment against her mother, she begged him to divorce her and marry you."

The drawn face softened, glowed. "Did she? My precious Gigi! Thank you for telling me. But oh, what will she think of me now?"

"The second reason, of course, was that you adored Gigi, the child you told yourself you should have had."

"Yes," Mrs. Lambert whispered and her her face with her hands.

"Third: the same reason you blackmailed Phyllis Crosby. Money. You could not endure the thought of poverty, of working for your inferiors, of being humiliated daily by a woman like Mrs. Berkeley."

"She deserved to die!" Mrs. Lambert cried suddenly, rising on her elbow to stare at him with wild eyes. "A drunkard, a fool, a selfish and cruel mother, a nagging wife to the finest man in the world——But I gave her her chance to live! Even after she had slapped my darling that night, I made her promise not to drink the perfume Seymour had given her. I toldmyself then: 'I shall poison it tonight. If she breaks her promise, she deserves to die'."

"But it was Doris who died," Dundee said.

He rose and signaled to Captain Strawn, chief of the homicide squad.

WESTMINSTER

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Little motored to Laguna Beach Sunday, where they visited Mrs. Little's mother, Mrs. B. M. Hill of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Grandy entertained as their guests on July 4, Mrs. Grandy's sister, Mrs. Clara McKee, and Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, friends from Eaglerock. Mrs. McKee remained as an overnight guest the others returning home in the evening.

J. A. Knapp, who has been on a two weeks vacation from the Helman ranch, where he is employed, returned to work Monday.

J. R. Cavanah and grandson, Doyle Stockton and Donald Knapp, who are away on a vacation trip, are at present at the home of Mr. Cavanah's sister, Mrs. A. G. Smith at Carrouthers, Calif. The party has visited at Yosemite National park and Bishop since leaving here.

Simeon Cozard and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight McDaniels left Thursday evening for Oregon.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

THE MENACE OF RAW VEGETABLES

I was much amused recently by the windmill tilting activities of a Don Quixote who was hipped on the subject of a raw vegetable diet, the benefits mankind could gain from it, and his keen desire to make me see the error of my carniverous ways. I listened to his arguments, and viewed his cadaverous carcass from toe to toe. My retort courteous was, "Physician, heal thyself."

Invocations of any kind, whether they be in business, morals or diet, must be taken slowly, each step proved better than the old way, and the system, animate or otherwise, given time to adjust itself to the new order of things.

In the matter of raw vegetable diet much harm can be done if the dieter plunges into such a diet full tilt. For generations back and from birth the mixed diet has made certain demands on the digestive system and on the production of the essential digestive juices. When this ratio is upset the inevitable end is this:

Too much of one kind of digestive essence is produced and too little of some other, with acute indigestion resulting. The stomach is unable to adjust itself to grinding up the new grist, so much of it passes on into the intestine to irritate and ferment, and "the last state is worse than the first."

I have no doubt but many people could benefit by following the raw vegetable diet rigidly, but they must give their stomachs time to become accustomed to the new order of things, and that doesn't mean a day or a week, but a year or more before it would be safe to rely entirely on the raw diet.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Nut Bars

1 scant cup sugar
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup chopped dates
2 eggs, whites beaten separately
3½ tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Drop the egg yolks into the sugar and beat until smooth and creamy. Sift flour, baking powder and salt into the yolk mixture and again beat smooth. Chopped nuts and dates come next with the egg whites, beaten dry, folded in last of all. Have a shallow pan buttered and dusted with flour.

Smooth the mixture into the pan with a knife, having it not thicker than half an inch. Bake in a rather slow oven until quite firm (beaten egg whites require slow heat or the bars will be soggy). Score the nut sheet with a knife as soon as it comes from the oven, when cold cut the sheet into finger sized bars and roll in fine sugar before putting away.

The calories total close to 2500 in this recipe and almost all of them are concentrated energy foods. The recipe will make two dozen slim bars and you will find them a delightful complement to any kind of frozen dessert or berries. I like to serve them with frozen strawberries or raspberries, minus the whipped cream garnish.

* * *

Our thoughts are turning towards the regiment of empty jars and glasses begging to be filled for next winter. I have prepared for this week a few choice recipes which you will find in the Jewel-tinted Jellies and Jam leaflet offered free of charge all week on receipt of your stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BYRD EXPLORATION FILM LURES CROWD

How many persons would have gone with Commander Richard Byrd an his hard band of Americans who have just returned to the United States from the South Pole?

The answer is a very few and the reason for it is the danger, the hardships and the time it would have taken, yet for the price of admission, the same trip can be made today at the Fox West Coast theater, where the remarkable picture "With Byrd at the South Pole" is being shown. The picture opened here Monday and shows through Friday night.

All the things that Byrd saw, all the things that he did, are shown in the picture, and the audience gets all the thrills he did as he pushed his brave band of men across the ice to the bottom of the world.

The picture from an educational standpoint is declared to be the best that ever has been produced. There is none of the fake drama, none of the imitation in the picture. It is all real, and it will hold an audience spellbound from start to finish.

The strange sights, the ice laden country, the peculiar looking animals and birds that were seen, the blizzards, and the final dash by airplane to the pole itself make up one of the most interesting pictures that ever has been brought to Santa Ana.

Santa Ana people are swarming to the theater and there is talk of holding the picture over through out the week, if the crowds continue as they have.

LONGEVITY MENU

RIGA, July 8.—One hundred and twenty-nine years old and all due to the eating of raw herrings dipped in weak black coffee every day. That was the record of Mrs. Anna Greisler, the oldest inhabitant of Latvia, who recently died here at that ago. She attributed her old age to the herring-coffee diet.

SIX AT BIRTH

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 8.—Senhora Hansen, of the little town of Parinpins, recently gave birth to six infants, all within an hour, and all boys. She is 23, and already has two other children, a girl and a boy. She has been married three years.

CHANEY PLAYS FIVE PARTS IN PICTURE

Lon Chaney, whose remarkable pictures of the past have made him one of the greatest actors on the screen, is seen and heard in his first all-talking picture, "The Unholy Three," which started at the Fox Broadway theater yesterday and plays through Thursday night.

Chaney made the same picture several years ago as a silent and at that time it was declared as one of his greatest impersonations. With the aid of sound and voices, the new version is said to far surpass the silent film.

The story of three sideshow freaks, a ventriloquist, played by Chaney, a midget and a giant, who band together for the purpose of robbing patrons of the show, the plot is vivid and interesting at all times. Chaney plays five different roles in the film and uses five different voices. It is a novelty to try and determine which is his own.

As a ventriloquist, he talks through a parrot and when the police get warm on the trail of the robbers, of which he is one, he changes his dress to that of an old woman and plays that part throughout the picture.

Bad Stomachs Need Dare's Mentha-Pepsin

Stop distress after eating, gas, acidity and bloating in 10 minutes. Get rid of gastritis and stomach agony in a short time.

Do as Elias Cuff, of Salem, N. J., did. He writes: "I do not hesitate to say that to me Dare's Mentha-Pepsin is the finest medicine in the world. It cured me permanently of chronic stomach trouble after I had tried many different preparations."

Pepsin is, in itself, great for stomach misery, but there are other effective agents in Dare's Mentha-Pepsin that help to strengthen digestion and make a weak stomach strong and sturdy. Mateer's Drug Co. and all druggists everywhere sell and guarantee it.—Adv.

JUNGLE FILM TO CLOSE AT WALKER

The riotous colors and sounds of the African jungle, have been caught with particular clarity in the Warner Brothers version of "Golden Dawn," well known operetta, closing tonight at Walker's State theater.

All of the haunting chants and ceremonial music as well as the famous solos of the stage production have been saved for the Vitaphone version and four new songs have been added.

The cast includes Walter Woolf and Vivienne Segal, both well known to music lovers, while Alice Gentle, world famous soprano, sings an important supporting role. Noah Beery, Lupino Lane, Marion Byron, Dick Henderson, Nigel de Brulier, Julanne Johnston, Edward Martindel and others are in the cast.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

While standing by the Caspian Sea, one Tiny said, "A thought strikes me. Why can't we have our lunch right here along the pretty shore? A picnic would be heaps of fun. Now, one of us could surely run and buy whate'er we want to eat, if we can find a store."

The others shouted, "Gee, that's great. Let's do it ere it gets too late. But, who will go and buy the food? That's what we'd like to know." The Travel Man began to smile. He said, "Why, say, we'll eat in style. I know where I can buy some food, so I'm the one to go."

He found a pony big enough to take him over roads quite rough. Then, as he started off, he cried, "Now wait right here for me. I'll move as quickly as I can, as sure as I'm a Travel Man. Just play around and shortly, quite a nice surprise you'll see."

And so the Tinies did as told. Soon Clowny cried, "The water's cold, so we can't go in bathing. It might give us all a chill. Let's just sit down and rest a bit. At lunch time we'll be feeling fit. I'm sure that what the Travel Man brings back will be a thrill."

It wasn't long until they spied the Travel Man and Scouty cried, "Ah! Now we eat." And sure enough, they had a wondrous lunch. Then they were on their way again. They passed queer small huts now and then. Said Coppy, "Gee, let's visit one. That is a happy hunch."

And soon they stopped and looked around. The hut was built close to the ground and it was made of stone and mud. A real queer place to see. The Persian family came right out and told them what 'twas all about. The Tinies liked them 'cause they were kind as they could be.

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1.—In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

FIRM to HAND—A FIRM HAND must grip the club to assure you of a par three on this short hole.

TINTED TEETH

LONDON, July 8.—It is rumored among stylists here that the newest fad to be adopted by "smart" women will be tinted teeth. This fad, similar to that of tinted finger-nails, will produce teeth of all colors. In place of "teeth as white as pearls," open mouths will flash red, blue, green, violet, or other colored teeth. It is said that this coloring will hide a lot of imperfections in the teeth.

She: Under wear?

—Ala. Rammer-Jammer.

Waiter: Zoup, sir? Zoup? Zoup?

Guest: I don't know what you're talking about.

—Ohio State Sun Dial.

THE NEW PRODIGIES

Proud Father: Honestly, Mr. De Mille, you ought to give my boy a chance. He's written some of the cleverest subtitles for our home movies you could possibly imagine!

Marriage is love.
Love is blind.
Therefore marriage is an institution for the blind.

—Nebraska Awgwan.

Mary: Yes, she and I were great friends once but we don't speak now.

Jane: How perfectly thrilling! What's his name?

—Texas Ranger.

—Brown Bull.

First Flea: Have you been all over this leopard yet?

Second Flea: No, I'm only hitting the high spots.

—Washington Dirge.

"Is he a foreigner?"

"Yes. He was born in New York City."

"What's delaying the circus?"

—Northwestern Purple Parrot.

He: Every kiss intoxicates me, darling. Would you like me to be a drunkard?

She: Well, yes, on the condition that you don't mix your drinks.

—Grinnell Malteaser.

"What are you writing?"

"A letter to my girl."

"Why do you write so slowly?"

—Okla. Whirlwind.

Mother: Why do you insist on a boyish bob?

—Missouri Outlaw.

Have you heard of the skeptical professor who threw himself out of the thirty-seventh story window while testing his lifetime pen?

—C. C. N. Y. Mercury.

Returning American Tourist (at port of entry): What! Four hundred and fifty-seven dollars duty for some American gowns and a few other things I bought in Paris? Oh, what an outrage!

—Kansas Sour Owl.

"Dear Lord," prayed the co-ed, "I don't ask anything for myself—just give Mother a son-in-law."

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, July 8.—(UP)— Wheat developed strength in the latter part of the session on the Board of Trade today and closed sharply higher. Shorts cvoered freely no reports of rust in th eDakotas and the intensive heat from the spring wheat section. After setting new lows at the start the market reversed itself and climbed steadily during the rest of thes ession. Corn had independent strngth but advanced with wheat while oats were rather uncertain.

At the close wheat was ¾ to 1⅜c higher, corn was ⅞ to 1⅜c higher and oats were ¼c higher. Provisions were firm.

PRODUCE

LOS ANGELES, July 8 —(UP)— Trading was low on the Los Angeles makret today an dofferings generally were not cleaning up. White Astrachan apples from the San Joaquin valley were weak at 2½-3c a lb. Apricots were in somewhat lighter supply but demand showed no improvement and small local stock sold at 25-40c a lug.

Cantaloupes were a little more plentiful and moved rather slowly although prices showed little change from yesterday.

Venice celery remained unchanged at $1.25-$.175 a crat. Local green corn was in heavy supply with receipts by truck averaging in excess of 10,000 lugs a day. Good corn jobbed at 65-75c a lug.

Figs were plentiful nad rather dull, especially brown figs from the Coachella valley which sold at 35-50c for 6-lb t.rays.

Grapes were weak, good Coachella valley seedless bringing 8-9c a lb. with Imprial valley seedless 5-8c. Letutce was in liberal supply and slightly weaker, the best iced 4 and 5 dozens from Watsonville and Salinas jobbing at $3.00-$3.25 a crate.

WORTH BROADCASTING

Few of our best groves are for sale, very few at a low price. Here is a 20 that qualifies both ways. It is young, about eight, on fine production soil, has excellent water conditions and is in a high class orange district. It's a grove that will pay interest, upkeep and in addition return every cent of your total investment in 10 years. Have you ever heard of a more secure and profitable place for your money?

EVENING SALUTATION

"To me the most interesting thing about the world is the people who live in it."
—Edgar F. Goodspeed, professor of theology at Chicago University.

DIDN'T KNOW PERSONNEL

Lew Wallace, candidate for supervisor in the 5th district, recently wrote a letter to the Newport paper in which he stated that in an editorial in The Register in which The Register referred to some politicians, we were referring to Harry Lake of Garden Grove and Ross Shafer of Tustin. As a matter of fact, we had no particular men in mind, and hadn't noticed that Mr. Lake had been particularly active in the transaction.

Mr. Wallace further stated that in the discussion of this group for harbor bonds there was no suggestion of "trades" made. The truth is that we got most of our information of what took place in the discussion from Mr. Wallace himself. We are afraid that he does not accurately recall the elements of the conversation.

Be that as it may, we have on more than one occasion ourselves listened to discussions of groups and quasi-plans in which it was proposed to satisfy one district by granting something in order to get their votes for another project in which they might not be so much interested.

It is entirely possible that Mr. Lake and Mr. Shafer had nothing in mind of interest to the northern section of the county, but that their whole object was to carry on a vote for Newport harbor for $1,500,000 at this time because of their interest in the harbor, and their belief that it was the proper time and that such a vote would carry. If they say this we believe them, because we certainly did not hear the discussion. However, we would not agree with them in their opinion. We doubt seriously if many men conversant with the situation in the county would agree with them on this proposition.

We have not named men in editorial discussions because we desired to avoid personalities, and would not refer to them now if it were not insisted upon. We do not believe in making "trades" for various projects because instead of each project standing on its merits, it is entirely possible by such "trades" that the taxpayer and citizen must meet obligations for two or more projects that have little merit.

The fact that there is such a complete and immediate repudiation of any agreements or influence that the one shall affect the other is evidence to us that the public does not look kindly upon such deals.

We are distinctly for an improvement and a completion of the harbor at Newport Beach, and will do all we can to further such an enterprise. We do not believe that sentiment for it should be used as a personal asset of any candidate or candidates for political office as against other candidates equally as interested in the project.

THE CHARACTER OF OUR FIRST SETTLERS

The tercentenary celebration of the coming of the Puritans to Massachusetts Bay is revealing some interesting facts. These facts have always been known to the historian, but there has been so much idealization of the country's first settlers that the really miscellaneous character of the first groups has not been known to the average man.

A recent writer has pointed out that those first groups were composed of very varied elements. The Plymouth Pilgrims were a humbler group of people than those who came later in 1630. They were for the most part composed of the lower middle classes. Quite a number among them had no interest in the religious purposes of the leaders of the group. Miles Standish was a Roman Catholic, so the tradition runs. He came with the Pilgrims as a military man. Some other members of the group were brought over to help in setting up necessary factors in an orderly society.

The Puritans who came over in 1630 were composed of a great variety of people. The leaders were religious men who had tired of the religious practices of the church in the home country. They were for the most part leaders in social, intellectual and business life in England. With them was a considerable number of farmers sympathetic with the religious views of the leaders, but seeking economic betterment in the new world. In addition there was a large group of servants, most of whom had little interest in the religious life and practice of the colony. It was some of these who disturbed the peace of the colony by their revels around the May pole at Merrymount. Many of them were sent back to England.

On the whole, though in the minority, the religious elements left their stamp upon the colony. Though only about one-fifth of the number of those early settlers were church members, a considerable number of the rest were sympathetic with the purposes of the church members. Religion dominated the life of the colonists, and wherever the descendants of those early settlers have gone they have carried with them the moral and religious ideals which were with them at the foundation. This is evident in all those regions of the middle west settled by New Englanders. The impress of it is here manifest in Southern California. And as David Starr Jordan said some years ago, underneath the varied life of the whole state of California one will find deep traces of the men who landed on the shores of Massachusetts Bay 300 years ago.

These occasional celebrations have a tendency to clear up historical errors in the popular mind. But they also serve to impress upon us the fixed ideals that have never been forgotten amid the invasion of other peoples with different purposes and ideals.

BILLINGS AND MOONEY

We have been among those who have believed that Thomas J. Mooney, serving a life sentence in San Quentin, was framed. We were driven to this conclusion by the exposure of false witnesses and the statement of McDonald in respect to the identification of Mooney.

Further than this, the jurymen and the judge in the case declaring themselves as fully convinced of the innocence of Mooney later removed almost the last vestige of doubt. We have now read the statement of the Supreme Court, the findings of the special advisory pardon board, and the statement of the governor in which he denies the plea of Mooney for pardon.

While there is serious doubt in our mind whether on the testimony of McDonald today he would be convicted seeing that the other witnesses have been discredited, yet the fact that McDonald refused to go before a grand jury and take oath to the matters, and that Billings objected to the Supreme Court extending its investigation to include the bringing of McDonald before it, shakes one's faith in the repudiation of McDonald of his testimony.

We are confident that Governor Young is absolutely sincere and conscientious in his findings, and in the light of the Supreme Court decision, the findings of the advisory pardon board and the position that Governor Young assumed in maintaining the parallel cases of the two men, that he could arrive at no other conclusion.

A HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Millions today are noting the birthday of John D. Rockfeller, Sr. He was a great fighter, organizer and financier of the age of most severe competition.

With his great power he crushed competitors rather relentlessly, but those days have been pretty much forgotten. He has used his vast resources for the benefit of mankind, and under the direction of his son and those organizations which have been formed to carry out the projects of both father and son, greater work will be done in the coming years than has been done in the past.

The cure for disease, which disease was baffling men, has been found in many cases. Investigations in various departments of science have been made possible. Hospitals, educational institutions, improvement of sanitary conditions and countless benefits are the result of the large gifts of Mr. Rockefeller.

He seems to have personally kept a sweet and a serene spirit. His enemies undoubtedly have had their asperity softened with years. Probably there are few men in the country who do not wish him well.

Society Goes On Strike

Fresno Republican

News fresh from Paris informs us that society women will not wear long skirts to the races.

One more item in favcr of horse racing. It has enabled the women of fashion in the social capital of the world to show their independence of the dressmakers.

Taste in dress has always been a struggle between those who wish to do as they saw fit and those who wished to do as those that they best admired thought fit.

The great dressmakers of Paris have capitalized on these rival instincts by pretending adaptability to the best taste and actually dictating choice themselves.

It has been a part of their business to alternate taste fast enough to attract attention and then change it just as fast as it was profitable for them, to get their goods sold.

Only once in a blue moon does mass taste defeat the dressmakers.

This time, it seems, the masses of the "haut monde" have decided for themselves that they will not follow the dressmakers' dictation of a return of long dresses, as far as "sports" wear is concerned.

"Scores of manikins," we are told "from world famous dress establishments attended the race wearing hats and dresses reminiscent of the early twentieth century. Big hats and wide gathered skirts of organdie and lawn were among the style offerings."

But all in vain. Society attended en masse, with the women dressed in striking costumes which were characterized by a preponderance of black and white, medium length skirts and a complete absence of furbelows and fluffery.

San Francisco Chronicle

It is pathetically true, as Dr. Lillien J. Martin points out, that the tragic unhappiness of old age arises from the exclusion from social usefulness. We may provide the aged with the necessaries of life yet cast them into the back-ground by thoughtlessly shelving them in every day activities, a psychological cruelty that brings to mind Trader Horn's picture of the gray heads bobbing in the stream when African savages solve the old age problem by throwing their parents into the river.

Yet Dr. Martin herself, is in a measure, a refutation of her own argument. She was 65 years old when fourteen years ago she was retired by the age limit from her place as professor of psychology at Stanford after seventeen years of service there. Since then she has established a child guidance clinic and an old age salvage clinic and is recognized as an authority in such matters. She recently made a tour of inspection through Russia and now is attending Vassar College commencement exercises, celebrating the golden jubilee of her graduation from that institution. Anyone who tried to shelve Dr. Martin would have quite a job on his hands.

A Tip to the Married

Imperial Valley Press

Of words of advice in regard to marriage there is no end. Most of it, no doubt, dates all the way back to Adam and Eve, and most of it, just as indubitably, always has been and always will be disregarded; but it does no harm to add a word or two to the general total now and then, anyway.

The latest comes from Judge Samuel Harrison of Evanston, Ill., who has married 900 couples during his period in office. He offers many bits of advice; his best, we think, is this:

"Forgive your partner seventy times seven, and then throw away the account book."

Any happily-married couple can tell you the value of that admonition. Mutual forebearance and forgiveness can shove almost any obstacle out of the path of marital happiness.

Two Minds With But a Single Thought!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE ETERNAL CONFLICT

The rhino soon will wade no more
The riffles of the Niger;
Along the Ganges' shaded shore
Will rove no greedy tiger,
For years the savage brutes have fled
Reluctantly before us,
And presently will be as dead
As is the dinosaurus.

The lion slinks through lonely trails,
Beneath the bending bayans;
In wild affright the wildcat wails
Along the western canyons.
For many years the grizzly bear
Has never soundly slumbered,
But lives a prey to dread despair;
He knows his days are numbered.

But bug and slug and flea and fly
Go on their way rejoicing;
The locust hurtles through the sky
His bold defiance voicing;
All unperturbed the cut worm roams
Along the garden lattice,
Mosquitoes beard us in our homes
And gnash their molars at us.

Where once the prowling beasts of prey
Maintained their habitations
There spread from sea to sea today
Important, prospering nations.
We follow, stepping proud and high
The pathway that is set us,
But, notwithstanding, by and by
Those bugs are bound to get us.

Economics Without Despair

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

In the past, some economists held that "hard times" and widespread poverty were inevitable. They contended that "the great masses of laborers never could rise far above the lowest level of subsistence."

They were like the man who demanded a glass of plain soda without any flavor.

Asked gravely what flavor he would have it without, he replied, "Without chocolate." To the suggestion that, since they were all out of chocolate, he take his soda without pineapple, he shook his head. "No," he said sadly, "if I can't have it without chocolate, I won't have it at all."

Some of the old economists, if they couldn't have their economics without hope, simply wouldn't have it at all.

Many men still think that we are doomed to business depressions and resulting unemployment. In economics, as in physics, they say, every action is followed by an opposite and equal reaction; what goes up, must come down; the farther business moves forward in a period of expansion, the farther back it must slip when the reaction comes.

That is, in truth, about what has happened in the past,—what is happening right now. It has not resulted, however, from "natural law," but largely from financial methods devised by man.

The ingenuity of man substituted money for barter. Hundreds of years later, the ingenuity of man substituted the Federal Reserve System for a much poorer system. And now the ingenuity of man can devise ways of enabling men and women to buy, and pay for, all the automobiles, oil heaters, dwelling houses, fur coats, education, and other things which they are able and willing to produce.

Once men are convinced that the right flow of wages does not come by chance, and is wholly subject to control, they will not accept a slump in business as meekly as they are accepting it now—at this time.

They will insist on having their Economics Without Despair.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

I was reading Sidney Sly, Detecktive, and ma was in her room reddy to go out, and she was hunting for her other white glove and I saw it on the floor sticking out from under the bed, and I quick took it and stuck it in the toe of one of ma's empty shoes under there, and ma kepp on looking, saying, How things disappeer around here is one of the 8 mysteries of the werld. Id take my tying oath I layed them both rite here on the bed and now one of them is gone as compleet as a wissle.

Well then I just came in time, madam, Im Sidney Sly the werlds greatest detecktive, I sed. Ill haff to ask you a few questions ferst, madam. Have you noticed any strange fingerprints around? I sed.

Well now if you want to help me look you can help me look, but you wont help me by distracting my attention with a lot of foolishness, Im in a hurry, ma sed, and I sed, Ah ha, why are you in such a hurry, madam, can it be that you have a gilty conscients?

O hush, ma sed. It must be in the room but Ive looked under the bed and everywhere elts, its provoking, she sed, and I sed, Do you siapect anybody, madam?

Meening me, and I sed, Well thats plenty of questions for the present, I bleeve I have a clue. And I walked around bent all a ways over like a detecktive looking for footprints, and all of a sudden I pulled the glove out of ma's shoe, saying, Ah ha, just as I thawt, madam, how did it get in this shoe?

Well of all things, what a crazy place for it to fall into, and of corse it would take a crazy thing like you to find it, berds of a fether flock together, ma sed. Well Im certeny releeved, heers 2 cents, she sed.

And she hurry up went out and so did I to spend the 2 cents.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

A SCHOLAR-STATEMENT

The other day, for the first time, I met and came to know William Z. Ripley, who has always seemed to me a superb example of the scholar-stateman without whom the well-springs of leadership in a nation dry up.

For thirty-five fruitful years, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at Harvard University, Mr. Ripley has been at once productive scholar and provocatice teacher.

On that research frontier of the social sciences that lies beyond the safe orthodoxies of the timid text-books, he has been a skilful guide of other minds.

He has not permitted the scolar's career to impose upon him a sterile neutrality in the social conflicts of his time.

He has proved that it is possible to be, at one and the same time, the objective scholar and the earnest crusader.

He is equally at ease as the calm expositor of truth and as its impassioned advocate.

In his scientific scholarship and social statesmanship have met and merged.

He has brought broad scholarship to bear upon the nation's crucially important railway problems.

In a well-documented elaboration of his thesis that "property should nexer be allowed to degenerate into an instrument of oppression," he courageously challenged the widespread shift of power from Main street to Wall street, and stabbed the modern mind awake to the social implications of the excessive concentration of power.

As a scholar, his analyses have actually effected changes in public and private policy.

I never meet such men that I am depressed by the fact that we drift so little of this sort of intelligence into positions of national leadership.

I am not an advocate of government by experts.

But it is becoming increasingly apparent that as modern society grows more complicated we must make use of the most intelligent and the most richly informed leadership we have.

We cannot afford to let such scholar-statesmen go to waste, save as they may play gadfly to official complacency.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE CHILD OF IT

Adolescent children are given to extravagances, exaggerations and excesses. If they are being good they are tremendously good. Too good for ordinary purposes, and soon they restore the balance by being bad, very bad. They cannot be calm and reasonable no matter how they may be urged to be so by calm and reasonable teachers and parents.

"Why must you overdo everything? Always so extreme! Last week you hated dancing class. You couldn't be pushed into going. Now this week you want me to stop everything and get you ready an hour ahead of time. Help yourself. Your things are ready. Why all this excitement?

"I cannot understand you, Donald. Only this morning you said you would never, never speak to Sam again and now you want to stay overnight with him after having put in the entire day playing with him. You must try to be a little more sensible. No. You stay home. Remember, if you show such temper you will have to stay in your room for the remainder of the evening. Very well, you stay in your room."

"Claire, come away from the piano. I can't stand it another minute. Either you play all day and all night or you don't play at all. It does seem to me that you might try to follow your program a little more. Then you wouldn't overdo things so. And underdo them.

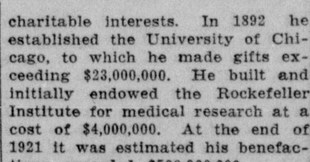

"Well, I think not. You and Mary have been together almost constantly this week. You're going to wear your welcome out. Better see a little less of one another and you will remain friends longer. Very well. Remember what I told you. When you fall out don't come to me."

They cannot help this. Their growth is not an evenly planned and programmed process. They have certain emotional overflows and they seem very unbalanced to us. If they are doing nothing dangerous better let the phase wear itself out. The after effect will be all the better.

Don't take every statement they make, although they make each of them almost fierce emphasis, as something permanent. It isn't. It is very likely the overflow of emotion, of surplus nervous energy, and as it must be used up, let it go, provided it is safe. And give that safety idea as wide a margin as possible for children seldom are in as much danger as their parents fear them to be.

If the demonstration is too close to the danger line try to direct it through indirection. Never attack adolescence in its overflow with a front movement. Remember the serpent and its devious path and take a hint from its gentle, steady forward push.

Provide some exciting outlet for such times—such as a ticket to the baseball game, a picnic dinner and trip, a shopping excursion for a cherished possession. Save such things for the occasions and you will find things easing up.

ROCKEFELLER'S BIRTH

On July 8, 1839, John D. Rockefeller, American capitalist, who before his retirement in 1911 was regarded the wealthiest man in modern history, possessing a fortune estimated as high as $1,000,000,000, was born at Richford, N. Y.

At the age of 14 he moved to Cleveland, O., where, after receiving a public school education, became a clery in a commission house. In less than four years he became a partner. With his partner he invested in a new business of "oil refining." Within 10 years this company, under Rockefeller's leadership, established itself as the most important factor in the petroleum industry in America.

In 1865 the Standard Oil Works was built at Cleveland and five years later was consolidated with others to form the Standard Oil company. In forming his company it was found he had created a "trust" in violation of the law and was therefore compelled to dissolve it. He then formed separately operated companies.

Rockefeller devoted much time and money to the promotion of various educational, religious and charitable interests. In 1892 he established the University of Chicago, to which he made gifts exceeding $23,000,000. He built and initially endowed the Rockefeller Institute for medical research at a cost of $4,000,000. At the end of 1921 it was estimated his benefactions exceeded $500,000,000.

GOVERNOR DENIES MOONEY PARDON

Democratic Senator Opens Fight For London Treaty

PLEA MADE BY SWANSON TO APPROVE

WILL SEEK PAPERS

Discussion on Resolution Asking Secret Notes Scheduled For Today

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(UP)—Rejection of the London naval treaty would be interpreted in London and Tokio as a warning that the United States had embarked on an imperialistic career in which she would seek to dominate Japanese and British destinies, Senator Swanson, Dem., Va., told the senate today in the opening plea in behalf of the treaty.

Swanson, rather than Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, seconded President Hoover's urgent request for ratification because Borah is disinclined to fight for the treaty and party lines have been disrupted during the treaty consideration. Swanson is ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee.

Papers Sought

A resolution by Senator McKellar, Dem., Tenn., asking President Hoover to produce all secret papers relating to the treaty was on the calendar for discussion after Swanson's speech.

"If this treaty should be rejected by the United States," Swanson said, "Great Britain and Japan immediately would conclude that the United States had embarked on a career of imperialism and had determined to be supreme on the seas and to control the destinies of nations like Great Britain and Japan, who are absolutely dependent upon the seas.

"It would create in these two nations such irritation and suspicion that they would at once tax all their resources in order to meet all new construction in naval craft that we should undertake.

"Whether controlled by selfish, material interests or the broader and nobler purposes of promoting world peace and betterment, the best interests of the United States demand ratification of this treaty.

Naval Supremacy

"It is evident from this treaty that the United States obtains absolute naval supremacy in the entire western hemisphere. The United States is absolutely protected from any apprehension whatsoever from the fleets of any other nation and her safety is assured.

"The American navy under this treaty becomes sufficiently strong to enforce the entire Monroe doctrine in all parts of the western hemisphere. The navy is made supreme in the waters of the eastern Pacific and the western Atlantic. With our bases at Panama, the British fleet operating in the western Atlantic would be less than a ratio of three for Great Britain and five for the United States."

ORANGE COUNTY'S ASSESSED VALUATION SHOWS INCREASE

Prosperity Reflected in Announcement Made By Sleeper Today

CONTINUED EVIDENCE of Orange county's prosperity and indications that the tax rate for next year might be lowered, were seen today with the announcement by County Assessor James Sleeper of the total assessed valuation of the county. The figure, on which the county tax rate for 1930-31 is based, is $184,707,565, or $6,381,730 more than the total last year, which reached $178,325,835. The figure is reported by Sleeper as the highest in the history of the county.

Much of the increase is accounted for in increases in personal property, intangibles and improvements, as well as increases in real estate and trees, and in spite of a heavy decrease in valuations in mineral rights. In addition to the valuation on which the rates for county taxation are based, Sleeper announced valuations of $5,005,565 for special districts and $12,919,175 for operative property, making a grand total for the county for 1930-31, of $202,632,305. The special district and operative property figures are used in securing taxes for special district funds and for the state.

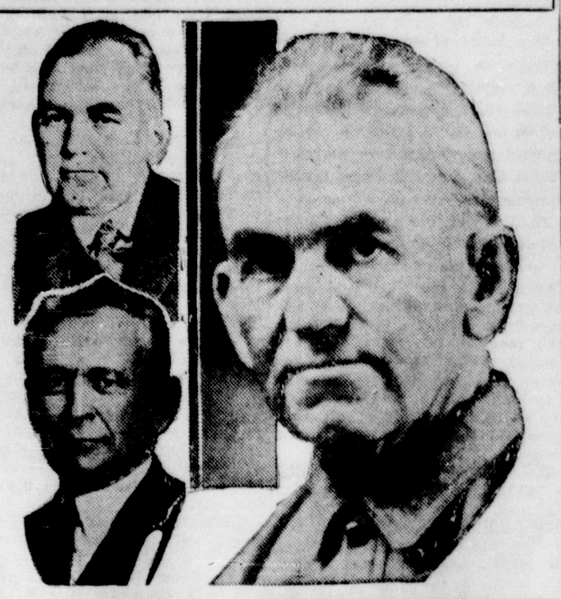

Low Tax Rate

"The increased valuations should mean a lower tax rate for Orange county," Sleeper commented in releasing the figures at his office today, "and I favor a decrease in the rate because of general business conditions that are in existence all over the nation as well as in Orange county. Citizens of the county should be interested in the tax rates and take this matter up with those bodies that fix the rates, such as the county board of supervisors, school, city and special district trustees. The assessor's office has nothing to do with fixing the tax rate."

MUST STAY IN SAN QUENTIN

RADICAL TO REMAIN IN SAN QUENTIN

BOARD IS UPHELD

Recommendation of Pardon Board and Supreme Court Influenced Young

GOV. C. C. YOUNG today denied the pardon application of Thomas J. Mooney, noted radical, who is serving a life sentence at San Quentin for conviction on a charge of participating in the 1916 preparedness day bombing outrage in San Francisco.

The governor's decision was announced in a long formal statement based on his own study of the case, the recommendation of the state pardon board and the action of the state supreme court in refusing to recommend a pardon for Warren K. Billings, convicted of the same crime as Mooney.

The decision once again brought up sharply agitation for Mooney's release, started at the time Mooney was convicted of taking part in the bombing which caused the death of nine persons and seriously injured 40 others.

Third Denial

Governor Young was the state's third chief executive to rule against a pardon for Mooney. Former Governor W. D. Stephens declined to pardon Mooney but commutated his original death sentence to life imprisonment on the recommendation of the late Woodrow Wilson, former president. Former Governor Friend W. Richardson declined to act on Mooney's pardon appeals.

The governor's ruling here today was anticipated since he previously indicated the pardon board's recommendations and the supreme court's action in the Billings case would have a strong influence on his decision in respect to Mooney.

The governor said that until some further light could be cast upon the case he felt it necessary to accept the recommendations of the state pardon board and the supreme court.

"I am aware," the governor's decision read, "That this decision will be disappointing to many, particularly to those who have come to feel strongly on this subject without having had the opportunity to study the case at first hand, but in a matter like this, I must be guided by a conscientious regard for my oath of office rather than a willingness to respond to popular appeal."

The governor said that while two of his predecessors in office had re-

ROCKEFELLER OBSERVES HIS 91ST BIRTHDAY

Multi-Millionaire Takes Two Hours in Which to Play Game of Golf

POCANTICO HILL, N. J., July 8.—(UP)—Secluded from all but a few relatives and servants, John D. Rockefeller observed his 91st birthday with an expression of gratefulness to his fellow men for the kindness they have shown him.

There was little in the routine at the great manor house in the hills of Sleepy Hollow to set the day apart from any other, although it was expected the famous oil millionaire would cut his usual birthday cake at dinner tonight in the presence of the family and receive the personal congratulations of each, including 2-year-old baby Rockefeller Hilton, his great grandchild. He played golf for two hours this morning on his private course.

The aged financier said he expected to grant no birthday interview, but through his public relations counsel, Ivy Lee, he issued a statement last night which said:

"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have had more kindness shown me during the last year from every part of the country than ever before in my life, and it is needless to state that I am unspeakably grateful.

"I am in the best of health, surrounded by dear friends, and have naught but good will toward all."

For the first time in many years the nongenarian's son, John D. Rockfeller, Jr., will not be at the birthday dinner tonight. He is on a business trip in the west.

BREA GIRL FATALLY INJURED AT BALDY

BREA, July 8.—Word was received here yesterday of the death of Miss Barbara Phelps, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Phelps of this city, who passed away at the Pomona Valley hospital following a 30-foot fall from a tree at Mount Baldy when her skull was fractured.

The accident occurred near Camp Baldy at 8 a. m. Monday and the child was rushed to the Pomona hospital where she died at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. In her fall the little girl's head struck a rock, causing fatal injuries.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of McAuley and Suters of Fullerton and the time for the services is to be announced later. The child is survived by her parents, and two brothers, Howard, 14, and Billy, 9, with whom she was spending a vacation in the mountains.

The family live at 424 Madrone street, Brea, and the father has been employed as a petroleum engineer for the Union company here for many years.

Women In Dispute Over Custody Of Child Will Meet

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., July 8.—(UP)—Accompanied by a police matron, Mrs. Allen Higdon prepared to leave here today for San Francisco to meet the "other mother" of the child whom she and Mrs. Ruth Smith both claim as their own.

The trip was planned in hopes of establishing definitely the identity of the youngster, 8-year-old Leta Joyce, whose possession caused Mrs. Higdon to be placed in jail here on a charge of kidnaping.

Mrs. Higdon declared she was eager to face the "other mother."

Mrs. Smith denies the child is that of Mrs. Higdon and contends she and her husband gave the little girl to Mrs. Hatfield, sister of Mrs. Higdon, who in turn allowed the latter to take her.

Applies Advice Of Einstein And Wins

PARIS, July 8.—(UP)—Miss Margaret Wilbur, who said she was "just a poor girl who applied Einstein's advice," swore off visiting gambling casinos today after having won 39,000 francs—about $1,560, at Frank J. Gould's new casino at Granville.

Miss Wilbur, who is a mathematics teacher at St. Louis, lost 12,000 francs, which were all of her available funds, in the first night's play at the casino. She pawned a diamond ring and a fur coat and went back the next night to win 39,000 francs.

"I'm just a poor girl who had to win," she remarked. "I applied Einstein's advice on the theory of chance but I'll never play again."

VETERANS GET HELP AT ONCE FROM NEW LAW

Benefits of New Pensions Measure Will Be Made Available Soon

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(UP)—The U. S. veterans bureau was acting today to make the benefits of the new pension law available as soon as possible for world war veterans.

Application blanks have been dispatched to all the bureau's field stations, while instructions have been telegraphed and radioed to all field offices.

Inasmuch as compensation under the new law is effective from the date of application, the bureau is doing its utmost to place application blanks in the hands of every eligible veteran quickly.

More than 100,000 veterans—men who served 90 days or more—are eligible for benefits under the bill. The payments range from $12 a month for veterans 25 per cent disabled to $40 a month for those fully and permanently disabled.

"Men ill enough to be patients in a veterans hospital because of a non-service disability not heretofore compensable, will merit immediate attention," Director Frank T. Hines of the veterans bureau said today. "We will examine these more serious cases first to determine the degree of their disability and the rate of compensation."

Veterans hospitals are now caring for 30,700 men, of whom 43 per cent have disabilities not directly traceable to war service.

The estimated cost of the bill for its first year is $25,281,000, but payments may exceed this considerably.

REPORTER LINKED IN PAPER "RACKET"

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 8.—(UP)—The St. Louis Star, in reply to a letter from State's Attorney John A. Swanson, Chicago, today suggested that Harry T. Brundige, Star reporter, be called before the Cook county grand jury immediately to tell what he knows of alleged "newspaper racketeering."

The letter from Swanson asked the Star to have Brundige "call at my office at his earliest convenience" for an interview. In a reply Frank W. Taylor, managing editor of the Star, said he felt "a preliminary conference unnecessary."

Hoover Appoints Hines To Pilot Veterans Bureau

WASHINGTON, —uly 8.—(UP)—Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' bureau, has been appointed administrator of veterans' affairs under the new law consolidating the various government agencies for veterans under the bureau, President Hoover announced today.

GIRL SUICIDES AS SHE LEAPS FROM AIRPLANE

LINCOLN, Neb., July 8.—(UP)—Determined on death, Alberta Brenkenfolk, a young University of Nebraska co-ed, decided on the most modern means of suicide—a leap from an airplane hundreds of feet in the air.

She was the second person known to have chosen an airplane jump as a suicide gesture, one woman having killed herself that way at a New York airport last year.

Alberta was fairly well known about the spacious campus of the University of Nebraska and up until yesterday fellow students thought she was content with her life. But yesterday she hired a taxicab and ordered the driver to take her to the flying field.

There she asked the driver to wait 20 minutes. In event she did not return the driver was to go back to the city.

She engaged an airplane piloted by Peter Orr for a short flight. Orr, as customary, strapped the girl to the cockpit and soon the plane roared away on the "death journey.

Once they gained altitude, Orr noticed the young co-ed. She had loosened the safety belt and slowly was climbing over the cockpit. Forgetting the plane for a moment Orr reached over and roughly pushed the girl back to the seat.

He worked fast, for already the plane had begun to show effects of not being controlled and Orr had to regain his controls.

But as Orr settled back he watched in horror as the young girl again clambered to the side of the cockpit and without hesitation leaped off into space.

Her body was found half imbedded in the soft ground hundreds of feet beneath and the coroner pronounced the case suicide.

Kingsford-Smith Aide Plans New Distance Flight

KANSAS CITY, July 8.—(UP)—Spurred by the success of the recent trans-Atlantic flight of the airplane Southern Cross, Everet Van Dyke, Amsterdam, co-pilot with Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, contemplates two new flights which may make aviation history.

The young Dutch pilot arrived in Kansas City by plane last night from Los Angeles, where he went with the crew of the Southern Cross to complete the round-the-world flight planned by Kingsford-Smith.

Government Meets Defeat In France

PARIS, July 8.—(UP)—The government was defeated today when the chamber of deputies rejected the cabinet's proposed convention with the Compagnie Francaise des Petroles for handling of the French share of the Mossoul oil output.

The cabinet did not put a vote of confidence and therefore was only "morally defeated" and not required to resign.

The defeat, by a vote of 297 to 275, rejected the government's plan to farm out the Mossoul oil to a private firm.

FRIENDS OF CONAN DOYLE TO ATTEMPT TO TALK WITH HIS SPIRIT BEFORE CREMATION

LONDON, July 8.—(UP)—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's last interview was an exposition of his creed of life and death, given to the London Daily Herald only a few days before he died from a heart attack at Crowborough, Sussex, yesterday.

The interview was recalled today as his family and friends prepared for his funeral and awaited the confidently expected signal from the "spirit world" which would convince them the theories he had upheld during the latter period of his life were true.

The purpose of life, Sir Arthur told the Daily Herald, is to move from the material to the spiritual, and sorrow and conflict are the two most powerful means of attaining the spiritual being.

"If a man of 70 is no more gentle, no more kindly, no more sympathetic, no more unselfish than when he was 30," Sir Arthur said, "then his life has been wasted, and he must go through life again, either here or on another sphere.

Object of Life

"It cannot be the object of life that we eat three meals a day, have a sound night's rest, and work at some humdrum task. To me, it is a clear function that all creation is to move from the material to the spiritual, which is the object of life."

Sir Arthur, who had abandoned Roman Catholicism as a young man when he was convinced the foundations of all Christianity were too weak to build upon, said he did not believe creeds were of any value.

"One cannot say whether the increase of spirituality is greater in a Roman Catholic, a Greek Catholic or a Lutheran community," he said. "Character is everything; belief nothing. An agnostic may be a saint, while a purist in doctrine may be a devil. The age of faith is dead."

Sir Arthur said that he realized the existence of something wise and all-powerful called "God," but added that spiritualists could accept nothing without proof.

Future of Religion

"The religion of the future will be built on the standpoint of two worlds, not one," he said.

Those spirits who can be communicated with most easily are those nearest the earth, and not necessarily of the highest mentality, Sir Arthur said.

Although he had rejected the Christian doctrine, Sir Arthur said the character of Christ and His teachings had given a permanent standard in ethics. Summing up his views of death, he said:

"Life on a higher plane is the ultimate goal. Death makes no change. Man finds a natural life and homely surroundings, in which he develops his own natural powers."

Captain N. Leith-Hay-Clark, leader of the spiritualist community in London, told the press an attempt to communicate with Sir Arthur probably would be made within a day or two. A short delay will be allowed to give Sir Arthur an opportunity to rest, he said.

"If he is cremated, the attempt probably will be made before cremation, as it will be easier then," the spiritaulist leader said.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 8.—At the request of Mayor Sam R. Bowen for speedy action on a referendum petition on Ordinance No. 332, commonly known as the derrick ordinance, adopted at the last meeting of the council, the city council in session Monday night in the council chambers at city hall waived a check of names by the city clerk on the petition of referendum which carried 375 signatures, and on motion of Councilman Elson G. Conrad, seconded by Councilman Chris King, repealed the ordinance and instructed the city attorney to draw the repeal.

Mayor Bowen urged that as there was evidently a large number of people who wanted to refer the ordinance for various reasons, that it was in his opinion advisable to concede that there were sufficient signers to effect a referendum.

In offering a motion for the repeal of the ordinance and following the vote which was unanimous, all five councilmen voting for the repeal, Councilman Conrad stated that in his opinion it would be proper to submit the questions involved in the ordinance to a vote of the people in September. Other councilmen spoke in favor of this suggestion and on motion of Councilman Conrad the city attorney, L. W. Blodget, was instructed to prepare the necessary provisions to submit the questions to a vote in September.

The city clerk announced receipt of the referendum petition and

Lila Lee To Take Rest In Arizona

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 8.—(UP)—Lila Lee, prominent film star, has been compelled to take a complete rest in Arizona because of overwork during the past year and a half, her friends in the screen capital revealed today.

While Miss Lee suffered no serious illness, it was said, she has been advised by physicians to abandon her work entirely for the present. Serious consequences might ensue from her disobedience, doctors said.

PUGILIST KILLED IN STREET BRAWL

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—(UP)—Thomas Fayne, 28, known as 'Battling Murray,' pugilist, was shot by an unknown assailant today as he left a Mission street bootleg establishment. He died almost immediately.

Because of contradicting versions of the shooting, three companions and a girl proprietor of the resort were arrested for questioning.

According to the stories of his companions, they left the place and walked east on Mission street. Two blocks away, they were accosted by a well dressed stranger who started an altercation over his hat, which he accused Fayne of taking.

In the midst of a fist fight, they said, the stranger drew a revolver and shot Fayne. Fearing that they would be implicated, they took to their heels.

Masonic Rites For Paper Counsel

OAKLAND, July 8.—(UP)—Funeral services for Jay W. "Judge" Curts, 56, treasurer and general counsel for the Scripps-Canfield newspapers, who died yesterday, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the chapel of the Chimes, Piedmont. Fellow Masons will participate in the ceremony, which will comprise the full Masonic ritual.

Curts died after a pratracted illness since an unsuccessful operation late in March. His death ended a period of service of more than 27 years as chief counsel of part, and, later, all of the Scripps-Canfield chain of papers.

ADDINGTON IS ACQUITTED ON STILL CHARGE

The jury that heard the evidence presented in superior court yesterday before Judge G. K. Scovel, in the trial of J. J. Addington, who was charged with owning and operating a still, required only 20 minutes to reach a verdict that set the prisoner free. A verdict of not guilty was returned to the court at 4:25 p. m. after the jury had retired at 4:05 p. m. yesterday.

Witnesses yesterday included Yvonne and Earl Miller, children of two other defendants in the case who previously have been convicted; Deputy Sheriffs Lloyd Fuller, Jesse Buckles, Tom Scudder and A. L. Steward, who participated in the raid that netted the evidence and prisoners; Herman Zabel, who was on the stand as a hand writing expert, and whose qualifications were stipulated by the defense; and Dr. E. W. Tock, of the county hospital laboratories, who made the analysis of the liquor seized.

Members of the jury were Madge DeLapp, J. B. Anthony, Maude Swarthwart, H. M. Peterson, John LeBaird, Margaret Fairbair, W. A. Borland, Ed H. Dierker, H. E. Rhinehart, J. L. Cardwell, T. S. McCollom and A. C. Merrick.

Addington previously had been tried under the charge, but the former jury had been unable to reach a verdict and the trial yesterday resulted. The prisoner was represented in court by D. G. Wettlin, Chief Deputy District Attorney Sam Collins and Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton appeared for the prosecution.

Deaf Mute Singers Will Appear Here

Mrs. Myrtle Cooper, missionary evangelist of Compton, will give an address tonight at the Full Gospel Assembly West, Third and Forest streets, Santa Ana. Mrs. Cooper is working with Mrs. Elsie Peters, pastor of the first church set aside for the deaf in the state of California. According to her, there are approximately 2000 deaf mutes in the United States, with between 1500 and 2000 in and near Los Angeles.

Mrs. Cooper will be accompanied to this city by Mrs. Evernew Lamont, (deaf mute singer) who will sing "When They Ring Those Golden Bells For You and Me." Miss Bessie Rafales, 15-year-old "Greek songbird," will sing "There Comes a Cry." The public is invited.

Postal Receipts Show Increase In Buena Park

BUENA PARK, July 8.—Buena Park is now receiving three mails a day, the new schedule which went into effect July 1, provides for arrival of mail at 5:45 a. m., 1 p. m., and 5:45 p. m. Departures from Buena Park are made at 5:45 a. m., 1:15 p. m. and 5:45 p. m. The noon dispatch connects with airplane mail service out of Los Angeles for the east.

Postoffice receipts for the past quarter showed an increase over the same period last year. Stamp sales gave a considerable increase over last year, and box rents raised over 60 per cent. The report in mailing of advertising matter by merchants, showed a slight decrease.

AWARD CONTRACT ON BRIDGE WORK

The board of supervisors today awarded a bridge contract, made an appropriation of $1000 to assist the Newport Harbor tournament of lights, and heard a request for increased appropriation to the work of the United States forest service nursery and research work.

Members of the Orange County Veterans Welfare association appeared and called attention to the fact that no provision was made for paying expenses of Harry Edwards, the veterans' relief officer, who recently became attached to the county welfare department under an agreement between the veterans' organzation and the board. The board indicated that this matter would be included in the new budget.

The bridge contract, amounting to $10,013, covering erection of a bridge on Walker street, west of Cypress, between Orange and Los Angeles counties, was awarded to the W. M. Ledbetter company, of Los Angeles. The cost of the work is to be shared jointly by Orange and Los Angeles counties.

The matter of increased appropriation for the support of the U. S. Forest work was presented by Charles J. Kraebel, of Berkeley, and J. E. Elliott, of San Bernardino.

The board took the attitude that they would not be able to make a larger contribution to this work than they had in the past, which is $1500.

LEGION PLANS TO TAKE PART IN CONVENTION

Plans for the forthcoming American Legion department convention which will be held at Sacramento August 18, 19 and 20, will be discussed by the American Legion post No. 131 at its regular dinner meeting Thursday night. This year's convention has aroused unprecedented interest throughout the state and one of the most pretentious programs since the inception of the yearly event has been assured.

The chief business before Thursday night's meeting will be election of delegates and alternates. In addition, nominations for post officers will be heard. In view of the fact that there is an unusual number of aspirants for the various offices, the keenest sort of friendly rivalry seems a certainty.

According to Lester Steinkopf, second vice-commander, all the Legion posts in Orange county will parade as one solid unit at the Sacramento convention. The local organization has but 30 days in which to fulfill its membership quota. To date, 590 members have been enrolled. The quota assigned is 625.

It also has been announced that the Legion auxiliary will attend the auxiliary state convention, which will be held in conjunction with the Legion convention. The local branch will make the trip to Sacramento in a special car and it is expected that a complete representative list in addition to the glee club will take an active part in the festivities. The special car will leave Santa Ana on August 17, arriving in Sacramento late that night. According to plans already outlined, the Legionnaires will leave here via bus on August 16 so as to be in Sacramento in time Sunday to take advantage of a sightseeing trip to points of interest in and around the convention city.

Sunday's program will consist chiefly of the reception of delegates and the registration of visiting outfits. Monday, the convention will open formally with a business session. Following this, there will be an elimination contest of drum and bugle corps. A highlight of the initial session will be a mammoth parade, with beautiful prizes being awarded winning organizations. In addition, competitive drill contests for bands, drum and bugle corps, and auxiliary drill teams will be a feature. Monday night a dance will be held in the Memorial auditorium.

Another business session will mark the opening of the second day of the convention. Following a consummation of the business of the day, a boat ride on the Sacramento river has been scheduled. The boat will leave the dock at noon and will not return until 5 p. m. Several dances will be held in the evening and for those who may clamor for more, a midnight show, featuring the best talent available, has been arranged.

A complete sports carnival will be held every day and there is some indication that members of the local post will represent Santa Ana in the various contests. Wednesday will bring the convention to a close. At this time business routine will be completed and final reports for the year presented.

Thursday night's dinner meeting will start promptly at 6:30. Dinner will be served by the ladies of the auxiliary. Harold Rasmussen, who is in charge of the entertainment committee, has promised a unique program and a full turnout is urged.

BAN ALPHABET

LONDON, July 8.—Vodka was recently added to the liquor stocks at bars of the House of Commons in London. It is a symbol of the resumption of diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia. Few members, however, ask for vodka. Beers is by far the favorite with British legislators.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, July 8.—(UP)—Highly irregular price movements occurred in a quiet session on the curb market today.

Public utilities, as usual, attracted most attention. Electric Bond and Share and Cities Service recovered some of an early decline when offerings drid up, while renewed demand was in evidence for American and Foreign Power warrants and Brazilian Traction. Niagara Hudson Power and Associated Telephone Utilities were weak.

Oils, investment trusts and mining stocks were in free supply during the session, with declines ranging from fractions to more than a point.

Father-In-Law Of Judge Tucker Is Given Elks Post

Joseph T. Farrer, of Provo, Utah, father-in-law of Judge J. B. Tucker, of this city, was elected grand esteemed leading knight at today's session of the convention of Elks in Atlantic City, according to word received here today by E. R. Majors, secretary of Santa Ana lodge, from Fred B. Newcomb, who is in attendance as a delegate from the local lodge.

Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, Pa., was elected grand exalted ruler, and J. E. Masters, of Charleroi, Pa., was returned to the office of grand recording secretary.

The great task of preparing the valuations and setting them up on the county books has occupied the time and attention of a force of 24 men since the work was started on the first of last March, in addition to the work of the regular office force. "We have made a complete survey of property in the county and have endeavored to give every property owner an equitable assessment," Sleeper declared.

An interesting sidelight revealed in the compilation of the figures shows that property totaling $2,028,030 is exempt from taxation this year under the soldier's exemption provision. Last year this figure was $1,961,085.

Personal Property

The largest increase in any one item of those used in arriving at the total on which the county tax rate is figured, was under the heading of personal property. The increase here was $4,093,025, going from $19,876,175 last year, to $23,969,200 this year. This increase was explained by Sleeper as being due to greater oil storage in the county this year, as well as additional wealth that has been brought into the county during the year by new residents.

The next largest increase was in intangibles, which rose in value from $5,315,725 to $8,208,920, for an increase of $2,893,185. Improvements ranked third, with an increase of $1,698,830. The figure this year was $25,957,610, while last year it was $24,258,780. Real estate made an increase of $906,270, jumping to $77,361,195 from $76,454,925. Trees went up on the books in valuation from $16,993,075 to $17,790,605 and increase of $797,530.

The item of decrease was under the division listed as mineral rights, where the valuations dropped from $35,427,145 last year to $31,420,035. This represented a loss of $4,907,110, which the assessor stated was due to decrease in oil production during the year.

The county tax rate last year was $1.45 inside cities and $1.85 outside cities.

COURT CONTINUES RALPH STULL CASE

The case of Ralph Stull, Orange man, charged with failure to stop and render aid after an automobile accident, and also with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was continued in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning until tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Stull is alleged to have been the driver of a machine which on July 4, ran down Pauline and Virginia Trickey and John Estes, of Santa Ana, at Newport Beach, injuring all three of them.

The car is said to have dashed away after the accident. The man was arrested by State Traffic Officers Buer and Vaughn at his home in Orange, two hours after the crash.

PARDON DENIED TO MOONEY BY GOV. C. C. YOUNG

fused to pardon Mooney, he, nevertheless, had given the application for pardon a most thorough and careful consideration.

In making a study of the case Governor Young said, he had absolutely no prejudice against Mooney for any social theory Mooney held or for any other crimes with which he may have been charged.

"If he was innocent of this particular crime, to keep him in prison would be an ineffaceable blot upon the good name of this state," the governor declared. "On the other hand, if he was not innocent he was guilty of one of the most uncalled for and atrocious crimes ever committed, the wanton murder of unsuspecting men, women and children gathered upon a public street to witness a patriotic demonstration of San Francisco citizens.

Is Not Convinced

"Although I spent months in studying these cases and carefully read the transcript of the trials, as well as thousands of pages of the briefs, petitions, affidavits and other documents filed with me as continuously stated during my investigation, I was not able to convince myself of the innocence of the two prisoners, but I had been convinced that innocence or guilt of the one implied corresponding innocence or guilt of the other, and that whatever treatment was accorded the one should in all fairness apply to the other."

"Accordingly," the governor's statement continued, "it was with much satisfaction that I learned that Billings had applied to the justices of the Supreme Court for a pardon recommendation for I realized that this would mean an independent and unbiased study by the highest judicial body of the state, composed of men of specialized training and outstanding ability, and I sincerely welcomed this assistance in a case which I found exceedingly difficult and baffling."

Cases Similar

The governor then went on to declare that as early as November, 1929, he decided that whatever recommendations the supreme court should make in the Billings case must apply with equal force to his decision in the Mooney case.

Under state law, Billings, a two-time loser, was forced to seek the approval of the supreme court before he could appeal to the governor for pardon. Mooney because he had only one conviction against him carried his request for freedom direct to the governor.

Jurisdiction On Misdemeanors To Be Changed Here

In accordance with a recent ruling of the state supreme court, District Attorney Z. B. West today issued an opinion declaring that all prosecutions for misdemeanors shall be prosecuted in the township in which the offense occurs. Notices of this procedure were sent by the district attorney to Sheriff Sam Jernigan so that the enforcement arm of the county government would be familiar with the change.

Prior to the recent amendment to the penal code, the right was given to the complaining officer or to the prosecution, to file all justice court matters in any justice court in the county, with certain limitations. The new amendment and the ruling of the supreme court make it necessary now that in every instance the place of happening of the offense must be ascertained and the prosecution must be handled in that township justice court.

Failure to file action in the proper court will result in defendants being entitled to a writ of habeas corpus, where convicted in the wrong township court, West pointed out in his communication to the sheriff.

SAYS PARALYSIS STILL THREATENS

The infantile paralysis situation in Orange county is still a dangerous element to be considered, it was announced today by Dr. K H. Sutherland, county health officer.

Dr. Sutherland revealed that while only on additional case had been reported, extreme precautions must be exercised by the public if the dread disease was to be conquered Irma Arundell, 16, Harper street, Costa Mesa, is the latest victim of the disease. Her case, however, is not considered critical, although she immediately was placed under quarantine by Dr. Murray Bates of the health department. This is the 26th case reported since April.

Dr. Sutherland issued a statement in which he urged parents to safeguard their children. He stressed the ease by which the disease could be contracted. "Crowded streets, any public place, are an open invitation to contagion," warned Dr. Sutherland.

"We have reason to believe that 5 to 10 per cent of the people may be carrying the infection without themselves knowing it or showing any sign of the disease, and it would be well for adults to keep this fact in mind."

GETS JUDGMENT

Judgment was entered yesterday by Judge G. K. Scovel for the plaintiff in the case of Bessie Mize vs. Alex P. Nelson, et al. The award carried foreclosure of a mortgage and $3500, which was the balance due on a note, interest amounting to $169.96, title search fee of $24 and attorney's fees of $225. Ira Kroese was appointed commissioner by the court to handle sale of the property.

BEACH COUNCIL RESCINDS LAW OVER DERRICKS

said he had not completed the check of the names as he is required to do. He said the check would be completed by Wednesday.

It was then that Mayor Bowen with customary decision asked that technicalities be waived and that the council take the situation in hand right now. Councilman Conrad, equally ready to meet the issue offered his resolution and without debate the matter went to a vote and carried unanimously.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

The only way to prevent your faith from degenerating into fanaticism is to keep your emphasis upon the nature of God. When you bring every doubt and questioning close to the central truth that God loves you, you can be content to trust Him to do for you and for those who are precious to you whatever His love prompts.

With the consciousness of His love, you go forward serenely and devoid of fear, strong in the realization that nothing can overwhelm you. Even your heartache and sorrow He shares and He will help you to so live through it that you come close to Him and to the one dearest to you.

TORRES—At Owensmouth, Calif. July 5th, 1930. Jose Torres, age 18 years. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. at the Guadalupe Catholic Church under the direction of Harell & Brown. Interment Santa Ana cemetery.

(Funeral Notice)

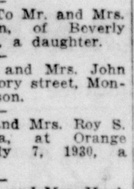

SNOW—Funeral sreives for J. Edmund Snow, who died July 6th, will be held Wednesday, July 9th, at 10:30 a. m., from Smith and Tuthill's chapel, Rev. O. Scott McFarland officiating. Interment Fairhaven cemetery.

TRANSCRIPT OF RECORD GIVEN TO PROSECUTOR

A coroner's jury, in an inquest this morning over the body of J. Edmund Snow, 55, prominent Santa Ana real estate man and pioneer of Orange county, who was killed in an automobile crash Sunday night, advised that the district attorney's office make a further investigation into the accident, but at the same time reported that Snow came to his death in an accidental manner.

Death was due to a crushed chest according to the findings of the jury. The inquest was held at the Smith and Tuthill Funeral parlors at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Snow was killed instantly at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night when the automobile he was driving, occupied also by his wife, was struck by a machine driven by Herman Millerat, 19, of Route No. 4 Anaheim. The crash occurred at the intersection of the Katella road and Haster street. Mr. and Mrs. Snow were returning to Santa Ana at the time.

Millerat said that the Snow car was speeding at the time of the accident and that he did not see the machine until after his car had entered the intersection.

Funeral services for Mr. Snow will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Smith and Tuthill Funeral parlors. Burial will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

Leo Friis, of the district attorney's office was present at the inquest today and questioned the witnesses. A transcript of the testimony will be turned over to the district attorney's office for further use.

Arrest Delhi Man On Murder Count

Alleged to be wanted in Los Angeles for a murder concerning which local officers knew none of the details, M. Gomez, 40, of Delhi, was arrested last night by Sheriff Sam Jernigan and Deputy Sheriff Jess Buckles.

The man was lodged in the county jail and several hours later was turned over to Los Angeles police officers, who came here to return him to Los Angeles.

Gomez was arrested on a Los Angeles warrant which gave no information regarding the asserted crime.

ROUND TABLE TO ENTERTAIN O. D. BRUNDAGE

The Santa Ana Round Table has completed arrangements for its regular weekly meeting and will have as its guest of honor, International President O. D. Brundage, of Dallas, Tex. The meeting will be held at Ketner's cafe Thursday noon instead of on Friday. This will formally mark President Brundage's first visit to Southern California and the local chapter considers itself fortunate in being able to secure his presence for this cocasion.

According to Clarence E. Olesson, district secretary, President Brundage will arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow noon and will attend the charter banquet of the Hollywood Round Table. He is scheduled to arrive in Santa Ana early Thursday morning. Immediately following Thursday's meeting, President Brundage will depart for San Francisco, where he is slated to attend a meeting in that city.

Elaborate preparations have been made to receive Brundage and district officers who have promised to attend. The entire membership of District No. 2 has been urged to participate in the program. As an added feature, initiation services will be held for seven new members who recently were admitted into Knighthood. A musical program, as well, will round out the entertainment.

It also has been announced that the Santa Ana Round Table will be represented at the annual convention, which will be held in Milwaukee July 16th-19th. Delegates planning to attend will leave here July 8th.

Seacord Pledged To Junior Lions

Emmett Seacord, graduate of Tustin Union High school, was chosen as a pledge at the regular meeting of the Junior Lions last evening, which was held in the home of Eric Twist, 1520 North Main street. A decision was made to hold the next regular meeting at Corona Del Mar, July 14. Following the business session, refreshments were served.

Members present were Ray Glesper, Delmer Brown, Truscott Lindsey, Oran Asa, Omar Williams, Virgil Brown, Willard Minor, Nelson Conway, Emmett Seacord, pledge, and the host, Eric Twist.

Youths Arrested By Fruit Patrol

James W. Saxton, 18, and a younger man were arrested by members of the Orange county fruit patrol last night and are being held in the county jail on suspicion of fruit thefts.

Both youths reported they resided at 2511 Forty-first place, San Diego. No official charge has been lodged against them.

BAND PROGRAM WILL FEATURE SPANISH MUSIC

Lovers of colorful Spanish music and dancing will welcome the announcement made today by D. C. Cianfoni, director of Santa Ana Municipal band, who stated that an all Spanish program, composed of typical Spanish favorites, will be featured at the band's regular weekly concert, to be given in Birch park next Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Senorita Faustino Lucero, one of the best known Spanish dancers on the coast, and especially popular with local lovers of Spanish entertainment, will appear on the program as a special feature. She will dance the vivid "Ja Jota," also the equally colorful "Estudiantina." She will be accompanied by the band.

Another feature of special interest will be appearance of the well known Spanish soprano, Louisita Yorba, connected with the celebrated Mission play of San Gabriel during several seasons in the past, and a singer of varied stage experienced. She will be heard in two favorite Spanish songs, "Estrillita" and "La Paloma."

Typical Spanish compositions to be featured by the band will include the march, "La Sorella" (Borel), "Valse Espanita" (Rosey), the overture from Carlos Gomez' Spanish opera, "Il Guarany," also the Spanish suite "La Feria," a modern work of richly colorful character.

This suite, composed by Paul Lacome, opens with the movement "Los Toros," followed by "La Reja Serenade," the suite closing with a third movement in waltz form, "La Zarzuela," a typical Spanish dance form.

Lacome was born in France in 1938 and was especially noted as a composer of operettas, having also produced three orchestral suites, considerable chamber music and over 200songs and piano pieces. He is also the composer of the popular dance "L'Estudiantina," in which Miss Lucero will appear on Thursday night's program.

Files Suit For $10,000 Damages

Alleging that he has suffered injuries to his damage in the sum of $10,000 as the result of an accident, Lewis C. Barrett yesterday filed suit against J. P. McCune and W. L. Pankratz.

Barrett alleged that the negligent operation of an auto by Pankratz, as an agent for McCune, on the 29th day of last March, resulted in the accident which caused his injuries. His complaint states that he was struck by the car while crossing the street on Ocean boulevard near Garden Grove. It is asserted that he sustained serious injuries, including internal injuries, and that he was confined to the hospital for a period of four weeks and four days as a result thereof.

'BAD MAN' GIVEN CHAIN GANG TERM

Asserted to be a "bad man," the killer of three, Encarnacion Guadan, 57, of La Jolla, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Harry Carter and F. L. Humiston last night, in a Mexican woman's house, near La Jolla.

In Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning, he was found guilty of failure to provide for his family and was sentenced to one year in the county jail, the time to be spent on the county chain gang for which the county will pay the family $1.50 per day.

On the way to arrest Guadan last night, officers were warned by another Mexican that Guadan was a "bad man" and would cause trouble. He was found at the woman's house and submitted to arrest without a word.

ANNOUNCE NEW ASPIRANTS IN MOVIE CONTEST

Three new contestants in the big Santa Ana Daily Register-Fox West Coast theaters popularity contest, now under way, were announced today, bringing the total number of aspirants for the various prizes offered to 19.

The new contestants are Miss Elizabeth Meyer, of 2035 North Broadway; Eddie Cochems, 1407 North Bush street, and Robert Maylon, of 1212 Lacy street.

Miss Meyer is the candidate placed in the field by the Santa Ana pyramid of Sciots. The Sciots met in a body at the Fox West Coast theater last night and announced their candidate in the contest, stating that every effort would be made to see that she won first place and first prize, which is the leading part in a feature motion picture, which will be made in Santa Ana.

Cochems and Naylon entered the contest on their own initiative. Both are well known in Santa Ana. Miss Meyer is at the present time visiting friends in Texas. She made the trip by airplane, but is expected to be back in Santa Ana on Friday.

Well known throughout the city as a ballet and toe dancer, she has appeared in a number of private entertainments here during the past several months. She is a pupil of the Santa Ana School of the Dance, at 417 1-2 West Fourth street.

The popularity contest is creating even more interest in Santa Ana than was expected, according to a statement made today by Norman Sprowl, Fox theaters manager here, who said that several additional prizes had been offered by merchants. The merchants and the prizes will be announced tomorrow. At the present time, the following prizes have been offered: Leading parts for a boy and girl in the motion picture to be made here by the Fox West Coast theaters; a ten-day trip to Catalina island, with all expenses paid; the down payment on a Willys-Knight sport model roadster; a $50 evening dress, a $60 set of photographs, a $50 ladies' wrist watch, a suit of men's clothes, and a free round trip via airplane to San Diego, the latter prize being donated by the Eddie Martin airport.

Merchants in the contest include the Sample shop, William Lorenz, jeweler; Cochems' Photography shop, Brooks Clothing store and the local dealers of the Willys-Knight automobile.

Votes in the contest can be secured through purchases at any of the stores of the above merchants, or through subscription to the Santa Ana Register or through admission tickets to the Fox West Coast theaters here. Each cent spent entitles the purchaser to one vote.

Sprowl announced today that the second accounting of votes would be made tomorrow and that, in the future, the official standings of the contestants would be given out every Wednesday and Saturday until the contest ends on August 24.

KEEPING COOL IN 'HOT' COSTUMES

College boys here and there who have been wearing campus shorts since the advent of hot weather have met their match in co-eds attending summer sessions at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., who surprised everybody the other day by calmly strolling to classes in a varied array of shorts and sports waists. Here are a few of the girls as they appeared in their abbreviated garb—and it was so hot that college officials didn't have the heart to object.

Court Notes

Judge G. K. Scovel issued an order yesterday approving settlement of a disputed claim for damages in behalf of Wanda Mae Wood, 6, daughter of E. C. Wood, of Costa Mesa. Under the agreement as approved the father is to receive $500 for the daughter in settlement for injuries she received in an auto accident June 1. The payment is to be made by an insurance company which carried insurance on the car driven by Elizabeth Gibson, which it is alleged was responsible for the accident.

Nannie Myers filed a complaint in superior court yesterday naming H. S. Elgin et al as defendants, in which she asks foreclosure of a mortgage on property in Santa Ana and judgment in the amount of $1637.50 plus certain costs, interest and attorney's fees.

A complaint on a promissory note was filed in superior court yesterday by the Southern County bank, of Anaheim, against M. N. Jay, asking judgment in the amount of $500 plus interest and $100 attorney fees. The basis of the suit is a note for $500 dated Dec. 2, 1929, which it is alleged is due and unpaid.

F. S. McClain and nine others are named as defendants in a suit brought yesterday by Lucy A. Kerch on a note and mortgage. Property involved is located in Santa Ana. Judgment is asked in the amount of $3000 plus interest costs and fees.

Ole Hanson, founder of San Clemente, will deliver an address tomorrow night at the regular meeting of the Tustin Junior Chamber of Commerce in the Knights of Pythias hall, it was announced today by A. H. Holford.

Besides the talk by Hanson on city development and building the question of street lights and sewers will be discussed. All members of the group are urged to attend and bring their families, it was stated by Holford.

FULLERTON BANKER DIES AT SAUGUS

Lilburn H. Smith, 82, pioneer of Fullerton and the first president of the First National Trust and Savings bank of Fullerton, died of a heart attack yesterday while motoring to Sacramento, death occurring at Saugus.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later at McAulay and Suters of Fullerton as the case was put into the hands of the coroner. He was driving to the northern city with a relative, John Howe, when death came. He lived alone in the First National bank building at 118 Amerige avenue.

Smith is survived by four sons, Emmanuel, Dan, Will A., all of Fullerton, and Ozzo of Wilmington; two brothers, J. M. Smith of Enid, Okla., and C. F. Smith of Sacramento, and one sister, Mrs. Eliza Cooney. Dan Smith, who is now in Canada, is coming to Fullerton for the funeral.

LARGE GROUPS AT 'Y' POOL DROPPED

Swimming classes at the Y. M. C. A. for boys and girls today had been discontinued in an effort by the Y. M. C. A. to co-operate with health authorities in elimination of risks incident to the prevalence of infantile paralysis, it was announced today by Ralph Smedley, executive secretary.

"A large number of young people have been accustomed to going into the pool in the hot weather of the summer period," the secretary said. "Since the health department is trying to do away with assemblies of children, this action has been taken to eliminate the possibility of having 40 or 50 boys in the pool at one time.

"Individual instruction in swimming and life saving, or work with small groups of half a dozen at a time, may be carried on under the personal direction of R. R. Russick, physical director. The plunge will be kept in use by men and women, as usual."

PLANS COMPLETED FOR SNOW FUNERAL

Plans had been completed today for funeral service at 10:30 a. m., tomorrow, at the Smith and Tuthill chapel, for J. Edmund Snow, pioneer resident of Santa Ana, who was killed Sunday evening in an automobile accident near Anaheim.

The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will conduct the services. Interment will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

Mr. Snow was 55 years of age and had been a resident of the Santa Ana-Tustin district virtually all of his life. He was the son of the late H. K. Snow, one of the early pioneers of Tustin.

JULY SALE AT VANDERMAST'S IS ANNOUNCED

The July clarence sale of Vandermast, Inc., will start tomorrow at the store at Fourth and Broadway. The annual event is designed to interest men and also women who buy for men. The sale will be the first since the organization moved to its present store. The store and display windows have been filled with seasonable, new merchandise.

The management declared today that no special goods had been bought for the sale, and pointed out that every item is a part of the regular stock.

New fall goods are arriving daily and in order to make room for the merchandise it is necessary to sell some of the present stock at reduced prices, it was pointed out.

The goods have been arranged to facilitate the customers making their selections with the least effort. Courteous and painstaking salesmen are on hand to be of assistance to visitors at the store.

One of the attractive features of the store is the downstairs section ,where the boys' department is located, one of the most complete departments of its kind in the state. The management reported that customers have come from as far as Hollywood because of the wide assortment that is on hand in this division of Vandermast's store.

Candidates Will Be Entertained By Breakfasters

A report by E. S. Morrow on plans being developed for the meeting of the Santa Ana Breakfast club on August 7, when candidates for all county offices, and newspaper men of the county, will be invited as special guests, will be a feature of the meeting of the club here Thursday morning, it was announced today by B. Z. McKinney, president.

Assurance was given by the president and Morrow that none of the candidates in any way will be embarrassed through attendance at the meeting, as there is no intention of 'horseplay" with the candidates as the "but end" of jokes.

James Anderson will officiate Thursday morning as program chairman, and it is anticipated he will make a brief talk on the condition of the stock market. Dancing girls who are pupils of Miss Gertrude Stebbins will provide a portion of the entertainment.

ROLPH COMMITTEE ORGANIZED HERE

Organization of an Orange county Rolph-for-Governor committee had been completed here today, it was announced by members of the committee.

Dr. R. A. Cushman has been named as chairman of the committee, other officers being as follows: Joseph P. Smith, Santa Ana, aid to chairman; J. P. Greeley, Balboa, vice chairman; Carl Mock, Santa Ana, secretary-treasurer; Owen R. Owen, Anaheim, assistant secretary; James Irvine sr. of Tustin, Louis Moulton, of El Toro, Sam L. Kraemer jr. of Anaheim, Phil A. Stanton, of Anaheim ,advisory board.

Members of the executive committee were named by supervisorial districts as follows: W. J. Kelly, Santa Ana, first district; E. B. Stevens, Huntington Beach, second; Thomas L. McFadden, Placentia, third; Dr. V. A. Rossiter, Orange, fourth; Harry H. Williamson, Balboa, fifth.

TEXT OF GOVERNOR'S DENIAL OF MOONEY PARDON

THE CASE OF BILLINGS AND MOONEY.

"I have before me an application for pardon in the case of Thomas J. Mooney, now undergoing life imprisonment in San Quentin prison, together with a communication from the state supreme court in which six of its members refuse to recommend a pardon to Warren K .Billings, convicted of the same crime though at a separate trial. Mooney was tried during January and February of 1917 and convicted for guilty participation in a bomb explosion in San Francisco on July 22, 1916—an explosion which took a toll of ten lives and maimed and wounded many more. The original sentence of death imposed upon the defendant was a year and a half later commuted to imprisonment for life.

"Although two previous governors had refused to pardon Mooney, I have nevertheless given his application most thorough and exceedingly careful consideration. I have been in receipt of many hundreds of communications from all portions of the world, most of them evidencing a sincere belief in the prisoner's innocence and urging his pardon, though in practically every instance with no first hand knowledge of the case except what they have been told by others, or have read either in the press or in literature sent out by the Mooney defense committee. There has been no propanganda or pressure of any kind directed to the keeping of Mooney in prison.

No Prejudice

"In making my study of the case, I have done so with absolutely no prejudice against Tom Mooney or any social theories he may hold or for any other crimes with which he may have been charged, or may have been capable of committing. If he was innocent of this particular crime, to keep him in prison would be an ineffaceable blot upon the good name of the state. On the other hand, if he was not innocent, he was guilty of one of the most uncalled-for and atrocious crimes ever committed—the wanton murder of unsuspecting men, women and children, gathered upon a public street to witness a patriotic demonstration of San Francisco's citizens.

"Coupled with the case of Mooney was the parallel case of Warren K. Billings, who several months before had been convicted of participation in the same crime, and who had already served a term in prison for another offense. The constitution of California expressly forbids a governor to grant executive clemency to a twice-convicted felon except upon recommendation by a majority of the justices of the state supreme court; and on November 7, 1929, Billings applied to the court for such a recommendation. In order to secure all possible assistance and advice as to the case of Mooney, I referred it to the advisory pardon board, which is regularly constituted by law to assist in investigating applications for executive clemency. Their report is now before me, and is hereby made a part of this statement.

Although I had spent many months in studying these cases and had carefully read the transcripts of the trials, as well as the thousands of pages of the briefs, petitions, affidavits and other documents filed with me, as continuously stated during my investigations I had not been able to convince myself of the innocence of the prisoners; but I had been convinced that innocence or guilt of the one implied corresponding innocence or guilt of the other, and that whatever treatment was accorded the one should in all fairness apply to the other.

Asks For Pardon

Accordingly, it was with much satisfaction that I learned that Billings had applied to the justices of the supreme court for a pardon recommendation; for I realized that this would mean an independent and unbiased study by the highest judicial body of the state, composed of men of specialized training and outstanding ability; and I sincerely welcomed this assistance in a case which I had found exceedingly difficult and baffling. Early in November 1929, I expressed myself on this matter as follows:

"In all the maze of conflicting testimony at the trials, and in all the doubts raised since that time, one thing stands out clearly, and is conceded equally by those who favor and those who oppose a pardon—that both men are guilty or that neither is. Although they were tried separately for the same offense, the evidence at both trials in all essential particulars applies to one as well as to the other. Therefore whatever recommendation the supreme court makes or refuses to make in the Billings case must apply with equal force to the case of Mooney."

I have quoted this statement which I made when Billings first made application to the supreme court justices, for I would not have it thought that I have changed my attitude in this matter in any particular. In fact, I have consistently stated that the justices' decision, after their independent unbiased study, would of necessity be conclusive; and in order to insure this independent study, I have scrupulously refrained from discussing the matter with the members of the court. In fact, until their recent communications of July 2 was sent to me, I had not received the slightest intimation as to what their recommendation would be.

In denying Billings' application for a favorable recomendation, the justices law particular stress upon the witness, John McDonald, who identified both Billings and Mooney as the men who placed the bomb which caused the loss of life. Both Billings and Mooney now contend that McDonald's original testimony was wiped out by an affidavit made four years later in New York City, in which he repudiated his original testimony. The question naturally arises as to how this reudiation was secured, and on what basis it is entitled to more credit than the testimony given on oath at the trials—testimony which might easily have led to a death sentence for both defendants.

Distrusted Affidavit

For various reasons which are set forth at length, the justices distrusted this affidavit; but in order to give Billings the benefit of the doubt determined that "some effort should be made to locate John McDonald, with a view to such further questions as might serve to shed light upon the circumstances and motives attending and animating the affidavit in question." This was the wisest and fairest action the members of the court could have taken, for if it could be shown that such witnesses as John McDonald had issued false affidavits through improper motives, obviously no pardon or commutation could be recommended; while if it could be shown that the repudiating affidavits were true and dependable, the case against Billings would be materially weakened.

Right here comes an action on the part of Billings that seems to admit of no explanation,—namely a letter under date of May 4, 1930, addressed to the court protesting against any such outside investigation as they were proposing, and stating his belief that neither the constitution nor the penal code conferred upon the supreme court the right to make such investigation. Upon the receipt of this letter the justices abandoned any attempts to secure the presence of McDonald. Meanwhile, there is no escaping the fact that Billings threw himself open to suspicion through his apparent fear to have McDonald come before the members of the court, where the circumstances surrounding his affidavit might be investigated.

In the case of Mooney, there were two witnesses who testified to seeing Billings and Mooney at the scene of the explosion—one of these was McDonald, who also testified in the Billings case, and the other was the cattle dealer, F. C. Oxman, who did not testify in that case. I have made a special study of Oxman's testimony, and desire to say that I thoroughly discredit it. I have personally and at great length interviewed both Mr. and Mrs. Hatcher of Woodland, where Oxman visited on the morning of July, and am convinced that he did not arrive in San Francisco until hours after the explosion took place. I believe that Oxman was nothing more or less than a publicity-seeking romancer, though I do not believe that his connection with the case was through any connivance or conspiracy with the prosecuting officials. I cannot agree, however, that the case against Mooney falls with the discrediting of Oxman, for the testimony of John McDonald is as strong a factor in that case as in the case of Billings.

Not Warranted

I think there would be general agreement with the concurring opinion of Associate Justice Shenk, who, though conceding that the showing now made by the applicant does not warrant a recommendation for pardon, nevertheless insists that

'The means should be made available, as occasion might require, to disclose the circumstances and conditions under which a witness, thoroughly examined and cross-examined at a public trial, has later cast reflections upon or repudiated his former testimony given under oath in open court. . . . The important thing is to arrive at the truth of the matter, and in order to do so we should have the power to employ any appropriate means to satisfy ourselves of the truth or falsity of the repudiation, especially in the absence of any statute or rule governing the procedure in the premises. If we should exercise that power it might be that the truth would be satisfactorily brought to light, either for or against the application."

In view of Justice Shenk's observation in this regard, I would most respectfully suggest to the members of the supreme court that, should McDonald or any other material witness who has repudiated his former testimony appear before them for the purpose of proving that such repudiations are trustworthy, and that their former testimony was perjured, it may be only just and right to consider the propriety of giving a hearing to such witnesses in the case of Billings, just as I should desire to do in the case of Mooney.

No Identification

Until the truth of the repudiating affidavits can be definitely established, no one can question the decision of the supreme court or the reasoning of the advisory pardon board, for there are certainly some portions of McDonald's affidavit which appear patently untrustworthy. For instance in his affidavit McDonald alleges that no proper identification of either Mooney or Billings was made by him—that Lieutenant Goff took him to the door of Mooney's cell and said "This is your man: This is Mooney;" and that he subsequently took him to Billings' cell, "asked a turnkey to open the door, and said, "Come out here, Billings!" Upon careful investigation I am convinced that nothing of this kind occurred; nor can any one believe that Billings and Mooney and their attorneys knew of such a spurious identification without calling attention to the matter in either of the trials.

In view of what has been said above, and in view of the fact that from the very first I have considered the cases of Billings and Mooney as parallel and in common with al lothers have recognized that both must be guilty or both innocent, until some further light is shed upon the case which I do not now possess I manifestly must accept the conclusions of the supreme court and the advisory pardon board, and accordingly must at this time deny a pardon to Thomas J. Mooney. I am aware that this decision will be disappointing to many, particularly to those who have come to feel strongly on this subject without having had the opportunity to study the case at first hand; but in a matter like this I must be guided by a conscientious regard for my oath of office, rather than a willingness to respond to popular appeal.

Quotes Letter

Along this line I possibly can do no better than to quote from a letter I wrote in December of last year to Mr. Fremont Older, who has from the begining taken such an earnest and sincere interest in these cases:

"Although I realize just as you that whatever decision I reach may be seized upon by political opponents, even though they themselves through similar study would have reached exactly the same conclusions as I, nevertheless the proper disposition of these cases is a duty too sacred to justify attack by those who would seek to use it as a political football. The good name of the state demands that this whole matter be removed entirely from the realm of politics; and I trust that it is not necessary to pledge you my word that, whether I am in a position to decide these before a campaign or during a campaign, my final will not depend one iota upon when it is made."

"That this 'final decision' has been made at the present time rather than six months ago is due to my feeling that out of deference to the supreme court I could not properly act upon the case of Mooney until the members of the court, in accordance with the constitution, had acted on the parallel case of Billings, I am announcing my decision at the earliest possible moment after receiving the communication from the court."

LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, July 8.—Mrs. Elizabeth Richardson has rented part of her house to Mrs. Vivienne C. Kearns, lately of Honolulu, who will be here for three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Loos, parents of Anita Loos, author of "Men Prefer Blondes," visited friends in this city last week.

La Casa del Camino had a record crowd over the Fourth with every room taken. Among the guests of note were Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Womer of Topeka, Kansas, Mr. Womer being president of Topeka University; Mrs. Helen Powers and daughter, Miss Lucile Powers of Hollywood, the latter being one of the rising young stars for M. G. M.; Henry Major, artist and friend of Ross Shattuck, and Guy Bates Post who came July 3 to spend the holiday with his mother-in-law, Mrs. J. B. Pultz, who is a permanent guest at the hotel. Mr. Post will leave soon for New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Heil G. Rider were given a pleasant surprise last week when Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pidwell of New York, while touring California, called up and were invited to spend Saturday and Sunday at the Rider place. Mr. Pidwell is head of the Irving Bank and Trust Company of New York and both he and Mrs. Pidwell are friends of many years standing of the host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jehle entertained a group of seven girls from St. Paul, Minn., who were formerly in the employ of Mr. Jehle when he was head of the West Publishing company in the twin city. Among the guests were Miss Susie Griffith, now librarian at the Milwaukee Public Library and librarian of the Law Library of St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Cannon of the summer art school entertained a number of week end guests over the Fourth among them Judge and Mrs. Charles B. MacCoy of Los Angeles, Mrs. Vera Vaughn of Santa Monica, Mrs. Ruby Pollitzer, concert pianist, and daughter Stephanie and Mrs. Townsend of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Champion visited their son Frank jr. and Mrs. Champion at San Marino recently. The hosts had recently returned from New York.

Miss Allie Heisler has taken an apartment at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth W. Brown for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jones of Alhambra entertained Mr. and Mrs. Peter Boyle of San Gabriel at their summer cottage here over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Heisler are having a pleasant visit from Mr. Heisler's brother, R. V. Meisler, who motored out this week from Riverton, New Jersey, near Philadelphia, and will remain all summer. Mrs. Heisler and the two children are with him. They are delighted with Laguna, seeing it for the first time, and Mr. Heisler scarcely recognized the place which he last saw 15 years ago.

Miss Ethel Gordinier, Mrs. Wheeler Davis and Miss Virginia Woolley have motored to Big Bear for a five days' outing.

Good looking...agreeable

...but 'B.O.' (Body Odor) spoiled the good impression

EVEN AT a summer hotel where men were scarce, he couldn't make a hit with girls. They liked his looks. They would have liked him, too, if he hadn't had one fault they couldn't excuse.

Of course he didn't suspect the real reason. And nobody told him. People hate to hint at body odor even by its polite name—"B.O." . . . Later he found out the truth and a simple way to be safe. He's having a lot more fun now. He's one of the "crowd"—invited everywhere since he learned the easy way to keep perspiration odorless.

Hotter weather—take no chances

Don't trifle with "B.O." It's so easy for anyone to offend and not know it—especially these hot days when we perspire more freely. We quickly become used to an ever-present odor—don't notice it in ourselves—never dream it is annoying others. But it is!

Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy—then you're safe. Enjoy its cooling, refreshing, penetrating lather, so abundant even in hardest water. Heat and stickiness quickly vanish—every trace of "B.O." goes, too. For Lifebuoy's rich, creamy lather is gently antiseptic. It purifies pores. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that quickly rinses away—tells you why.

The finest of beauty soaps

Looking for a good complexion soap? Get Lifebuoy. There's none better at any price. Its bland, searching lather deep-cleanses pores—gently frees them of clogged impurities that mar skin beauty—coaxes back fresh, healthy radiance to dull sallow skins. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

Late News From Orange And Nearby Towns

Set Dedicaton Date For Presbyterian Organ

WILL FINISH INSTALLATION IN FEW WEEKS

ORANGE, July 8.—The dedication services of the new $10,000 pipe organ now being installed in the First Presbyterian church are to be held September 14, according to an announcement made this morning. The date for the dedication services was set last night at a meeting of the church board.

It is expected that work of installing the organ will be completed in about three weeks' time. The installation is under the supervision of W. W. Dorr, Pacific coast representative of the manufacturers of the instrument, who will take part in the dedication.

The organ is to be dedicated to the memory of Mrs. Lola Parson, late wife of the Rev. M. L. Pearson, who was prominently identified with the work of the church for many years. The echo organ is a gift to the church from a Sunday school class taught many years ago by Mrs. Samuel Armor. Many of the class members, now grown, live in this vicinity and the echo organ which is to be installed in the tower will be dedicated to Mrs. Armor. Mrs. Armor is at present one of the deaconesses of the church.

The chimes of the new instrument are a gift from Mrs. D. P. Crawford and are a memorial to her husband, D. P. Crawford, who passed away here some time ago and who was an elder of the church.

The organ was shipped here from Hartford, Conn., by the way of San Pedro. The Presbyterian church is one of the oldest in the city and until recently when a new Sunday school building was added, the original building was used as the Sunday school room.

S. A. V. I. Company Installs Pumping Outfit On Monday

ORANGE, July 8.—As the S. A. V. I. company has discontinued pumping from private pumps and is using only pumps that belong to the company, the price of water was reduced to $120 per hundred inches, the change becoming effective Monday morning, it was announced by O. S. Mansur, secretary.

Water was $1.40 per hundred inches per hour until the recent reduction.

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?

Use Tysmol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm.

The safest and surest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tysmol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing, aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear.

ORANGE, July 8.—Frank Profit, who disappeared from this city about a year ago, died in a St. Louis hospital June 28, it was learned here yesterday. Profit returned from church one Sunday morning and left the house while his wife was preparing dinner, stepping from his home at 330 North Shafer street, into oblivion.

With but a few dollars in his pocket he made his way to St. Louis where he had relatives and where some months later he recovered his memory. Of how he traveled and what he did in the interim between the time he left Orange and when he came to himself in a hospital in St. Louis, he had no recollection, it was learned from hospital authorities.

A strange feature of the case was that while well known in this community no one has ever been found who saw him after he left home when he must have walked through at least a part of the city. Profit was an employe of the California Cable company and his widow, Mrs. Julia Profit still lives here.

BAY IMPROVEMENTS BRING NEW YACHTS

NEWPORT BEACH, July 8.—New yachts and other pleasure boats continue to arrive at Newport Bay, either for short visits, for the summer season or permanent, following the recent completion of the $200,000 improvement at the harbor entrance.

Among the vessels which arrived for July 4 week-end visits, according to Harbor Master M. S. Robinson, were the following:

Cruisers Tommy, of San Diego, and Julio, Seyelyn, Miss Vinn, Arbutus and Dordal, of Los Angeles; yachts, Katedna, owned by Otto G. Wildey of the real estate firm of that name, who have bought the P. E. tract and are developing it, and Eloise, owned by Commodore Piver, of San Francisco. The Eloise is scheduled to stay here for a month or two.

Craft which have moorings in the bay and will probably remain for the summer include:

ANAHEIM

Holiday visitors at the beach cottage of Mr. and Mrs J. E. Rymer at Newport included Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Alexander, Phyllis Alevander, Bruce Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Claude West, Donald West, Charles McCullah, Br. and Mrs. George Henry, and Miss Alander, all of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Lutes and Miss Jeannette Lutes of Santa Ana, Mrs. J. W. Lutes of Orange, and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Henry, senior of Anaheim.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Alexander attended a party Monday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Edward James of Denver, Colo., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fey in Santa Ana, hosts of the honored guests. The parties are all old time friends.

Orange Personals

ORANGE, July 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coats and daughter, Orange, of Los Angeles, were recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Randolph, 342 North Shafer street. Mr. Coats and Mrs. Randolph are brother and sister and the Coats resided here sometime ago, their daughter having been named for this city.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Edwards are spending several days at Strawberry Flats.

Recent guests in the home of Mrs. A. A. Smith, South Olive street, were Miss Marie Herrickson, of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hopper of Beverly Hills, and Miss U. L. Chapman of Hollywood. Miss Herrickson is secretary to the dean of the university of California at Los Angeles.

Mrs. Jeanette Entler who was injured in an automobile accident January 4, was able to be dressed for the first time on July 4th. Mrs. Entler lives with her daughter Mrs A. A. Smith, at 270 South Olive street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Klaustermeyer of San Francisco, are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Peters, 243 South Tustin avenue.

Miss Rosella Sohre, 496 North Tustin avenue, expects to leave Saturday for the middle west and east where she will visit relatives. Miss Sohre will spend some time in the old home of the E. H. Sohre family at Good Thunder, Minn. She will also visit an aunt in Minneapolis and other relatives in Wisconsin and Chicago.

Miss Esther Klaustermeyer returned this week from a visit with relatives in San Francisco. Miss Klaustermeyer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Klaustermeyer, 250 South Tustin avenue, and is employed in the dental offices of Dr. H. A. Stryker of Santa Ana.

George H. Peterson, 414 East Palmyra avenue, who recently returned from the Loma Linda sanitarium, is improving in health. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson have as guests, Mrs. William Heffron of Senaca, Kan., and Miss Mildred Huff of Lincoln, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cleveland and children of Santa Ana spent Sunday with Mrs. Grace Cleveland, of 445 North Tustin street.

Mr. and Mrs. De Witt Cleveland spent Sunday at Alhambra.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Kilgore and son, Junior, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kilgore.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Carlson, 242 South Center street and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Shelby and daughter, Miss Ruby Shelby, of Valley City, North Dakota, spent yesterday in San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Triplett have moved from 141 West Palm avenue to 307 West Mayle avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Claypool are established in their new home at 283 North Magnolia avenue, having moved to this address from 815 East Walnut street.

The summer garden house under a large sycamore tree at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller of South Cambridge street was the setting for a birthday dinner Saturday honoring Earl Miller, a member of the Miller household. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Shell, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Jessup and son, Byron, of Banning; Erma Fitzgerald and Meridith Fitzgerald and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller.

The C. M. P. club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Campbell at their beach cottage Wednesday. A pot luck dinner will be served at the noon hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Jessup, of Banning, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller, of South Cambridge street. Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller and their guests spent Sunday at Newport Beach.

Mrs. Minnie Neville spent the past week at San Diego with her daughters, Mrs. R. E. Jenson and Mrs. C. I. Thomas, at Ocean Beach.

Recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Richards, Main street, were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Richards of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. M. McGloghlin of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warner of Lynnwood.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clement, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mays and Mr. and Mrs. Baker spent the week end in the Clement summer home at Modjeska's.

New Dial Phones For Westminster Connected Sunday

WESTMINSTER, July 8.—The Westminister Telephone System is now a realty, the system having been "cut over" at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Practically all of the telephones in the new district were put in Saturday, a number of telephone crews being sent out by the company to hurry the work as rapidly as possible and leaving the subscribers with out phone service only a few hours at most.

There are 115 names listed in the new exchange which covers a section of 27 square miles in extent and serving Barber City, Westminister, New Westminister, Midway City, Volsa, and that part of Smeltzer, north of the Smeltzer road.

The system is the dial automatic and the company is rapidly completing the last minute work that completes the perfecting of the exchange. All long distance, trouble and information is dialed into the Huntington Beach exchange of which the new portion was a part up until now.

FOX TERRIERS LEAD LIST IN DOG DIRECTORY

ORANGE, July 8.—A drive on unlicensed dogs will be begun on July 15, according to Chief of Police B. F. Richards About 50 canines of the city are now wearing new tags, issuing of new licenses having been in progress for the past eight days.

The most popular dog in the city, according to the records at the police station, is the terrier, with the fox terrier leading by a good margin. The police dog follows next in popularity and to date but one St. Bernard and one collie, have received the right to live and roam the streets of Orange.

Queerly enough those old favorite names for dogs, "Rover" and "Towser" generally associated with animals of a large and rugged variety, are borne by two fox terriers. "Spark Plug" is the cognomen given by a Spitz and "Laddie" is a popular name among those listed.

New City Library In Newport Beach Adds Two Workers

NEWPORT BEACH, July 8—The Newport Beach public library, which recently was moved into the new building in the city park at Central, Bay and Island avenues, will hereafter be open longer hours than in the past, it was announced by the library board today.

This policy was decided upon as the new librarian,, Miss Wilma Linneman, took up her duties. Instead of being open from 1 to 6 p. m. the library will now be open every day except Sunday from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m.

Miss Linneman will have as assistants during the summer season Miss Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Alice Wyckoff Putnam. Mrs. Elizabeth Douglas, who recently resigned as librarian, will take a vacation, starting July 15, and about September 1 will take a position as relief librarian.

53-YEAR OLD DOLL SHOWN IN CITY LIBRARY

ORANGE, July 8.—A doll 53 years old occupies a place of honor at the children's department of the Orange public library this week. The doll was made a part of an exhibit in connection with the awarding of the prize for the best children's book in 1929 to Miss Rachel Field, who wrote the story of a 100-year-old doll. The book is called, "Hittie, Her First Hundred Years." Miss Field was awarded the Newberry prize at a recent meeting of librarians.

The doll who represents "Hittie" in the Orange library has a home made body with a china head. Her shiny black hair is parted and waved above a broad, white brow and her red lips are parted in the same smile with which she greeted her owner, Mrs. F. J. Pearce, 226 East Washington street, more than a half century ago.

The doll was dressed by Miss Vernell Butler of the library staff and her costume follows the fashions of a half-century ago—a low necked short-waisted dimity gown, resplendent with tiny ruffles, black satin shoes and plenty of white muslin underwear, popular at that long ago time.

The pillows on which the doll rests her china head are the work of Mrs. A. J. Butler, and are of the patch-work variety. They represent the tree and the basket design, carried out in daintily flowered percales and white muslin.

The original "Hittie" who inspired the tale is shown in her book as writing with a quill pen and her Orange replica has a brilliant pink quill pen in her hand. Around the doll are grouped the books which have won the Newberry prize since it was instituted in 1021.

These books include "The Story of Mankind," by Hendrick Van Loon, for 1921; for 1922, "The Voyages of Dr. Dolittle," by Hugh Loftus; for 1923, "The Dark Frigate," by Charles Hanes; for 1924, "Tales From Silver Lands," by Charles Finger; for 1925, "Shen of the Sea," by Arthur Crisman; for 1926, "Smoky," by Will James; for 1927, DhanGopal Mukerji's "Gay Neck," and for 1927, E. P. Kelley's "Trumpeter of Krakow."

The original "Hittie," belonged to a little New England girl, Phoebe Preble, and the doll's body was carved from white ash.

The Newberry prize was established by a librarian of London, who had been obliged to read grown-up books as a child and who wished to encourage the writing of children's books, it was said at the library yesterday. Each year a vote is taken and the book is selected by the librarians of the nation.

Churches Forced To Drop Sunday School Services

ORANGE, July 8. — Sunday school for the younger classes of the First Presbyterian and First Methodist churches will be discontinued after convening but one Sunday, July 6, this summer.

The decision to discontinue the classes was reached yesterday and it is expected that they will not be opened again until September. The action was taken by the two churches as a voluntary effort to co-operate with health authorities in preventing the possible spread of infantile paralysis.

Older departments will continue to meet as they have been in the past few weeks.

REV. PEARSON TO PREACH FOR REV. MCAULEY

ORANGE, July 8.—The Rev. M. L. Pearson will occupy the pulpit at the First Presbyterian church during the summer months when the pastor of the church, Dr. Robert Burns McAuley, will be away on a vacation, which he will spend in Colorado, it was learned this morning.

Dr. McAuley expects to return in about two months and will again occupy the pulpit here the first Sunday in September. He will make the trip to Colorado by airplane.

Plans for summer services were completed at the meeting of the church board last night and the evening services will be held in the First Christian church, when members of the Presbyterian congregation will join in the union services now in progress at that edifice on Sunday evenings.

COOKIE PLANT OWNERS OPEN ORANGE STORE

ORANGE, July 8.—A cookie factory has been added to the industries of this city with the reopening of the old cookie plant on South Pepper street. The plant was recently leased by F. W. Hudson of Costa Mesa. The products of the factory are to be sold both at wholesale and retail.

The present equipment of the plant includes one large oven, mixers, trays and pans and 120 dozen cookies may be baked an hour. The plant was formerly operated by Ed Ward who moved to Brea last November.

It is expected that several bakers will be added to the staff of workers and a large variety of cookies made by the concern.

TUSTIN

Mrs. N. L. Edson and son Royce, of Pacific avenue spent last evening in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Humeston and family left last night for Chino, where they will spend two months on a ranch.

Miss Ida Spicer, of A street, accompanied by Dan Grewell, of Orange, left yesterday morning for San Francisco, where they plan to remain a week. They will visit in the Rev. Snider home, former residents of Tustin.

Valuable Park Land Deeded To Newport Beach

CITY COUNCIL ACCEPTS LOTS FROM R. FRICK

NEWPORT BEACH, July 8.—This city today was in possession of two valuable pieces of property on Balboa Peninsula which may be used for park and beach purposes, following formal acceptance of the deeds by the city council last night. The donor is Robert N. Frick, owner of the Seville tract, most of which was recently sold en bloc to a Los Angeles syndicate.

One lot is a triangular piece of land, surrounded by streets and suitable for a small park. It is lot 73 at Granada avenue and M street, located about a block from the water near the end of the Peninsula. The other is lot 42, on the beach at N street. The total value of the property was given at $14,500.

Much of the building activity experienced here in recent months, causing 1930 building here to be much higher than any former season, was in this vicinity, and much more is anticipated as a result of the purchase by Los Angeles operators of part of the Seville tract. The land was given to the city, it was stated by councilmen who investigated the matter, as a promise was made to lot buyers that they would be given some park space and beach frontage. The most satisfactory manner to handle it was to deed it to the city.

The council last night also approved the assessments on the tract, there being no protests.

Plan Meeting House

This city may soon have a much-needed building to house large meetings and dinner and small conventions, it became known today, following action of the council. The Harbor Post of the American Legion asked the city to deed it a narrow strip of land in front of the Legion Hut on the Bay Front at Tenth street, and the Legion plans, it was stated, to construct a $25,000 building for its own and other public uses.

Want Sewer System

The Newport Heights section presented a petition before the city council last night asking for a sewer system and signed by owners representing 210 lots of the 668 lots in the section. The matter was referred to City Engineer R. L. Patterson, who stated off-hand that the desired improvement will cost about $60 per lot.

Construction of the $410,000 Newport Harbor union high school, now being speeded up so as to be ready for occupancy this fall, and general development of the city and district, has created a demand for the improvement, it was declared.

Some time ago, the city retained the Currie Engineering company, sewer experts, to make a survey of the sewer needs. Their report is no whefore the council. With Lido Isle putting in sewer mains, in connection with the $1,170,000 improvement project there, an entirely new system may be the outcome, it is said.

The council awarded a contract to the Newport Boat Builders, Inc., for the dredging recently asked for north and southeast of Balboa Island, at a price of $8427. The part north of the island will be done first.

Submit Station Plans

City Engineer Patterson also submitted plans for a proposed station for the Pacific Electric and a comfort station at 36th street. Ralph P. Maskey, realty developer, said that the P. E. would co-operate with the city in the matter and intimated that it might pay half the cost. Patterson was instructed to take it up with the railway company.

A petition signed by 44 residents of Balboa Island, asked that a full-time policeman be on duty in that section of the city, particularly during the summer months, and stated that the petitioners preferred Ralph Walterlue, who at present is on duty for both Balboa Island and Corona del Mar. Councilman Hilmer said it was physically impossible for one man to cover both districts and the council authorized Chief R. R. Hodgkinson to hire another man, one to work on Balboa Island and the other in Corona del Mar.

Complaint About Noise

Councilman Claire reported that about 50 complaints had been made to the police during the past week in regard to loud speakers, and Jerome Freeman, manager of the new Balboa Inn, said that some of his guests, who were glad to pay high prices for accommodations here during the summer months, had complained of the loud speakers and about a shooting gallery on Main street. Mayor Johnson promised consideration of the matter.

The council adopted a budget for the year, following a meeting last week at which the figures for all departments were considered.

Must Report Violations

Persons who know of violations of any city ordinance or any other law and who desire the violations stopped should make formal complaints, the city council was told by City Attorney Roland Thompson.

This advice followed a letter written by residents of West Central avenue, who asked whether a workshop at 1051 West Central was lawful. If so, they stated they would allow businesses on their own lots, and if not, they wanted the ordinance enforced. The location in question is in a residence district, it was said, and Thompson said that if such were the case, it was up to those complaining to swear out an information at the office of the city recorder.

OFFICERS MEET AT BEACH CITY ON WEDNESDAY

SAN CLEMENTE, July 8.—More than 100 members of the Orange County Peace Officers' association will gather in San Clemente on Wednesday for the regular monthly meeting of the organization. Mayor Thomas F. Murphine of the Spanish Village will welcome President John Stanton of Tustin and his association. Golf will be played in the afternoon and a banquet served by A. Travaglini at the Golf clubhouse in the evening.

Hal Warner, in charge of arrangements, announces that Billy Hanson will give an exhibition of dancing and that Earl Morrow, manager of the telephone company in the county, will present two of his girl stars in a song and dance number.

TEA TESTER

LONDON, July 8.—Margaret Irving has one of the oddest jobs in England. She is a tea-taster, and the only woman employed in such a capacity in the country. Every day she samples nearly 300 different teas, and she can distinguish every one of them.

NEW FEATURES ON LIGHT FETE PLANNED TODAY

NEWPORT BEACH, July 8.—New features for the Tournament of Lights, and the names of the judges in the various classes, for which handsome prizes are offered, were announced today by H. L. Sherman, general chairman, as final preparations to stage the big illuminated carnival began.

The Richfield Oil company's plane with a Neon sign visible from the ground, will again fly over the bay during the parade, which will begin at 8 p. m. and end about 10 p. m.

This year for the first time, four powerful anti-aircraft army searchlights from Fort MacArthur will light up the skies, while the lighted plane flies around.

With these aerial features to add to the usual brilliant parade of lighted craft in the bay, it is appropriate also that the musical part of this year's program be via the ether, and this as another novelty announced by Sherman today.

To Broadcast Music

The music of Everett Hoagland's Troubadours, playing at the Rendezvous ballroom, Balboa, will be broadcast by remote control by radio station KGER, Long Beach, which is donating the station for the two hours of tournament, to three radio sets on floats in different parts of the parade, and it will be given the spectators through three public address systems on the floats. Interspersed between the musical numbers will be announcements of the parade.

Several more entries in the parade were announced today by W. L. Jordan, chairman of the entries committee. Practically every civic organization in this city, and many outside, will be represented.

Sherman announced that the judges will be six members of the Laguna Beach art colony, who will be guests of the tounament committee at dinner here prior to the parade. They are William A. Griffith, president of the Laguna Beach Art association; W. A. Riddell, Ross Shattuck, Frank Cuprien, Miss Virginia Woolley and Miss Julie Raymond.

Cake and Candy Sale Planned By Humane Society

LAGUNA BEACH, July 8.—Cakes and candy will be sold by the Laguna Beach Humane Society Saturday, July 19 as a means of raising funds for carrying on the work of the association. It will be held at the office of the Perine-Peak realty company on Coast boulevard. A similar sale held last fall proved very successful. Donations of cakes are being asked.

The summer and fall are the seasons when the society has most to do, as many pets are brought to the city and abandoned by their owners or lost, becoming a charge upon the society. The report of the treasurer, Miss Maud Peek, showed $42.63 in the treasury. The only source of revenue is the $10 allowed each month by the city and the dues of the members. The latter are $1 a year and an invitation is extended to all owners of pets or lovers of pets to become members of the society.

OBJECTIONS TO DANCE DENIED BY H. B. COUNCIL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 8.—Featured by the repeal of the ordinance governing oil derricks, the Huntington Beach city council met last night and considered many important topics.

Prior to consideration of the referendum petition, several matters of interest were disposed of by the council. The J. R. Dennis Construction company which had completed its street paving or resurfacing contract, presented its bill for the balance due under contract and the bill was allowed, with the reservation that the Dennis company post its $2500 bond to guarantee the pavement work for the time specified in the contract. When the bond is posted with the city the contract check will be paid. Dennis had posted a $1500 bond, but the arrangement under the settlement of contract plan provided for a $2500 bond.

Reports of the city clerk and city treasurer showed $512,883.76 cash on hand. Of this sum $196,-651.46 is in the general fund. The balance of the cash is mostly bond issues including the $122,000 received from the sale of pier bonds, and not yet paid out.

Ask For Lights

A petition asking for installation of lights on the East Side was received and referred to the light committee composed of Bowen, Conrad and King. The committee will check the light plan with the plan as prepared by the city engineer at the request of the council several weeks ago. Mayor Bowen announced that a speedy determination of this matter would be reached by the council, as the question of East Side lights has been under advisement for several weeks, and has been held up partly through the illness of the city engineer, Merwin Rossen.

A petition for closing the Marathon dance was read by City Clerk Charles R. Furr. The objectors to the dance as shown by the petitions were the W. C. T. U., the T. H. O. class of the Christian church, the Men's Bible classes of the Baptist church and Christian church.

Deny Marathon Objections

The matter caused considerable discussion by the council, each councilman being heard and the mayor also making a statement. The statement of Mayor Bowen was to the effect that he personally had failed to find either entertainment or amusement at the marathon dance, but that the council had already taken action and could not in good faith change its course, unless specific charges set forth were established beyond doubt in the minds of the council.

Councilman King said he had visited the marathon dance and could not see that the objectionable features complained of by the petitioners actually existed. Councilman E. B. Stevens said he had visited the marathon dance and had failed to find any of the objectionable features complained of, that the dance was properly conducted and that he felt the petitioners should investigate for themselves and not base their request on heresay evidence.

Councilman Conrad and Councilman Butcher also made statements that upon hearing complaints from reputable citizens as to what they had heard about marathon dances, they had investigated the dance here and found it not objectionable. At the close of the debate on the dance petition, the council adopted the amendment to the ordinance providing for 1 o'clock closing of dances.

President Osborn of the Chamber of Commerce addressed the council just prior to adjournment and asked that the orchestra concerts at the beach pavilion be continued through July. On motion of Councilman Conrad, seconded by Councilman Butcher, the request for a continuance of the delightful Sunday afternoon orchestra concerts was granted by the council, the concerts do not cost more than $125 each week.

The council voted to send two members of the fire department to the state firemen's convention in Oakland. The report of the fire chief, J. K. Sargeant, for the fiscal year ending June 30, showed the fire loss for the year to have been $18,580, with an insurance coverage of $16,300. There had been 38 alarms compared with 37 in 1929. Eight fires were in the oil field, seven were in homes of citizens, five occurred at apartment houses, two in autos due to shorting in electric wiring systems. The rest were from various causes.

Beach Mayor Celebrates Natal Event

SAN CLEMENTE, July 8.—Mayor Thomas F. Murphine celebrated his birthday yesterday at San Clemente. The mayor was congratulated by his many friends who wished him many more years of health and good golf scores.

Mayor Murphine was visited by Frank Goss of Long Beach, an old time Seattle newspaper friend, and by Henry Carroll, city comptroller of Seattle who is visiting in California. Carroll was comptroller during Ole Hanson's term as mayor and when Murphine was director of public works. Carroll, born in Sacramento, made his first visit to Southern California yesterday.

Chamber Forms Men's Glee Club For Beach Events

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 8.—The chamber of commerce meeting at the Golden Bear cafe at noon Monday, endorsed plans for organization of a men's glee club in the city. At the Womanless Wedding held here recently, many solos by the male cast were enjoyed, and it was evidenced that there are capable men singers in the city and Mr. Proctor suggested the formation of the glee club to promote interest in music and to give the city advertising by singing over radio broadcasting stations.

A meeting will be held next Tuesday night, at the city auditorium to which all men of the city are invited. At this meeting the glee club will be organized.

RAYMER TALKS AT FULLERTON KIWANIS CLUB

FULLERTON, July 8.—"Giving —and Going On" was the subject of an address given by George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, before the Fullerton Kiwanis club yesterday noon at McFarland's cafe.

"If we pull together, Orange county can add $25,000,000 to its industrial development within the next five years with its natural resources and conditions as a basis," the secretary said. "Only with faith, work and co-operative effort can we have this prosperity."

Raymer stressed the idea of co-operation and declared that despite the ups and downs of business and commercial activities the spirit to go ahead was essential and that surveys of various lines showed conditions not as bad as many people believed, but rather much better.

"Tin cups" were the trophies given by Dale King to G. W. Finch and W. A. Goodwin in recognition of the Kiwanis club golf championship attained by reason of a victory as challengers over Phil Damon and Henry Parry in a recent match. A new challenge was immediately made in behalf of the losers, who are seeking to regain their pestige on the links.

Plans for the annual outdoor meeting of the Kiwanis club to take the form of a barbecue in Hillcrest park next Monday at 6:30 p. m. were announced by Harry Maxwell. The families of Kiwanians are also to be included as guests at this meeting.

Beach Police Dog Returns After Scare

SAN CLEMENTE, July 8.—Hypo, police dog of George Alden, San Clemente photographer, is home again. The dog, becoming frightened by firecrackers at Laguna Beach left the car and could not be found. Alden upon arriving home notified Chief of Police L. A. Warren, who got in touch with Chief of Police Johnson of Laguna Beach. The result was that Hypo has been found. He was located on a front porch of an Arch Beach home.

Alden says that Hypo is happy to be home, has lost his nervousness due to firecrackers and that next year he'll take him to Mexico on the Fourth.

SAN CLEMENTE BOYS SMASHUP CAR AT BEACH

SAN CLEMENTE, July 8.—Not a person was hurt within the city limits of San Clemente over the week end, but Valentino Eugenio, house boy for the John B. Callerys', was cut by flying glass and Albert Reyes, house boy for the I. M. Bartows' was shaken up when their car was hit about seven miles south of San Clemente late Sunday night.

A light car driven by Daniel Smith, negro truck driver in the tin can department of Los Angeles, crashed into Eugenio's car. Outside of a shaking up, a few minor cuts and dents in the two cars, there was no damage.

Because of the congressional elections in Mexico on Sunday the border cities were closed tight and traffic started coming north about noon and at no time was there the jam of last year.

HANDLESS POSTMASTER

BELL, Calif., July 8.—This town has a handless postmaster in Charles C. M. McGonegal, 34, a World war veteran. After losing his hands in the war, he returned to this country and secured his present position. With special devices on his arms, he handles the mail, drives an automobile and performs other duties required of his position.

Why Fat Men Stay Fat

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99 per cent of the men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or 'pep' to keep it off. Lost all interest in any healthy activity and just lazied around accumulating the old pounds until I got that 'Kruschen feeling'."

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate, you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Then watch the pounds slide off! Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water tomorrow morning and every morning—and if they don't change your whole idea about reducing, go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks—at Mateer's Drug Co., and Givens & Cannon, or any progressive druggist anywhere in the world.—Adv.

SANTA ANA, LA HABRA IN CRUCIAL GAME

Golf Aces Practice At Interlachen

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

Night baseball ought to give itself up if it doesn't offer us a thrill and a throb or two this week. Those who have been following the doings of Santa Ana's Stars know that tonight's game at La Habra and Friday's at Whittier will put the cream in our baseball coffee,—nice, rich cream or nasty, sour cream.

The Violet Rays are mighty tough; Whittier, to my notion, even tougher.

If the Stars slip by both, I don't see what is going to keep 'em out of the playoffs.

We mustn't forget, however, that a week from tonight the Santa Anans draw anything but a soft touch. Long Beach, 1929 champion but a disappointing dud through the first part of this year's race, has been acting like it might do some damage this half itself.

With their offense pretty well shot by the ineligibility of Orv Schuchardt, the Stars will do mighty well to win two of their next three games.

And that brings me to the Schuchardt question, which almost has to be discussed in a column of this kind.

Personally I should rather lay off the subject. These "internal" difficulties always get me down. Still you can't pass up something that is street corner gossip for everybody who knows who the Stars are.

Poor Schuchardt suddenly finds himself in another Santa Ana-Anaheim maelstrom, only this one has a deeper and more significant meaning and there is more at issue than his mere eligibility of ineligibility.

As best as I can assemble the facts, Schuchardt early in the spring conveyed to the Santa Ana management the impression that he wanted to work as soon as his school term was completed.

The employment did not materialize, neither as quickly nor as abundantly as Schuchardt apparently had been led to believe.

In the meantime, other teams learned of Schuchardt's state of mind, began dickering with him. One of them, Anaheim, offered the player a position of some sort at its city plunge.

The work paid $30 a month more than the employment finally offered Schuchardt here. The plunge chores formerly were consummated by Al Bushman, an Anaheim pitcher, who was promoted to another city task when Schuchardt took over his swimming pool duties.

I am not prepared to drive verbal shafts at our friendly enemies. Those who live in glass houses should not disrobe before dark. We've all cast covetous eyes at somebody else's talent in the past. It was not so long ago that Santa Ana would have lassoed Senor Joseph Ochoa and put him out there on the knoll. And I doubt whether Joe Corlenius changed his residence from the sometimes enervating Imperial valley to Santa Ana without at least a wink when the matter of employment was suggested.

The real problem at issue, however, is not one of employment after all. It is whether one club can, by the simple expedient of hanging up a job as bait, draft another's outstanding performers during the heat of a pennant race.

I don't blame Schuchardt for taking care of himself as best he can. That's business acumen. But after his case is disposed of, the league should see that lightning does not strike twice.

There should be a deadline for the trading or peddling of players somewhere along the line, say at the end of the first half of the season. All organized professional baseball leagues have such legislation.

If the National Night league doesn't I don't know how it expects to protect the small cities from the city "slickers" and their more numerous jobs.

EUGENE CORSON WINS CADDIES' GOLF TOURNEY

He had a handsome silver cup, donated by Col. W. C. F. Nicholson, to prove it, and so did Kimball Pratt who had low gross score and was second net to Corson in the caddies' tournament yesterday.

Corson shot a 99-30-69.

Pratt had a card of 80-10-70, good in anybody's league.

Marvin Myers finished third. He shot 90-18-72.

Twenty-six caddies took part in the tournament, the first of its kind ever held on the Santa Ana course. Their scores:

Eugene Corson	99-30—69
Kimball Pratt	80-10—70
Marvin Meyers	90-18—72
Charles Corson	95-20—75

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 8.—When Jones beats them, they stay beaten thereupon and forever henceforth.

There are, roughly speaking, a matter of 150 good men and true working out today over Interlachen's rolling terrain in preparation for the great drama of tionship, starting two days hence. But approximately 145 of them are wasting their dubious time. Only the old guards seem to have a chance with Jones. The old line champions of the past, the Hagens, the Sarazens and the Diegels.

Most Challenges Futile

Gone are the futile challengers that came forward overnight to meet Bobby in man-to-man tests, and as suddenly subsided.

There is no talk here of what Joe Turnesa may do. Everybody knows what Joseph will do, or at least they think they know. He has done nothing with painstaking zeal since the year 1926, when he led Jones in the final nine holes at Scioto and forthwith collapsed, never to be the same again.

Al Watrous furnished another harrowing example of the dire effects that follow in the way of a Jones triumph. In the same year of 1926, Al also led Jones by two strokes with three holes to play in the British open. But Bobby came on to win as only Bobby can, and Watrous, convinced for all time relapsed into an obscurity in which he remains to this day.

Cruickshank.

Where is Bobby Cruickshank, who fared forth at Inwood in 1923 to take issue with Jones over another open championship? Cruickshank isn't even in the field this year, having failed to qualify. I would also like to inquire about the activities of Roland Hancock—who practically won the 1928 championship at Olympia Fields—but forgot to keep it won. Roland has been goin the best he can since that memorable day, but his best is pretty much like Kipling's worst.

Al Espinosa Routed

That seems to apply, too, to Al Espinosa, who finished in a dead heat with Jones last year and lived to regret the incident exceedingly. Jones beat him 25 strokes in the play-off, and Espinosa no longer is considered a golfer worthy of real championship consideration.

They say Densmore Shute is playing none too well at the moment, and here is another young man who had Jones beaten only he neglected to make the matter permanent. Shute "blew up" in sight of the finish in 1929 and perhaps his failure to come on as he should this year and at this time can be attributed to the memory of the dramatic and, to him, painful finish at Winged Foot.

Personally, I think not. Shute won the $10,000 Los Angeles open last winter end, if he isn't playing golf now, it probably means nothing, except that he isn't playing golf now.

Shute Has Chance

Of all Jones' victims, this man would seem to have a real chance at Interlachen. It is almost as much as his kind of a course as

Swim Queen Spurns Bids To Turn Pro

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—Gold as a recompense for her unparalleled aquatic achievements holds no appeal for Helene Madison.

The famous Seattle high school girl, who added to her other laurels by breaking four world records at the Long Beach A. A. U. national swimming championships last week, made this plain today in rejecting an offer of $10,000 to turn professional.

An unnamed New York sportsman offered this sum to Miss Madison if she would start a tour with Martha Norelius, 1928 Olympic champion and former holder of several free style records now held by Miss Madison.

PRINTERS NEAR CHAMPIONSHIP IN CITY RACE

Dennis' Printers today were one step nearer their second successive Santa Ana City league night baseball title.

The Typesetters virtually cinched the championship for the first half of the intermural race by beating down the challenge of the Courthouse, 5 to 3, in the Bowl last night.

Frank Nickey's Orange County Builders' exchange troupe is the only one that has a ghost of a show to outfinish the Printers now. The Builders can get a tie for the title by trimming the Auto Club of Orange County Thursday night and the Printers in a "rematch" next week.

The Courthouse proved to be a stubborn foe for Carlyle Dennis' hirelings. Bagging six hits off Bill Humphrey in the first three innings they ran themselves into a 3-3 tie which remained until the Printers came up for their last licks in the seventh. "Spike" Spicer, the Courthouse gunman, had thrown no-hit ball after the second round but he weakened in the final chapter and was rapped for the two runs that meant the game.

The last half of the double-header saw Peek's market win its third straight game after it had begun the season by dropping five in succession. The Auto Club of Orange County was the new victim of the Butchers, the score being 9 to 1.

Wilson Seacord, the Peek pitching phenom, was much wilder than usual and walks had him in hot water several times but he mastered the Clubmen in all the pinches. The Butchers got their runs in clusters off Ed Perry—two in the first, five in the third and two in the seventh. Don Smith hit a home run in the final round.

BIG BAT BRINGS BALL ROOM

Boston has a new Bambino. His name is Walter Berger, and a few years ago you could have seen him on the docks of San Francisco. He was walloping cargoes then; he is punishing pitchers now. And they say he is the best looking National league recruit of the season. The Braves got him from Los Angeles.

By beating Garden Grove in the Bowl here tonight, Santa Ana can go into a tie with Westminster for first place in the Orange County "B" Night Baseball league, little sister of the National league. Kenneth Sturzenger's Shells made this situation possible by winning a hard fought contest from the Westminster Aviators, 5 to 3, at Westminster last night.

A four-run rally in the first of the third put the Santa Ana crew well ahead and Ed Banta was too good a pitcher to let the league-leaders catch up with him. Banta whiffed 10 and stopped Westminster with three hits.

Four successive hits by "Franny" Norton, Lory Walbridge, "Sloat" Dorman and Ora Sands and a triple by Banta after Blower had fanned were responsible for the Shell runs in the third round.

Marvin Johnston's double, "Speed" Hankemeier's sacrifice and a passed ball accounted for the other one in the ninth.

Westminster got its first run in the fifth when Gardner singled and took second on Norton's wild throw, stole third and scored on Sauers' sacrifice. McGuire singled to open the seventh and scored all the way from first on Johnston's error. DeBusk's two-base life on Blower's error and B. Davis' single gave the Aviators their third and last tally in the eighth. In every other frame except the sixth, Banta retired his opposition in order.

The Garden Grove contingent which invades the bowl tonight is led by Charles Anderson and is one of the strongest aggregations in the "B" loop. The Pepper Juniors won the first half of the split schedule and are still factors to be considered this half although thus far they have lost three games against their four victories. Santa Ana has won five and lost one.

CRESS WINS FROM SLABACK ON COURT

Results of nine matches in the Santa Ana summer round-robin tennis tournaments were reported today by Merle Ewell, director.

The only Class A contest paired Johnny Cress, former city champion, and Lester Slaback. Cress won in two hard fought sets, 6-4, 8-6.

Other results:

Class B—G. G. Smith won from F. W. Bettis, 6-1, 6-1; Faris Edgar defeated C. D. Hardesty, 6-1, 6-1; B. O. Scoltlock beat A. Anderson, 6-4, 6-2; Ward Bettis and Harold Smith each had one set when they were forced to retire.

Class C—Regina Devault defeated Mary Ortiz, 6-1, 6-0; Barbara Rurup beat Helen Bowers, 10-12, 6-2, 8-6; May Maag won from Regina Devault, 6-2, 6-4.

Class D—Toby White won from Lewis Wetherell, 6-0, 6-1.

Marshall Meets Stecher In L. A.

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—With the snythetic Pacific Coast heavyweight wrestling championship at stake, Everett Marshall, 220-pound Colorado giant and Joe Stecher, equally large Nebraskan, will meet tomorrow night in a finish bout at the Olympic auditorium.

Sonnenberg, Lewis Draw In Mat Bout

SEATTLE, July 8.—Before a crowd of 9000 fans Gus Sonnenberg and "Strangler" Lewis wrestled through eight ten-minute rounds to a draw last night, each wrestler took a fall.

Lewis, who was the aggressor, took the first fall in the fourth round with a headlock after wearing Sonnenberg down with a series of rabbit punches and headlocks.

YES! NO! BUT TILDEN LIKELY TO SEE ACTION

NEW YORK, July 8.—Although Fitz-Eugene Dixon, captain of the United States Davis cup team, and William Tilden, himself, have declared officially that Tilden will not play with the American tennis team in its 1930 Davis cup matches, it appeared likely today that the tall Philadelphia will be in the line-up when the United States takes the court against France at Roland Garros stadium, July 25, 26 and 27.

Dixon's announcement that Tilden was not a member of the team and not eligible for play was offset by the statement of Joseph W. Wear of Philadelphia, chairman of the Davis cup committee.

Wear said he "had every hope that Tilden will play."

Tilden's statement, in which he revealed that the "one complication" was a contract with a newspaper syndicate to report the Davis cup matches, was counteracted by the offer of the syndicate to release Tilden from his contract.

Wear speaks with unchallengeable prerogative on Davis cup matters, and if he insists that Tilden be named for the team, the United States and Wimbledon champion is certain of a place. However, "Big Bill" may complicate matters by making a test of the U. S. L. T. A. ruling against players reporting tournaments in which they play.

HELEN WILLS MOODY SAILS FOR AMERICA

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., July 8.—(INS)—Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody, four times champion of Wimbledon, sailed for home today aboard the liner Majestic.

"I'll be glad to get back to my home and husband," the tennis star said.

BELL REPLACES SCHUCHARDT IN STAR OUTFIELD

A "Team of Destiny" lines up against Santa Ana tonight in the first crucial scrimmage of the National Night Baseball league's mad-cap championship scramble.

The Stars face La Habra, the wonder club of President George Peterkin's wheel, the club that finished dead last in the first half of the split season and then did a right-about face until at this writing it is crowding Santa Ana for the pacing position.

The one-two teams of the confederacy mix on the La Habra playing field—where there is ample space for everything but fans. Since the biggest crowd of the season should be there at post-time, Santa Ana fans will do well to snatch an early dinner and climb in the family "hoopie" by 7 o'clock.

Game Considered Tossup

When two high class ball clubs get together, and both get smart, clever pitching almost anything is likely to happen—and that is what will happen up La Habra way.

The Violet Rays certainly have pitching. Big, square-shouldered Frank Sabella, better known as Chico, is the Bob Grove of the loop. He puts all his 200 pounds in every throw plateward, and his fast one is faster than McDonnell's, Ochoa's or Morning's.

Santa Ana isn't complaining about its pitching either. Joe Cornelius isn't a fast ball pitcher and gets very few strikeouts but he is a tough hombre to work for runs and that is what counts. Cornelius is wise enough to know he has eight men back of him who can go and get 'em as well as he can strike 'em out. The Stars are the sweetest defensive team in night baseball. Cornelius also has the best catcher in the business. Nobody in the league can hold a candle to the crafty, alert, hustling "Eeny" Wilcox, one time darling of Santa Ana football crowds.

Bell Replaces Schuhardt

Orv Schuchardt, the finest defensive outfielder in the legaue and one of its most dangerous batsmen, is no longer with the team. He is under suspension pending a hearing of circumstances attending his recent "jump" to the ranks of the Anaheim Valencias.

Schuchardt will be missed, of course, but not as badly as might be estimated at first blush.

Manager Herb Salveson has a high class ball player to replace Schuchardt. His name is John Randolph Bell, a fellow who would have been a regular with any other outfit in night baseball anyway.

Salveson intends to shift the brilliant Wayne Nelson to center field and put Bell in left, a post the big boy played through the entire term of 1928 when Santa Ana won the Southern California title.

Merrill In Right Field

"Rosy" Merrill stays put in right field.

It is doubtful whether the club

will even miss Schuchardt defensively. Nelson makes all kinds of sensational catches himself and Bell, a long striding player who covers an amazing lot of territory with little effort, has made only one error in three years. Furthermore, they are both better throwers than Schuchardt.

But when it comes to batting Schuchardt is Schuchardt and he will be missed—plenty. You can't take a .450 hitter out of the line-up in any league and not know it.

Salveson has made no official announcement about his plans but it is understood he will use Bill Hunter at third base instead of "Scotty" Scott. The latter is in a batting slump and it is doubtful whether he would snap out of it against the kind of pitching the Stars will look at tonight.

Daley May Lead Off

Bill Cole will be at first base, Leavitt Daley second and "Memphis" Hill short.

Either Hill or Daley will head the batting order. They will be the one-two men whichever starts it. Merrill probably will mace third with the hard-hitting Nelson fourth. After them it is problematical.

When you look at the records you have to hand it to La Habra.

The Violet Rays were terrible during the first half of the race. It may be said now that some of the big shots in the league were afraid the club would get discouraged and throw up the sponge in midstream.

But the oil company that is sponsoring the team, didn't quit. It just went out and got a ball team and now the Violet Rays are playing to full houses all over the circuit.

Dangerous Batsmen

Led by Pussic, Rady, Johnson and Young, all well known hardball players, the La Habra gang is liable to make a flock of runs any time it goes to the post. The boys didn't hit much at first because night ball pitching looked different to them than the Sunday afternoon brand but now that they are getting accustomed to the fast ones they are doing lots of damage.

If they get by the undefeated Stars tonight you can bet your U.S.C.-Stanford football ticket the Rays are going to be the ones to whip for that little old streamer.

The Whittier-Olive conflict at Olive looks to be the best of the other games on the schedule. Olive is always hard to beat and has a good chance to win from the Quakers who haven't been so invincible this half.

Anaheim Plays Oilers

Fullerton plays at Garden Grove where the Peppers will be heavy favorites.

The standings:

'DARK HORSES' HAVE NO CHANCE IN OPEN

it is Jones', or Deigel's, or Sarazen's, or Hagen's. He has the golf, he can come from behind, he can stay in front. This would seem to leave him little to do, except for the slight formality of winning the open championship.

However, Jones must look to the challengers he has known through his great seven years of prosperity, for the man, if any who is to say him "nay" in this championship, of the younger school, only Shute and Horton Smith, and possibly Ed Dudley have a white man's chance. Otherwise, it will be strictly up to Hagen, Sarazen, and Diegel to furnish the challenge, or according to most accounts there will be none at all.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Paavo Nurmi, the Flying Finn, says he should have run 20 seconds faster when he broke the six-mile record over in England recently . . . and declared he will win the Olympic marathan in Los Angeles in 1932 in spite of what Clarence De Mar or any other American marathoners have to say about it . . . two pitchers who hurled for the 1914 champion Braves are still active along the New England baseball front . . . Dick Rudolph was managing Portland and Lefty Tyler was an umps before the league blew up . . . the Athletics average 28 years of age . . . the Cardinals average 31 years . . . the last year in which Brooklyn won a pennant was 1920 . . . Ken Holloway, the pitcher the Yankees recently acquired from Cleveland via the waiver route, said that as long as he had to leave the Indians, he was glad he was going to New York . . . you would be, too, Algernon.

FORTY DAYS, $40,000

The bull market has seen sensational advances, but Pacific Coast league ivory salesmanship has the Stock Exchange looking like a blind man selling pencils.

The Giants bought a ball player from the Missions recently, sending to the coast in return cash and ball players in the amount of $40,000.

The player was Harry Rosenberg, and he had been playing professional baseball two days short of six weeks. Forty days, $40,000. That's a gain of $1000 a day for 40 days, starting from nothing It's big business.

The Misisons took the young outfielder from the sandlots, Walter Christensen, former Yank, was playing in the outfield. In no time at all, Rosie demonstrated the kind of class that Manager "Red" Killefer couldn't ignore. Rosie was placed in the outfield and hit .380.

And McGraw has picked up another Jewish ball player. He thought he had one before in young Andy Cohen, who was a sensation when McGraw first took him on. Probably, however, Rosenberg will spend two years more in the minors before he starts appearing regularly in a Giant uniform.

HARD TIMES? HUH!

A long about this time of year, the bullish market on the coast picks up, no matter how hard times are in other lines.

Sacramento sold Meryl Hoag to the Yankees for sums reported to range between $40,000 tnd $75,000.

Now Oakland has a young third baseman to peddle named Johnny Vergez, who is said to be a real ball player. You can bet anybody all the cranberries on Cape Cod that if he is a real ball player, it will take real money to bring him from the coast. They say the Oakland team would be satisfied with 100 grand for Mr. Vergez. The line forms to the right.

HOAG'S UPS AND DOWNS

Hoag is said to be a better ball player than Rosenberg right now, but he isn't due to report until next spring. He has the smallest feet in baseball, wearing a 5 1-2 shoe. He has been among the first 10 hitters in the Coast league all season.

Hoag comes from a baseball family, his home being at Davis, Calif. His grandfather, father and three uncles were good ball players. He is a son of Tracy Hoag, whose pitching will be remembered by big league fans of another generation. Meryl is 21.

Lewis Moreing, owner of the Sacramento club, signed Hoag three times before the youngster clicked. In 1927 Moreing sent Hoag to Pocatello, and Manager Bill Leard gave him the once-over and sent him on his way. Moreing signed him again and sent him to Twin Falls, also in the Utah-Idaho league. The next spring he reported to Sacramento and Moreing handed him an unconditional release. But in 1928, in the winter league, Hoag played like a demon on wheels and he was signed again.

Released three times in two years and now a big shot! That's how it goes.

Townsend Favored To Defeat Medill

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—Billy Townsend, Vancouver lightweight, will be a 7 to 5 favorite to whip Joey Medill, chunky little Chicago battler when the two clash over the 10-round route at the Olympic.

The flashy Canadian, whose lightning-like lefts have scored a half dozen sensational knockouts in the past few months, is given the pre-match nod mainly on his ability to hit. Medill is a better boxer.

PLANE TAXIS

BERLIN, July 8.—A cheap airplane-taxi service is in effect in Germany. Single-engineered machines are used and the charge is about 25 cents a mile, regardless of the number of passengers carried. These air-taxis will serve as transports to any place on the Continent.

RADIO NOVELTY TO GREET KREG FANS THURSDAY

A riot of fun, with plenty of novelties and lots of "work" for the announcer, will greet KREG listeners Thursday night when Kansas Kal's Old Timers, begin a new feature performance on the Santa Ana radio station.

One of the most versatile radio groups on the air, the entertainers will play guitar, violin, steel guitar, banjo, mandolin and harmonica numbers in various arrangements. They will appear as soloists, will play duets and trios and present numerous instrumental numbers.

The Old Timers have no consideration for the announcer ,it is said, and pick on him at intervals, as part of the fun. They also spring plenty of "gags" on each other when the announcer has had all he can stand.

Suggestions for a name for the group will be received by KREG after the first program, Thursday from 9 to 10 p. m.

The three men making up Kansas Kal's Old Timers have a repertoire of over 250 numbers and will welcome requests. They have played over KMBC, Kansas City; KFWC, Pomona, and KFXM at San Bernardino.

CORY OUTLINES GRAIN GROWING IN KREG TALK

Editor's Note—The complete text of the talk by Acting Farm Advisor W. M. Cory, of which a portion is printed below, will be found on the farm page of the Register next Saturday.

In an address over KREG last night Acting Farm Advisor W. M. Cory talked on the economic importance of grain growing in Orange county. He pointed out that it was the first major crop here and that today, despite shifts to fruit and nuts made possible by irrigation, grain still returns to growers annually a gross sum of approximately $500,000. The crop occupies about 35,000 acres.

Production costs are somewhat higher than in other parts of the state due to the rolling character of the land, which prevents use of larger equipment and attendant lower operating costs. But growers are meeting the problem through crop rotation and use of selected varieties of seed. Sometimes the land is summer fallowed, clean cultivated, alternate years, tending to destroy foul weeds.

Cory outlined the variety test plots which have been maintained since 1922 to determine the best type of seed to use. Each variety is tested for five years. Two dozen varieties of wheat, barley and oats have been tested. He said that observations have showed that Oregon Club Mariout, Hero and Tennessee winter barleys have stood the test of time. Escondido and Early Baart wheat have gained recognition as the highest yielding wheat varieties, and Kanota oats have proved good, he said. Variety selection has proved its worth in increased yield. A given variety is observed closely after it is adopted as a field crop.

Growers at present are looking into the feasibility of changing over to bulk handling of grain in place of using sacks, as at present. In some sections the change has resulted in considerable saving in harvesting costs.

Earle's Condition Reported Better

William H. Earle, KREG technician, who was taken ill Sunday night, was improving today and is expected to return to his duties in the near future. Earle was able to come to the radio station for a few minutes yesterday but returned to his home immediately.

He will rest and recuperate bebefore assuming his duties again. Phillip L. Peterson, of KGER, is working as technician during Earle's absence.

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—After waiting 16 years, Charles Arthur has filed suit for divorce here. He charged that shortly after they were married he returned home to find his wife with another man.

IS THIS YOU
five years from now?

When tempted to over-indulge
"Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*An investigation conducted by the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors and the Actuarial Society of America revealed the fact that the death rate increases practically 1% for every pound of excess weight carried between the ages of 40 and 44 years. In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

CITY AND COUNTY

Santa Ana Daily Evening Register

People's Paper for All Orange County

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

SECTION TWO — SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, JULY 8, 1930 — PAGES ELEVEN TO EIGHTEEN

Citizens' Beach Association Officers Are Elected

ALFRED GUY IS PRESIDENT OF ORGANIZATION

The Citizens' Beach association of Orange county today had become a permanent organization to fight for preservation for public use of all the beach frontage possible along the Orange county shore line.

Permanent organization was perfected at a meeting of the association held last night at the school house at Capistrano Beach.

Selection of one vice-president from each city and community in the county is contemplated as a later activity of the association for strengthing its influence, according to the president, who pointed out that residents of the interior are more vitally interested in the objects of the association than are residents of the beach districts. Members from interior communities also will be developed. Some prominent Mexican also will be named as a vice-president so that this element in the county may be represented in the organization.

Dues were established at $1 a year. The membership now is approximately 100, according to Guy.

In discussing the purposes of the association last night, the president emphasized the point that it was not fighting any particular person or corporation, but that it was waging a campaign against monopolization of public beaches by private individuals or corporations.

Stuart Lucas, who is a candidate for nomination as supervisor for the fifth supervisorial district, was present, and he stressed the point of needed activity for maintenance of open beaches.

The association will meet at the Capistrano Beach school house at 8 p. m., July 18.

SCOUTS LEAVE FOR OUTING AT ROKILI TODAY

Forty-three boys went into Camp Ro-Ki-Li this morning for 10 days. Boy Scouts from Santa Ana who entered were: Johnny Griset, Richard Gilliland, Robert Fowler, Dick Geeting, Alfred Eastman, Franklyn A. Munsell, Carroll Joy, Weston Sprague, Charles Downie, Robert Lee Wilbur, Arthur Salisbury, Stanley K. Smith, Lawrence Smith, Alex Lowe, Donn V. Hart. Those going from Tustin were Carl Allison, John Haskell, Reynold Bullock, Arthur Nissen, Peter Plumb.

From Costa Mesa and Newport those who went were Leonard Collins, Calvin Warner, Donald Stevens, Jack Dodge, Wilford MacDonald and Charles Langmade. From Laguna Beach, William Walter and Hubert Piety went to camp; from Orange, Oswald Thomson and Loren Gillogly went in; from Brea, Yorba Linda and Fullerton, Herbert Warren, Lloyd Whipp, Paul Whipp, Robert Townsend, Warren C. Shaw jr., Orval Smith, Norman Andrew, Lyle Blystone and Walter Zeigler went to camp.

Boys who are staying over from last period are Hal T. Smith, James Pegues, Robert Hull and Wm. L. MacArthur. The fourth and last period opens July 18th. Already quite a number of boys have signed up and applications are coming in every day according to George Walker, scout executive.

B. & P. W. CLUB WILL MAINTAIN YOUTH IN CAMP

Among business matters arising for discussion at yesterday's meeting of Business and Professional Women at St. Ann's Inn, was that of continuing in their support of a youth at the Orange County Health camp in the valley near Irvine park. The club members were unanimous in their decision to continue this activity, and the president, Mrs. Hazel Northcross, stated that the board would take up the matter of raising funds to continue the work, and present its plans to the membership as a whole, at an early date.

It also was announced that at next Monday's meeting, the club would be asked to vote on the requested increase of federation dues from the present 75 cents per member, to one dollar.

Mrs. Laura McNaught, chairman, Miss Mayme Brightwell, Dr. Mary E. Wright, Fredda Moesser Barger and Mrs. Rae House comprise the July committee responsible for the program, and Mrs. McNaught stated that they had equally interesting features in store for remaining Mondays of the month. She asked Dr. Kright to outline plans for the social meeting which will be held Monday night, July 21. The clubwomen will motor to the English tavern on Whittier boulevard for a 6:30 o'clock dinner, during which Rae House will present a fashion show. The after dinner entertainment will be provided by Dr. Stewart Fish, of Pasadena, who will show his motion pictures of a European trip.

Mrs. McNaught introduced a group of the city's talented young artists for the day's entertainment, Miss Mary Hendietta Nau, pianist; Miss Betty Smedley and Robert Forcey, violinists, and Miss Henriette Morris, reader.

With Mary Henrietta at the piano, Betty and Robert played Dancla's "Second Symphony" and "Moonlight and Roses. Robert then played two solo numbers with Betty as his accompanist, "Indian Snake Dance" by Burleigh, and "Berceuse" by Delbruck. Everyone was impressed with the musicianship shown by each individual young artist.

No less pleasing was the monologue given by Harriette Morris, who read "Portrait of a Lady Talking to an Actress" and as an encore, "Sign Wanted," an amusing Italian sketch by T. A. Daley.

SEES AFTER 30 YEARS

Speeding autos, modern styles, airplanes and the telephoto amazed J. F. Fish, founder of a Chicago business college, when he recovered his sight after 30 years of blindness, but his biggest thrill came when he saw his bride, as pictured here, for the first time since their honeymoon. His sight began to return gradually a few days ago.

TUSTIN C. OF C. TO HEAR FROM BEACH SPEAKER

SAN CLEMENTE, July 8.—J. C. Herbsman, San Clemente lecturer, will deliver an address before the Tustin Chamber of Commerce at 8 p. m., Wednesday, in the Knights of Pythias building. Herbsman is making the talk in place of Ole Hanson, who was called to the southwest on business and will be gone two weeks on a tour of Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona.

Herbsman is scheduled to speak before the San Diego Realty board at noon on Wednesday and will drive from that meeting to talk at Tustin in the evening.

POSTPONE MEETING

SUNSET BEACH, July 8.—Due to the fact that the Fourth of July fell on the first Friday of the months, which is the regular meeting night of the Sunset Beach Cmamber of Commerce, the meeting was postponed until the following Friday night, at which time new officers will be elected.

MARATHON PASSES 274 HOUR MARKER

The American contest being held at Third and Ocean streets, Huntington Beach at 9 a. m. yesterday was in the 274th hour, with eight couples still going round and round.

The early morning hours find a varied number of positions and facial expressions, for it is at this time the boys and girls show their tiredness and try to ease their body weight from side to side.

Many of these contestants are known from the Santa Ana and Bell marathons. The eight remaining couples are Edna Stewart and Freeman Moore; Bernice Curtis and Al Atherton; Alice and Eddie Lyons; Donna Stimson and James Johnson; Ruth Strain and Harry Bachelor; Hazel Ross and Shafer Kreuter; Babe Priddy and Lorenz Krimeyer, and Marie Bott and Harry Le Fever.

If you are unable to attend this contest, tune in on station KREG at 9:30 p. m. and hear the broadcast direct from the dance arena, conducted by Master of Ceremonies Al Stefens.

There is at all times free public dancing with the price of admission.

CHANUTE, Kans., July 8.—John W. Dill, Civil War veteran, is one of the few living men who voted for Abraham Lincoln. He entered the army at the age of 13 and, by a special law passed in Iowa allowing soldiers to vote, he cast his first vote for Lincoln at the age of 15.

CONDITIONS IN S. A. BUILDING ARE CRITICIZED

Following charges by W. W. Chandler, county sanitary inspector, that Mrs. Emma French, owner of business structures on the northeast corner of Fourth and Main streets, had refused to comply with directions of the health department to make certain improvements in sanitary conditions, the city council last night instructed Chandler to submit his charges in writing in order that the council may proceed to force the improvements recommended.

The buildings recently were inspected by the fire chief, the sanitary inspector, city electrician, plumbing inspector and building inspector, and recomendations were made at the time for replacement of a portion of the flooring under the foundation at the Kelly drug store, a change in the location of the kitchen at the drug store, extension to the ceiling of a partition separating rest rooms on the upper floor, and other corrections of asserted unsafe and unsanitary conditions existing in the group of buildings owned by Mrs. French.

City Attorney C. D. Swanner advised the body that the buildings could be closed if sanitary conditions were such as to create a menace to public health.

The Nash-Ward Motor company was awarded a contract for furnishing the city with a Reo truck and L. D. Coffing was given the contract for delivering a Dodge Brothers truck. The bid on the Reo was $2942 and on the Dodge $2519.15.

The Hollywood Paving company was given the contract for paving Shelton street, from First to Fairview, on its bid of $17,929. The engineer's estimate was $20,183. The street to be improved with a four-inch asphaltum concrete pavement. B. G. Ford, general manager of the company, said that his concern is going to build a plant at Capistrano for mixing and heating the "black pavement" and that the heated mixture would be hauled here from the plant.

The planning commission renewed its recommendation that the jog in Bush street at Tenth be eliminated. City Engineer Clyde Jenken reported that plans for the improvement, formerly under consideration, had not been completed.

The street department was directed to post the northeast corner of Sixth and Birch streets giving notice that a hearing would be held in the council chambers on Monday evening on an application by the First Christian church for permission to erect a church building on the corner.

Requet of Captain C. J. Cain, of Company L, for an appropriation of $200 to the company's mess fund, was taken under advisement. The company is going into the annual summer training camp on July 18, and Capt. Cain said the money was needed to supply additional kitchen equipment. Giving assurance that the company would not make a similar request in the future, the commanding officer said that while the company is under his command there will never again be an appeal to the public for donations to the mess fund. He said the extra money for special use at training camps would be secured by a series of entertainments, including dances.

An ordinance was adopted providing new schedules of rates for water services. The minimum monthly charge is reduced 25 cents on each classification of service. It is estimated the reduction will save water consumers $24,000 annually.

The council voted to use approximately $500 of the city auto money for an appropriation to the expense of widening and paving East First street. Anticipating that the board of supervisors would assist in the work to the extent of $7000, the council provided for this sum in the resolution of intention declaring the necessity of the improvement. The board of supervisors agreed to bear one-fourth of the cost of the paving and made an appropriation of $6515.

It was necessary for the council to either make up the difference between the two amounts or start the improvement proceedings again. In order not to delay the work, the council chose to make up the difference, which is about the equivalent of what it would cost to institute new proceedings.

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for a sedan not to cost more than $800. The sedan is needed for the fire department, according to announcement.

DEAF PATRONS TO HEAR SOUND FILMS

A device by which deaf persons can hear as well as see talking motion pictures has been installed in the Fox Broadway theater and is now in operation, according to an announcement made today by Norman Sprowl, Santa Ana manager of the Fox theaters.

The "deaf sets," as they are called, have been installed in 15 different seats in the Fox Broadway theater in various places. Persons who cannot hear are given these seats, together with head phones, and through wiring that runs from the talking instrument itself to the seats, the patrons can hear every word that is spoken.

The invention, recently announced in Los Angeles, was immediately installed in the larger Los Angeles theaters. The Chinese theater at Hollywood was the first to use them, and the success of the instruments has made their usefulness apparent.

Sprowl has had men working here for the past several days installing the "deaf sets" and the work was completed yesterday.

Patrons of the theater who are deaf are requested to leave $1 as a deposit at the box window when they purchase their tickets. Then they are given the ear phones. The phones are connected to the seat and the patron hears.

The invention is a product of the Western Electric company, and has been perfected after years of research. It is believed it will open up a new world to persons whose hearing is not good, and to many persons who never have heard a talking picture it will come as a revelation.

There is nothing intricate about the new invention so far as the patron is concerned. Ushers will attach the ear phones to the seats and the patron has nothing to do but go to the show and enjoy the performance.

SUCH IS LOVE

DUBOIS, Pa., July 8.—What's a little thing like an automobile acident when love lies in the offing? Nothing! That's what W. S. DeWees and Mrs. Violet Plants think. The couple, on their way from Zanesville, Ohio, to Pittsburgh, recently, were in an auto crash. Both received fractured skulls, but at the hospital announced that they would wed as soon as they were able to sit up in bed.

Yachting News

BY S. H. LUCAS

The schedule for the coming week calls for a girls snowbird race on Thursday, July 10. As several competent sailor lassies are now summering around Newport Bay, this event should not only bring out a good entry, but prove an enjoyable spectacle to view from the gallery of the Newport Harbor club house.

A sufficient number of snowbirds will be provided so that all entries can be supplied with boats. This event starts at 1:15 p. m.

Fifteen minutes later at 1:30 p. m. the Bay Sloop handicap will start. It is the wish of the regatta committee to make this event a thoroughly enjoyable one. This race can be participated in by any one on the bay, whether affiliated with any club or not. Star boats are barred. It is hoped that any boy or girl with a boat will enter one of these events as it is the desire of the club officials to foster boating at Newport Bay, and these races are to provide opportunities for non-club members to get into the game. All are welcome.

On July 11th will be another of the ladies bridge luncheons that have proved so popular with the members in the past.

Saturday, July 12th, has a snowbird race at 1:15 and the star event starts at 2:30.

One of John's special dinners will be served Saturday night, and the Tournament of Lights takes place that evening. Informal dancing will be provided for the members and guests after 8 p. m., and the week end promises to be a full one.

Sunday sees the second of the elimination races at 1:30 over the outside course, while the second performance handicap for cruisers is scheduled for 1:20. The snowbirds race at 1:15 over the inside course.

COULD HARDLY DO HER WORK

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mission, Tex.—"I have used a good deal of your medicine and always find it gives wonderful help. I was feeling so weak and miserable that I had to lie down very often and I could hardly do my housework. I read in the paper how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women who were in the same condition so I said I will try it for myself. I am very much better now and I recommend this medicine, and will answer letters from women asking about it."—Mrs. J. W. Albertson, 1015 Miller Avenue, Mission, Texas.

YOUR HEALTH

Will Never Be Better Until Certain Necessary Corrections Have Been Made

DO YOU have one bowel action a day? DO YOU ever pass a jelly like substance, called mucus? If so then the SOURCE of your trouble is in the intestines, and you are in need of our COMPLETE INTESTINAL HYGIENE.

YOU may have constipation, or, worse yet, mucus and toxic poisons in the intestines and toxemia in the blood. After these poisons have spread into the blood streams they can manifest themselves in Rheumatism, Arthritis, or other chronic ailments. And regardless of whether it's one or the other, it's still coming from and being fed and maintained by the INTESTINAL AILMENT. This is the BIGGEST fact in chronic ailments, and since this fact is fixed in your mind you will have the "KEY" to the situation and will no longer spend your money on AIMLESS METHODS. THINK IT OVER AND SPEND YOUR MONEY WISELY, for these are facts that you will come to "sooner or later."

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Stoval, among the earliest of the July newlyweds, are receiving the congratulations and good wishes of a host of friends, upon their nuptials which took place Saturday evening, July 5, in this city.

Mrs. Stoval was Miss Eugenia Davenport, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rennie, 615 Wellington avenue. Mr. Stoval is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stoval of Los Angeles. Their wedding was a quiet affair taking place in the First Presbyterian manse, with the pastor, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, reading the service.

Miss Davenport wore a graceful gown or orchid georgette fashioned modishly on long flowing lines. She was attended by her sister, Miss Alive Davenport, while William Poh jr. of Tustin, and Cecil Beard of Los Angeles, completed the wedding party. Only members of the family circle were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoval will be in this city for a limited time at the home of the bride's parents, but expect to make their home in Los Angeles.

Chiropractics Plan Irvine Park Party

Plans for a big picnic of members and their families of Auxiliary No. 22 of the California unit, American Bureau of Chiropractic are being made, with the date of Thursday, July 10, selected for the event, which is to be held in Irvine park. Each family will provide for its own picnic fare for the supper to be enjoyed as a sequel to a lively afternoon of games and contests. Among the games will be a baseball match between the men, captained by Dr. James Workman, and the women, with Dr. Estelle Workman as their captain. The losing side will furnish ice cream for the winners.

A feature of the program will be the talk by A. W. Griewe, a layman, who will give his interpretation of the initiative bill now being circulated to repeal the present chiropractic law. Guests are being welcomed to the affair which promises to be one of the most successful meetings of the auxiliary.

The picnic supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

Angelenans Conclude Holiday Visit Here

Concluding an enjoyable holiday week-end visit with Dr. and Mrs. A. Karl Loerch, 2648 North Main street, Miss Wyla Norton and Norman Doyle have returned to their homes in Los Angeles.

Dr. and Mrs. Loerch, whose marriage was a June event of much interest, had planned a delightfully informal program for their house-guests, including a Fourth of July spent at Laguna Beach, where they dined at Las Ondas, and exciting rounds of golf for each morning of their stay.

Susannah Bixby Bryant Son and Heir to Wed At Early Date

When Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Albert Bryant of 3210 West Adams street, Los Angeles, and Rancho Santa Ana, Orange county, return in mid-July from their extended European trip, and Mrs. Bryant, better known in this vicinity as Susannah Bixby Bryant, again assumes management of the famous Rancho Santa Ana in Santa Ana canyon, they will be greeted by news of the marriage plans of their son, Ernest Albert Bryant jr., and Miss Judy Tilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Tilt of Pasadena.

During the absence of Dr. and Mrs. Bryant, Ernest Bryant jr., has made his home on the Long Beach ranch, managing the affairs of that property, a part of the famous Bixby holdings of the district. He is a graduate of Williams University, and active in Southland social circles, especially the exclusive Bachelors' club of Los Angeles.

His fiancee, Miss Tilt, a Vassar graduate, is one of the most popular of the younger society girls of Pasadena and Los Angeles, and was one of the organizers of the Spinsters' club, which plays important part in Los Angeles' social life equal to that of the Bachelors' club. The betrothal of the young people was announced at the time of the latest Bachelors' ball, but yesterday Mr. Bryant and his pretty fiancee appeared at the city hall in Los Angeles, and filed their notice of intention to marry. The wedding date was not revealed however, and it was suggested that it would not take place until the return of Dr. and Mrs. Bryant. Two of the most prominent families in the Southland will be united in the ceremony.

Rancho Santa Ana comprises thousands of acres amidst the rolling hills of Santa Ana canyon, and the home erected there within the past two years, is one of the most interesting in the couny. Mrs. Bryant plans to make the ranch one upon which every species of flora indigenous to the Southland, will find a setting, and it promises to be a botanist's paradise.

Harbor Yacht Club Was Setting for Holiday Festivities

Summer holiday celebrations at Newport Harbor Yacht club are always pleasurable events, and it was especially delightful that the first of the season's weekly luncheons should be an event of Friday afternoon, supplying in the stead of the Fourth's noisy confusion, a retreat where members and guests might enjoy the holiday quietly. The luncheon was the beginning of an exceedingly busy three days in the clubhouse, for many were the parties given Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Hostesses at the colorful luncheon were Mrs. Carolyn Heseman of Riverside, mother of Commodore Leon Heseman, and Mrs. Andrew Wilson, wife of Staff Commodore Wilson, Newport Beach.

Especially enjoyable was the afternoon of bridge, with Mrs. J. Hutton of Los Angeles, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Ross Noble, winning high score in contract, and Mrs. Alice Kerr in auction.

The activities on the bay, with the put-put of the speed boats, the plash of waves against stately yachts, and the brilliant blue of the sky, flecked with filmy clouds, all had their part in delighting the guests, as did the quiet dignity of the clubhouse itself, with the spirit of hospitality which is so evident there.

Many of those present at luncheon remained for a dinner party in the evening, followed by the informal dance which drew a large crowd of participants. Saturday, too, was a favored day for social gatherings of all varieties, and the dining room and deck were crowded with gay groups. Mrs. A. D. Knupple and Mrs. Edward H. Kelley, of Los Angeles, were co-hostesses to groups of young people both Friday and Saturday evenings, with dinner served in the ballroom. Mrs. Walter Hubbard, also of Los Angeles, was a hostess of Saturday evening.

The usual informal dance on Saturday night came as a fitting climax to the exciting holiday events, and as an introduction to a more quiet though equally enjoyable celebration on Sunday.

Erroll Barnes Home Was Scene of Gay Reunions

The delightful hospitality of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erroll Barnes, at 1114 South Birch street, was extended to a number of friends and relatives over the holidays, two different groups sharing the pleasures planned by the hosts.

Coming as a fitting celebration of the "Glorious Fourth" was the first of these, when friends were invited to spend the day in the Barnes home. A delicious luncheon was served at noon, followed by an afternoon of such pleasures as always are enjoyed by a group of intimate friends. When evening drew near, a sumptuous dinner was served outdoors, and was reminiscent of several years ago when members of the party had shared various picnic outings together. Fried chicken and home-made ice cream were favorites on the menu.

Those present other than the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, were Messrs. and Mesdames Lloyd Sutar, Kenneth Thomas and daughter Beverley, G. Jones and son Raymond, and Edward Secrist, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Johnson and Mrs. Clara Barnes, of this city.

Sunday evening marked the second of the week-end parties in the Barnes' home, when a group of friends had been invited to share a most appetizing dinner in the evening. A variety of colorful blooms from the home gardens provided a pretty setting. Forrest Smith, one of the guests, and the host were especially interested in discussing earlier days, for their friendship was founded a score of years ago in Los Angeles.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Smith and children, of Colton; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Snyder and daughter Norma, of Brea; Mrs. Clara Barnes, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes.

MOVED TO DIVORCE

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—Frog eating has become such a pleasant recreation that the Japanese have taken to making a specialty of raising edible frogs, according to Chichero Uchida, official spokesman for his government. He is in New Orleans perfecting plans to turn South America into a great frog farm controlled by Japanese. Buenos Aires is the base of operation.

BERLIN, July 8.—A metal wallpaper has recently appeared on the market here. It is made of a thin sheet of aluminum supported by paper. The advantages of such paper is obvious. When it becomes soiled, it can be restored to its original luster by merely washing it.

Chicagoans Were Taken On Tour of Beaches By Local Hosts

In entertaining friends from Chicago over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Erickson of 1041 West Sixth street, were extending more than the hospitality of their cozy home, they were displaying the delights of the western coast to a happy group who are planning to make their home here in a very few months.

The guests, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lemke, and Mrs. M. Fresha, motored to California from the "Windy City," and have remained here for about a month exploring the varied delights of the Pacific coast. They arrived at the Erickson home on Friday, and from that time on until Sunday evening they were visiting various beaches. Friday was spent at Long Beach, Saturday at Newport and Balboa, and Sunday at Laguna. The last destination was the only one that held nothing but interest and pleasure for the travelers, for there they witnessed the terrible airplane accident which took the life of a prominent citizen of Beverly Hills. Shortly after this they started on their journey homeward to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lemke and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lemke are planning to become Californians just as soon as their business interests will permit.

SUNSET BEACH

Misses Rosalie Phillips of the Los Angeles junior college, and Catherine Phillips, of Los Angeles, were the charming young hostesses at a house party held at their beach home here. The guests were Misses Peggy Wade of U.S.C.; Agnes Barrett, U.C.L.A., and Tom Law, Mark Herrington and Russ Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil McClintox and daughter Ruby and friend, of Baldwin Park, spent the Fourth of July at their beach cottage on Canal Way.

Mike Ditzel and sister, Mrs. Anna Slagill and family, of Los Angeles, enjoyed a pleasant out door party, camping on their lot at Bay View drive.

Mrs. Harriett Batchelder, had as her guest Miss A. Speeden, of Hunutington Park, on Friday. The evening was spent in playing bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Ike, entertained a number of friends over the week end, at their beach cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Iberg, of Clearwater, entertained friends at a wiener bake on his property on Canal Way.

Mrs. Bertha Moore, spent Saturday in Los Angeles visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Earll, and Mr. and Mrs. T. Offenbacker, Mr. and Mrs. L. Metz, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Sorenson, of Los Angeles and N. Mason, director of the Yankee Don, with the Universal Film Company, and wife, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred De Zemplen of Los Angeles, at a house party, held at Balboa Island. The main diversions were swimming and boating.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen, of Bay View Drive, had as their guests on Friday her hon, W. Allen and wife, of Compton.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Johns entertained a host of friends over the Fourth and into the week end, including Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Johns of San Bernardino, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith, Miss Ida Smith, and Mr. Bonnelly, of Los Angeles; Bill Talbott, Laur Fees and her aunt, Miss L. Fees of Monrovia; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Glow and son Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. Casey Healey, of Monrovia.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Halsted, spent Sunday in LosAngeles, with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Carl Hernandez, of Park avenue, entertained her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of Los Angeles, over the week end.

Dr. J. Butler and wife, of San Bernardino, are building an addition to their beach cottage on Park avenue, and expect to spend a good share of the summer here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Allen, of Coast Highway, entertained the following guests over the week end: Mr. and Mrs. E. Sandlin and family of Bell, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Levegood of Garvanza, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Sandlin and daughter Ellen-Geene of Long Beach and Miss L. McClain of El Paso. A picnic luncheon was enjoyed by all.

W. Boyer and son, of Fullerton, spent Monday at their beach cottage on Park avenue.

Redondo Beach Home Was Setting for A. D. Party

Mrs. Floyd Lyman, a former resident of this city, was a gracious hostess recently, when she entertained members of the A. D. club at an evening party in her lovely home in Redondo Beach. Bridge was played, and when scores were added it was revealed that Mrs. Louis Rohrman of Los Angeles, held high score, receiving as the prize a pair of much coveted hand-embroidered pillow cases. Mrs. Dean Campbell of this city, was awarded a charming set of bridge tallies and score pads as holder of second high score. Miss Gladys Young was consoled with a chiffon dance handkerchief.

During the refreshment hour, the card covers were exchanged for white linens, which were centered with velvety red roses. Little red and white nut cups bearing American flags completed the patriotic color scheme.

Those present other than the hostess, Mrs. Lyman, were Miss Gladys Young, Mrs. George Seba, Mrs. Harry Milligan and Mrs. Dean Campbell, of this city; Mrs. George Harris of Bellflower, Mrs. Louis Rohrman of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Noble McBride of Long Beach.

Bridge Group Enjoys Pot-luck Luncheon

Mrs. Leland Eubank was hostess to a little group of bridge club members recently, when she entertained in her home on North Bristol street. The interesting afternoon began with a pot luck luncheon served at the dining doom table which was gay with a variety of summer blossoms, pastel-toned gladioluses prediminating.

In the bridge game which followed, Mrs. Roy Ivans, a guest of the day, held high score, Mrs. Daisy McGee, second high, and Mrs. William Batt, low. All were awarded attractive prizes.

Those present were Mesdames Roy Ivans, Mary Schlesman, A. Norris, Dairy McGee, and the hostess, Mrs. Eubank, all of this city; Mrs. J. P. King of Anaheim, Mesdames George Merriman and William Batt of Orange.

The group will meet with Mrs. Harry McCoy July 17.

Mrs. Webster Makes Flying Visit Here

Her Santa Ana friends were happy yesterday to greet Mrs. Elmer E. Webster, formerly Mrs. Mabel Rockwell, who paid a flying visit to this city in connection with her dance studio on East Fourth street, coming from the beautiful country home of Mr. Webster on his orange grove property at Fontana on the Foothill boulevard near San Bernardino.

Mr. and Mrs. Webster, whose marriage was an event of late June in Agua Caliente, have been spending their honeymoon at Hotel Coronado, and at the Pacific Coast club, Long Beach, proceeding to the ranch home only a few days ago. There is a possibility that they will establish a permanent home in Santa Ana, a move that would be welcomed by the many friends of the bride in this city.

AUTOMATIC DOOR

CHAPTER XLVIII

Into the twilight of the room stepped a woman's figure. The soft closing of the door was followed by the click of the light switch beside it. In the dazzle of light from the four wall brackets Mrs. Letitia Lambert was revealed, leaning against the door, as if she was too exhausted to take another step.

Slowly she lifted the newspaper. Her closed eyes opened, fastened upon the picture with agonized intensity. With sudden fierceness she crushed the paper against her lips, low, dreadful moans throbbing in her throat, her usually serene face a mask of agony.

"Motive!" Captain Strawn breathed in Dundee's ear and the younger detective pinched him to warn him to silence.

The woman could not have heard, but she lowered the paper, lifted her breast in a tearing sigh and slowly started to cross the room. Her right hand, from whose wrist her handbag dangled, went up automatically to remove her close-fitting black hat.

Dundee held his breath. The supreme movement was upon them. For as he had known they would, those tortured eyes flew to the dressing-table. Not once since Saturday morning—he felt sure—had Mrs. Lambert returned to her room without casting a terrified glance at her dressing-table to make sure that the black-and-gold perfume bottle had not betrayed her, that it was still there. How many times she must have seized it, wildly casting about for a means to hide it or to destroy its tell-tale contents, only to realize each time that she was safer with it in plain sight, in the place where Della, the maid, had been accustomed to see it. In its rightful place, it looked supremely innocent, for the black glass concealed the fact that, once nearly empty, it was now full. Missing, destroyed, it might betray her.

Handbag, newspaper and hat slipped from her nerveless hands to the floor. Jerkily, as if she were half paralyzed, Mrs. Lambert crept to the dressing-table. The detectives saw her stare at the label, which Dundee had printed and pasted upon the face of the bottle. A shaking hand went out to touch it, then shuddered away. Only then, it seemed, did she see the grayish-white remains of her tennis oxfords....

"Quick! She's going to faint!" Strawn whispered urgently.

Dundee was in time to catch her as she fell but she was not unconscious. For a long minute she lay passive in his arms, her eyes still fixed in a blind trance of horror upon a vision of ruined shoes and a grotesquely labeled perfume bottle.

Finally the paralyzed lids relaxed and curtailed the dawning agony of realization in her eyes.

Dundee was merciful to her. Motioning to Strawn to stay in the closet, he rose with his burden and carried it to the bed. She lay as if dead until he had gone to the bathroom, mixed a dose of aromatic spirits of ammonia and held it to her gray lips.

After she had drunk the dose, she closed her eyes again and lay motionless, except for the rising and falling of her breast in quick, gasping sighs. Finally she spoke, her voice a gusty whisper:

"How long—have you known?"

"I wasn't sure until today," he answered gently. "At first I could not believe that you, who said you loved Doris, could kill her."

"I did love her!" the woman cried, beating her breast feebly with clenched hands. "That is what made it so—horrible....Oh, I'm glad it's over! Glad, glad! Do you hear? I couldn't have gone on much longer, trying to be natural, having to talk of—her....I was going to kill myself tonight. Why couldn't you have given me time?"

"Wouldn't you feel better if you told me about it?" Dundee suggested, very gently. "I am not trying to trap you, Mrs. Lambert. You realize that the evidence is conclusive, without your confession."

"Evidence? What do I care about evidence now?" she moaned, her hands still feebly beating her breast. "I warn you now that I'll not live to stand trial. I'll find a way somehow—soon!....But you shall not go on thinking I lied about being fond of Doris!"

"You killed her in a frenzy or terror, Mrs. Lambert, because she was determined to expose you, not only as Mrs. Berkeley's would-be murderer, but as Phyllis Crosby's blackmailer," Dundee told her quietly.

"Blackmailer?" she whispered, her eyes enormous. "I—never called myself that, but—I suppose it's true——We all lie to ourselves, justify ourselves, don't we, Mr Dundee?" she asked pitifully.

She was silent for so long then that Dundee was afraid he had pushed her too far, that she would not confess. But at last she cried:

"Oh, what does it matter? It will hurt Seymour less to know the truth than to go on being tortured with doubts of Phyllis's love for him."

"I am sure of that, Mrs. Lambert," Dundee encouraged her.

"Please try to understand—not to judge me too harshly," she began, in a weary, flat voice. "All my life until my husband died I had more money than I needed—and all the pleasant things that go with money and high social position. When my husband's estate was settled, I found that nearly everything was gone. You see, a woman had been blackmailing him heavily for years. Disillusioned, sick at heart, for I had loved my husband, I faced the world almost penniless. Forty-four years old....

"The thought of marrying some middle-aged or old widower for his money was abhorrent to me and I was not trained for any sort of work. The only position I could possibly fill was that of social secretary and the idea was unthinkable—then. I was too proud....

"But to go back a little. A few weeks before my husband died—he was killed in a polo accident—I met and took a great fancy to Phyllis Benham. It amused and delighted me to force her upon society. My nephew, Tommy Cavendish, liked her immensely and I rather hoped he would fall in love with her. But Phyllis fell in love with Seymour Crosby. Seymour did not have much money; he hesitated to ask the child to marry him, for fear her father would regard him as a fortune-hunter.

"One Monday morning Mr. Benham telephoned me that his daughter was ill and hysterical, that she wanted to see me. I went. Phyllis told me a wild almost incredible story. She had a friend who had joined the chorus of a musical comedy, opening in Atlantic City the previous Friday. As a lark, Phyllis accompanied her friend, staying backstage. When the show was over, two young men, thinking both of them were chorus girls, invited them to go to a roadhouse. Phyllis thought it would be fun to accept. There was some drinking—not much, she insisted to me—but several hours after Phyllis awoke, to find herself in a hotel bedroom with her escort of the evening. She began to scream. Guests reported the disturbance. The hotel detective came and was about to take them both to the police station. The man in the case squared it with the detective, however, and left as soon as he could dress. Phyllis had not given him her right name, the night before, and I tried to soothe her hysterical fears—told her she would hear no more about it, that it was not her fault and that she must try to forget it. Then she showed me a letter she had received that morning from Seymour Crosby. It was a proposal of marriage. She protested that she could not accept, although she loved him with all her heart. The fear of blackmail, she said, would hang over her head for the rest of her life.... May I—have some water, please?" she gasped.

"So it was Phyllis herself who suggested blackmail to you," Dundee said thoughtfully, as he held the glass to her lips.

"Yes. But at the time I told her that it might be best for her or for me to tell Seymour the whole ugly story, trusting to his love for her. But that idea frightened her more than the other. The next day my husband was killed. I saw almost no one for weeks and had almost forgotten poor Phyllis's dilemma until I saw her picture and Seymour's on the society page of a New York paper, announcing their engagement and early marriage.

"Phyllis called on me just before the wedding and confessed that she was in terror lest her companion of that dreadful night had seen her picture and had recognized it; that he would blackmail her, knowing that her father was a very rich man. Again I advised her to tell Seymour, but she said she could not; that she was going to beg him to take her to England to live for a year, at least.

"As you know, that is what happened. I visited in their home in London, then went to Monte Carlo, where I lost almost my last penny in a frantic effort to win enough to live on for a few months, at least. It was then—in January—that I conceived the idea of—of blackmail. Phyllis had told me the man's name, or at least the name he had given her. I typed a letter to her, signing the man's first name and asking her to send a thousand pounds in banknotes to W. L. Parker,' care of the American Express Company, in Paris. The money came. I asked for mail for Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Parker, representing myself as Mrs. Parker, and received the package without difficulty. It was—so easy—"

"That you tried it again and again," Dundee suggested softly.

"Yes. But the last time I was frightened, for I had her send the money to the American Express Company in London. Doris saw me there, but I was sure she believed me when I remarked casually that I was asking for my own mail.

"Phyllis told me that her worst fears had been confirmed; that she was being blackmailed and that her father had refused to cable her any more money. She could not meet the blackmailer's last demand. Seymour had sent for me, you know, to try to cheer her up. Me!"

Tears forced themselves out of her closed eyes and slipped down her pallid cheeks. "It was—the night she died. I told her, begged her, to end it all by telling her husband the truth. I hated myself, wanted to sin no more, but so long as Seymour didn't know, I knew I would be too weak to resist the temptation. Phyllis thought the man had followed her, of course, that it was he who was bleeding her. Doris knew as much as Phyllis herself knew; the mistress and maid were the closest of friends.

"At last Phyllis agreed to tell Seymour, and I left Phyllis on the roof to give him the message. You know the rest—that she died rather than tell him the truth.

"At the inquest Doris exonerated Seymour, of course, but she confided to me that she would avenge her adored mistress if she had to devote the rest of her life to the cause. Her plan was to hire detectives to trace Phyllis's blackmailer and make him pay for his crime. That is why she wanted the beauty shop—to make money more quickly. She never suspected that it was—I. She trusted me, was fond of me, until—"

"Until Friday night when she saw you pouring wood alcohol into Mrs. Berkeley's perfume." Dundee finished the sentence for her.

"Yes," Mrs. Lambert agreed dully. "I did not hear her come in; she moved so quietly always. She must have been watching me for a minute or two, for she said: 'So it was you—you!—who killed Miss Phyllis!' I knew then that she would have no mercy, would not try to understand why I was planning to murder—"

"I believe I do, Mrs. Lambert," Dundee interrupted. "There were three reasons why you wanted Mrs. Berkeley to die. First, you loved her husband, and wanted him to be free to love you and marry you—"

"But he didn't know! He never by a word or a look—"

"I know. But you hoped he would marry you for Gigi's sake, then come to love you for yourself. And Gigi knew you loved her father. Friday night, in a fit of hysterical resentment against her mother, she begged him to divorce her and marry you."

The drawn face softened, glowed. "Did she? My precious Gigi! Thank you for telling me. But oh, what will she think of me now?"

"The second reason, of course, was that you adored Gigi, the child you told yourself you should have had."

"Yes," Mrs. Lambert whispered and her her face with her hands.

"Third: the same reason you blackmailed Phyllis Crosby. Money. You could not endure the thought of poverty, of working for your inferiors, of being humiliated daily by a woman like Mrs. Berkeley."

"She deserved to die!" Mrs. Lambert cried suddenly, rising on her elbow to stare at him with wild eyes. "A drunkard, a fool, a selfish and cruel mother, a nagging wife to the finest man in the world——But I gave her her chance to live! Even after she had slapped my darling that night, I made her promise not to drink the perfume Seymour had given her. I toldmyself then: 'I shall poison it tonight. If she breaks her promise, she deserves to die'."

"But it was Doris who died," Dundee said.

He rose and signaled to Captain Strawn, chief of the homicide squad.

WESTMINSTER

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Little motored to Laguna Beach Sunday, where they visited Mrs. Little's mother, Mrs. B. M. Hill of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Grandy entertained as their guests on July 4, Mrs. Grandy's sister, Mrs. Clara McKee, and Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, friends from Eaglerock. Mrs. McKee remained as an overnight guest the others returning home in the evening.

J. A. Knapp, who has been on a two weeks vacation from the Helman ranch, where he is employed, returned to work Monday.

J. R. Cavanah and grandson, Doyle Stockton and Donald Knapp, who are away on a vacation trip, are at present at the home of Mr. Cavanah's sister, Mrs. A. G. Smith at Carrouthers, Calif. The party has visited at Yosemite National park and Bishop since leaving here.

Simeon Cozard and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight McDaniels left Thursday evening for Oregon.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

THE MENACE OF RAW VEGETABLES

I was much amused recently by the windmill tilting activities of a Don Quixote who was hipped on the subject of a raw vegetable diet, the benefits mankind could gain from it, and his keen desire to make me see the error of my carniverous ways. I listened to his arguments, and viewed his cadaverous carcass from toe to toe. My retort courteous was, "Physician, heal thyself."

Invocations of any kind, whether they be in business, morals or diet, must be taken slowly, each step proved better than the old way, and the system, animate or otherwise, given time to adjust itself to the new order of things.

In the matter of raw vegetable diet much harm can be done if the dieter plunges into such a diet full tilt. For generations back and from birth the mixed diet has made certain demands on the digestive system and on the production of the essential digestive juices. When this ratio is upset the inevitable end is this:

Too much of one kind of digestive essence is produced and too little of some other, with acute indigestion resulting. The stomach is unable to adjust itself to grinding up the new grist, so much of it passes on into the intestine to irritate and ferment, and "the last state is worse than the first."

I have no doubt but many people could benefit by following the raw vegetable diet rigidly, but they must give their stomachs time to become accustomed to the new order of things, and that doesn't mean a day or a week, but a year or more before it would be safe to rely entirely on the raw diet.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Nut Bars

1 scant cup sugar
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup chopped dates
2 eggs, whites beaten separately
3½ tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Drop the egg yolks into the sugar and beat until smooth and creamy. Sift flour, baking powder and salt into the yolk mixture and again beat smooth. Chopped nuts and dates come next with the egg whites, beaten dry, folded in last of all. Have a shallow pan buttered and dusted with flour.

Smooth the mixture into the pan with a knife, having it not thicker than half an inch. Bake in a rather slow oven until quite firm (beaten egg whites require slow heat or the bars will be soggy). Score the nut sheet with a knife as soon as it comes from the oven, when cold cut the sheet into finger sized bars and roll in fine sugar before putting away.

The calories total close to 2500 in this recipe and almost all of them are concentrated energy foods. The recipe will make two dozen slim bars and you will find them a delightful complement to any kind of frozen dessert or berries. I like to serve them with frozen strawberries or raspberries, minus the whipped cream garnish.

FINDS ANOTHER RAY

NAPLES, July 8.—A young Italian scientist, Saverio Natella, is baffling fellow workers with a natural ray which he says enables him to extract electrical power from the ether. He has kept running for hours a small motor and a light bulb without any physical connections. His unknown ray is being scoffed at by some of Italy's greatest scientists.

BYRD EXPLORATION FILM LURES CROWD

How many persons would have gone with Commander Richard Byrd an his hard band of Americans who have just returned to the United States from the South Pole?

The answer is a very few and the reason for it is the danger, the hardships and the time it would have taken, yet for the price of admission, the same trip can be made today at the Fox West Coast theater, where the remarkable picture "With Byrd at the South Pole" is being shown. The picture opened here Monday and shows through Friday night.

All the things that Byrd saw, all the things that he did, are shown in the picture, and the audience gets all the thrills he did as he pushed his brave band of men across the ice to the bottom of the world.

The picture from an educational standpoint is declared to be the best that ever has been produced. There is none of the fake drama, none of the imitation in the picture. It is all real, and it will hold an audience spellbound from start to finish.

The strange sights, the ice laden country, the peculiar looking animals and birds that were seen, the blizzards, and the final dash by airplane to the pole itself make up one of the most interesting pictures that ever has been brought to Santa Ana.

Santa Ana people are swarming to the theater and there is talk of holding the picture over through out the week, if the crowds continue as they have.

LONGEVITY MENU

RIGA, July 8.—One hundred and twenty-nine years old and all due to the eating of raw herrings dipped in weak black coffee every day. That was the record of Mrs. Anna Greisler, the oldest inhabitant of Latvia, who recently died here at that ago. She attributed her old age to the herring-coffee diet.

SIX AT BIRTH

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 8.—Senhora Hansen, of the little town of Parinpins, recently gave birth to six infants, all within an hour, and all boys. She is 23, and already has two other children, a girl and a boy. She has been married three years.

CHANEY PLAYS FIVE PARTS IN PICTURE

Lon Chaney, whose remarkable pictures of the past have made him one of the greatest actors on the screen, is seen and heard in his first all-talking picture, "The Unholy Three," which started at the Fox Broadway theater yesterday and plays through Thursday night.

Chaney made the same picture several years ago as a silent and at that time it was declared as one of his greatest impersonations. With the aid of sound and voices, the new version is said to far surpass the silent film.

The story of three sideshow freaks, a ventriloquist, played by Chaney, a midget and a giant, who band together for the purpose of robbing patrons of the show, the plot is vivid and interesting at all times. Chaney plays five different roles in the film and uses five different voices. It is a novelty to try and determine which is his own.

As a ventriloquist, he talks through a parrot and when the police get warm on the trail of the robbers, of which he is one, he changes his dress to that of an old woman and plays that part throughout the picture.

Bad Stomachs Need Dare's Mentha-Pepsin

Stop distress after eating, gas, acidity and bloating in 10 minutes. Get rid of gastritis and stomach agony in a short time.

Do as Elias Cuff, of Salem, N. J., did. He writes: "I do not hesitate to say that to me Dare's Mentha-Pepsin is the finest medicine in the world. It cured me permanently of chronic stomach trouble after I had tried many different preparations."

Pepsin is, in itself, great for stomach misery, but there are other effective agents in Dare's Mentha - Pepsin that help to strengthen digestion and make a weak stomach strong and sturdy. Mateer's Drug Co. and all druggists everywhere sell and guarantee it.—Adv.

JUNGLE FILM TO CLOSE AT WALKER

The riotous colors and sounds of the African jungle, have been caught with particular clarity in the Warner Brothers version of "Golden Dawn," well known operetta, closing tonight at Walker's State theater.

All of the haunting chants and ceremonial music as well as the famous solos of the stage production have been saved for the Vitaphone version and four new songs have been added.

The cast includes Walter Woolf and Vivienne Segal, both well known to music lovers, while Alice Gentle, world famous soprano, sings an important supporting role. Noah Beery, Lupino Lane, Marion Byron, Dick Henderson, Nigel de Brulier, Julanne Johnston, Edward Martindel and others are in the cast.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

While standing by the Caspian Sea, one Tiny said, "A thought strikes me. Why can't we have our lunch right here along the pretty shore? A picnic would be heaps of fun. Now, one of us could surely run and buy whate'er we want to eat, if we can find a store."

The others shouted, "Gee, that's great. Let's do it ere it gets too late. But, who will go and buy the food? That's what we'd like to know." The Travel Man began to smile. He said, "Why, say, we'll eat in style. I know where I can buy some food, so I'm the one to go."

He found a pony big enough to take him over roads quite rough. Then, as he started off, he cried, "Now wait right here for me. I'll move as quickly as I can, as sure as I'm a Travel Man. Just play around and shortly, quite a nice surprise you'll see."

And so the Tinies did as told. Soon Clowny cried, "The water's cold, so we can't go in bathing. It might give us all a chill. Let's just sit down and rest a bit. At lunch time we'll be feeling fit. I'm sure that what the Travel Man brings back will be a thrill."

It wasn't long until they spied the Travel Man and Scouty cried, "Ah! Now we eat." And sure enough, they had a wondrous lunch. Then they were on their way again. They passed queer small huts now and then. Said Coppy, "Gee, let's visit one. That is a happy hunch."

And soon they stopped and looked around. The hut was built close to the ground and it was made of stone and mud. A real queer place to see. The Persian family came right out and told them what 'twas all about. The Tinies liked them 'cause they were kind as they could be.

RULES

1.—In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

FIRM to HAND—A FIRM HAND must grip the club to assure you of a par three on this short hole.

TINTED TEETH

LONDON, July 8.—It is rumored among stylists here that the newest fad to be adopted by "smart" women will be tinted teeth. This fad, similar to that of tinted finger-nails, will produce teeth of all colors. In place of "teeth as white as pearls," open mouths will flash red, blue, green, violet, or other colored teeth. It is said that this coloring will hide a lot of imperfections in the teeth.

THE BEST COMEDY IN AMERICA

"Is he ornery?"

Boy: Yeh, that's what I said! I'm a fraternity man and a gentleman.

—Green Goat.

Mac: Has yer son an ear fer music?

Moe: Weel, I dinna ken, but he shure gotta good stomach fer steak!

—Ohio State Sun Dial.

Student: Offer prizes.

—Temple Owl.

"Rode in a collegiate flivver!"

He: What have you got under there?

She: Under wear?

—Ala. Rammer-Jammer.

Waiter: Zoup, sir? Zoup? Zoup?

Guest: I don't know what you're talking about.

—Ohio State Sun Dial.

THE NEW PRODIGIES

Proud Father: Honestly, Mr. De Mille, you ought to give my boy a chance. He's written some of the cleverest subtitles for our home movies you could possibly imagine!

Marriage is an institution.
Marriage is love.
Love is blind.
Therefore marriage is an institution for the blind.

—Nebraska Awgwan.

Mary: Yes, she and I were great friends once but we don't speak now.

Jane: How perfectly thrilling! What's his name?

1st: Some job weeding that garden.

2nd: Yes, it takes lots of pluck.

—U. of S. Calif. Wampus.

First Stude: Will you lend me a little ashistance home?

Second Ditto: Wish phleashure.

First Stude: Allrish, permish me to walk between you.

—Shadows

A wife is somebody who remodels your funny story as you go along.

—Washington Dirge.

Wife: Breakfast is ready, dear.

Hubby: It can't be— I haven't heard you scraping the toast.

—Washington Dirge.

"Kin you play Hot and Bothered, mister?"

—Yale Record.

College Studes in Paris: Coupla choclit sodies, please!

—Illinois Siren.

—Brown Bull.

First Flea: Have you been all over this leopard yet?

Second Flea: No, I'm only hitting the high spots.

We understand that the only folks who laugh at these Scotch jokes now are the Scotch themselves.

—Washington Dirge.

"Is he a foreigner?"

"Yes. He was born in New York City."

"What's delaying the circus?"

—Northwestern Purple Parrot.

He: Every kiss intoxicates me, darling. Would you like me to be a drunkard?

She: Well, yes, on the condition that you don't mix your drinks.

—Grinnell Malteaser.

"What are you writing?"

"A letter to my girl."

"Why do you write so slowly?"

—Okla. Whirlwind.

Mother: Why do you insist on a boyish bob?

—Missouri Outlaw.

Have you heard of the skeptical professor who threw himself out of the thirty-seventh story window while testing his lifetime pen?

—C. C. N. Y. Mercury.

Returning American Tourist (at port of entry): What! Four hundred and fifty-seven dollars duty for some American gowns and a few other things I bought in Paris? Oh, what an outrage!

Customs Officer: Just an old U. S. custom.

—Kansas Sour Owl.

"Dear Lord," prayed the co-ed, "I don't ask anything for myself—just give Mother a son-in-law."

—Colgate Banter.

"Mama, where from doth elephanths come? And don't try to thtall me off wiv that gag about the thtork."

THE MATH PROF PHONES

"Operator, give me eleven times thirty-two minus six divided by five, add to it twice the original number and make it snappy."

—Northwestern Purple Parrot.

"How come you're working today? Don't you know what the Fourth of July is?"

"No. I'm no good at fractions."

"Do you think Wordslinger, the poet, will live?"

"He will if he dies!"

—Pomona Sagehen.

"She's a little mite."

"Yeah—dynamite!"

Says Joe College: "I want to marry a rich girl so I can give her everything she wants."

—Blue Bucket.

"I got sick in Joe's place last night."

"Well, you know bars will be bars."

—California Pelican.

Silk Producer: You see, madam, the coolies just feed the silkworms mulberry leaves and they spin the silk.

Female Visitor: Yes, but how do you get them to spin the colors you want?

"And what is your opinion on petting, Dr. Schnitzelhausen?"

She: But I don't know you.

He: What you don't know won't hurt you."

—Yale Record.

"Is she a good girl?"

"I'll say. Straight as a string."

—Pomona Sagehen.

A LIMRICKY

Two boys who went down to Bermuda
Drank a little bit more than they shoulda.
They saw little or nought,
But they did, as 'tis taught,

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, July 8.—(UP)— Wheat developed strength in the latter part of the session on the Board of Trade today and closed sharply higher. Shorts cvoered freely no reports of rain in the eDakotas and the intensive heat from the spring wheat section. After setting new lows at the start the market reversed itself and climbed steadily during the rest of thes ession. Corn had independent strngth but advanced with wheat while oats were rather uncertain.

At the close wheat was ¾ to 1¾c higher, corn was ⅞ to 1⅜c higher and oats were ¼c higher. Provisions were firm.

PRODUCE

LOS ANGELES, July 8 —(UP)— Trading was low on the Los Angeles makret today an dofferings generally were not cleaning up. White Astrachan apples from the San Joaquin valley were weak at 2½-3c a lb. Apricots were in somewhat lighter supply but demand showed no improvement and small local stock sold at 25-40c a lug.

Cantaloupes were a little more plentiful and moved rather slowly although prices showed little change from yesterday.

Venice celery remained unchanged at $1.25-$.175 a crat. Local green corn was in heavy supply with receipts by truck averaging in excess of 10,000 lugs a day. Good corn jobbed at 65-75c a lug.

Figs were plentiful nad rather dull, especially brown figs from the Coachella valley which sold at 35-50c for 6-lb trays.

Grapes were weak, good Coachella valley seedless bringing 8-9c a lb. with Imprial valley seedless 5-8c. Letutce was in liberal supply and slightly weaker, the best iced 4 and 5 dozens from Watsonville and Salinas jobbing at $3.00-$3.25 a crate.

EVENING SALUTATION

"To me the most interesting thing about the world is the people who live in it."
—Edgar F. Goodspeed, professor of theology at Chicago University.

DIDN'T KNOW PERSONNEL

Lew Wallace, candidate for supervisor in the 5th district, recently wrote a letter to the Newport paper in which he stated that in an editorial in The Register in which The Register referred to some politicians, we were referring to Harry Lake of Garden Grove and Ross Shafer of Tustin. As a matter of fact, we had no particular men in mind, and hadn't noticed that Mr. Lake had been particularly active in the transaction.

Mr. Wallace further stated that in the discussion of this group for harbor bonds there was no suggestion of "trades" made. The truth is that we got most of our information of what took place in the discussion from Mr. Wallace himself. We are afraid that he does not accurately recall the elements of the conversation.

Be that as it may, we have on more than one occasion ourselves listened to discussions of groups and quasi-plans in which it was proposed to satisfy one district by granting something in order to get their votes for another project in which they might not be so much interested.

It is entirely possible that Mr. Lake and Mr. Shafer had nothing in mind of interest to the northern section of the county, but that their whole object was to carry on a vote for Newport harbor for $1,500,000 at this time because of their interest in the harbor, and their belief that it was the proper time and that such a vote would carry. If they say this we believe them, because we certainly did not hear the discussion. However, we would not agree with them in their opinion. We doubt seriously if many men conversant with the situation in the county would agree with them on this proposition.

We have not named men in editorial discussions because we desired to avoid personalities, and would not refer to them now if it were not insisted upon. We do not believe in making "trades" for various projects because instead of each project standing on its merits, it is entirely possible by such "trades" that the taxpayer and citizen must meet obligations for two or more projects that have little merit.

The fact that there is such a complete and immediate repudiation of any agreements or influence that the one shall affect the other is evidence to us that the public does not look kindly upon such deals.

We are distinctly for an improvement and a completion of the harbor at Newport Beach, and will do all we can to further such an enterprise. We do not believe that sentiment for it should be used as a personal asset of any candidate or candidates for political office as against other candidates equally as interested in the project.

THE CHARACTER OF OUR FIRST SETTLERS

The tercentenary celebration of the coming of the Puritans to Massachusetts Bay is revealing some interesting facts. These facts have always been known to the historian, but there has been so much idealization of the country's first settlers that the really miscellaneous character of the first groups has not been known to the average man.

A recent writer has pointed out that those first groups were composed of very varied elements. The Plymouth Pilgrims were a humbler group of people than those who came later in 1630. They were for the most part composed of the lower middle classes. Quite a number among them had no interest in the religious purposes of the leaders of the group. Miles Standish was a Roman Catholic, so the tradition runs. He came with the Pilgrims as a military man. Some other members of the group were brought over to help in setting up necessary factors in an orderly society.

The Puritans who came over in 1630 were composed of a great variety of people. The leaders were religious men who had tired of the religious practices of the church in the home country. They were for the most part leaders in social, intellectual and business life in England. With them was a considerable number of farmers sympathetic with the religious views of the leaders, but seeking economic betterment in the new world. In addition there was a large group of servants, most of whom had little interest in the religious life and practice of the colony. It was some of these who disturbed the peace of the colony by their revels around the May pole at Merrymount. Many of them were sent back to England.

On the whole, though in the minority, the religious elements left their stamp upon the colony. Though only about one-fifth of the number of those early settlers were church members, a considerable number of the rest were sympathetic with the purposes of the church members. Religion dominated the life of the colonists, and wherever the descendants of those early settlers have gone they have carried with them the moral and religious ideals which were with them at the foundation. This is evident in all those regions of the middle west settled by New Englanders. The impress of it is here manifest in Southern California. And as David Starr Jordan said some years ago, underneath the varied life of the whole state of California one will find deep traces of the men who landed on the shores of Massachusetts Bay 300 years ago.

These occasional celebrations have a tendency to clear up historical errors in the popular mind. But they also serve to impress upon us the fixed ideals that have never been forgotten amid the invasion of other peoples with different purposes and ideals.

BILLINGS AND MOONEY

We have been among those who have believed that Thomas J. Mooney, serving a life sentence in San Quentin, was framed. We were driven to this conclusion by the exposure of false witnesses and the statement of McDonald in respect to the identification of Mooney.

Further than this, the jurymen and the judge in the case declaring themselves as fully convinced of the innocence of Mooney later removed almost the last vestige of doubt. We have now read the statement of the Supreme Court, the findings of the special advisory pardon board, and the statement of the governor in which he denies the plea of Mooney for pardon.

While there is serious doubt in our mind whether on the testimony of McDonald today he would be convicted seeing that the other witnesses have been discredited, yet the fact that McDonald refused to go before a grand jury and take oath to the matters, and that Billings objected to the Supreme Court extending its investigation to include the bringing of McDonald before it, shakes one's faith in the repudiation of McDonald of his testimony.

We are confident that Governor Young is absolutely sincere and conscientious in his findings, and in the light of the Supreme Court decision, the findings of the advisory pardon board and the position that Governor Young assumed in maintaining the parallel cases of the two men, that he could arrive at no other conclusion.

A HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Millions today are noting the birthday of John D. Rockfeller, Sr. He was a great fighter, organizer and financier of the age of most severe competition.

With his great power he crushed competitors rather relentlessly, but those days have been pretty much forgotten. He has used his vast resources for the benefit of mankind, and under the direction of his son and those organizations which have been formed to carry out the projects of both father and son, greater work will be done in the coming years than has been done in the past.

The cure for disease, which disease was baffling men, has been found in many cases. Investigations in various departments of science have been made possible. Hospitals, educational institutions, improvement of sanitary conditions and countless benefits are the result of the large gifts of Mr. Rockefeller.

He seems to have personally kept a sweet and a serene spirit. His enemies undoubtedly have had their asperity softened with years. Probably there are few men in the country who do not wish him well.

Society Goes On Strike

Fresno Republican

News fresh from Paris informs us that society women will not wear long skirts to the races.

One more item in favor of horse racing. It has enabled the women of fashion in the social capital of the world to show their independence of the dressmakers.

Taste in dress has always been a struggle between those who wish to do as they saw fit and those who wished to do as those that they best admired thought fit.

The great dressmakers of Paris have capitalized on these rival instincts by pretending adaptability to the best taste and actually dictating choice themselves.

It has been a part of their business to alternate taste fast enough to attract attention and then change it just as fast as it was profitable for them, to get their goods sold.

Only once in a blue moon does mass taste defeat the dressmakers.

This time, it seems, the masses of the "haut monde" have decided for themselves that they will not follow the dressmakers' dictation of a return of long dresses, as far as "sports" wear is concerned.

"Scores of manikins," we are told "from world famous dress establishments attended the race wearing hats and dresses reminiscent of the early twentieth century. Big hats and wide gathered skirts of organdie and lawn were among the style offerings."

But all in vain. Society attended en masse, with the women dressed in striking costumes which were characterized by a preponderance of black and white, medium length skirts and a complete absence of furbelows and fluffery.

San Francisco Chronicle

It is pathetically true, as Dr. Lillien J. Martin points out, that the tragic unhappiness of old age arises from the exclusion from social usefulness. We may provide the aged with the necessaries of life yet cast them into the back-ground by thoughtlessly shelving them in every day activities, a psychological cruelty that brings to mind Trader Horn's picture of the gray heads bobbing in the stream when African savages solve the old age problem by throwing their parents into the river.

Yet Dr. Martin herself, is in a measure, a refutation of her own argument. She was 65 years old when fourteen years ago she was retired by the age limit from her place as professor of psychology at Stanford after seventeen years of service there. Since then she has established a child guidance clinic and an old age salvage clinic and is recognized as an authority in such matters. She recently made a tour of inspection through Russia and now is attending Vassar College commencement exercises, celebrating the golden jubilee of her graduation from that institution. Anyone who tried to shelve Dr. Martin would have quite a job on his hands.

A Tip to the Married

Imperial Valley Press

Of words of advice in regard to marriage there is no end. Most of it, no doubt, dates all the way back to Adam and Eve, and most of it, just as indubitably, always has been and always will be disregarded; but it does no harm to add a word or two to the general total now and then, anyway.

The latest comes from Judge Samuel Harrison of Evanston, Ill., who has married 900 couples during his period in office. He offers many bits of advice; his best, we think, is this:

"Forgive your partner seventy times seven, and then throw away the account book."

Any happily-married couple can tell you the value of that admonition. Mutual forebearance and forgiveness can shove almost any obstacle out of the path of marital happiness.

Two Minds With But a Single Thought!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE ETERNAL CONFLICT

The rhino soon will wade no more
The riffles of the Niger;
Along the Ganges' shaded shore
Will rove no greedy tiger,
For years the savage brutes have fled
Reluctantly before us,
And presently will be as dead
As is the dinosaurus.

The lion slinks through lonely trails,
Beneath the bending bayans;
In wild affright the wildcat wails
Along the western canyons.
For many years the grizzly bear
Has never soundly slumbered,
But lives a prey to dread despair;
He knows his days are numbered.

But bug and slug and flea and fly
Go on their way rejoicing;
The locust hurtles through the sky
His bold defiance voicing;
All unperturbed the cut worm roams
Along the garden lattice,
Mosquitoes beard us in our homes
And gnash their molars at us.

Where once the prowling beasts of prey
Maintained their habitations
There spread from sea to sea today
Important, prospering nations.
We follow, stepping proud and high
The pathway that is set us,
But, notwithstanding, by and by
Those bugs are bound to get us.

CHEERING PROSPECT

If it is true that gangsters only kill one another, and gang murders continue at the present rate, there won't be any more gangsters in about a week.

Economics Without Despair

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

In the past, some economists held that "hard times" and widespread poverty were inevitable. They contended that "the great masses of laborers never could rise far above the lowest level of subsistence."

They were like the man who demanded a glass of plain soda without any flavor.

Asked gravely what flavor he would have it without, he replied, "Without chocolate." To the suggestion that, since they were all out of chocolate, he take his soda without pineapple, he shook his head. "No," he said sadly, "if I can't have it without chocolate, I won't have it at all."

Some of the old economists, if they couldn't have their economics without hope, simply wouldn't have it at all.

Many men still think that we are doomed to business depressions and resulting unemployment. In economics, as in physics, they say, every action is followed by an opposite and equal reaction; what goes up, must come down; the farther business moves forward in a period of expansion, the farther back it must slip when the reaction comes.

That is, in truth, about what has happened in the past,—what is happening right now. It has not resulted, however, from "natural law," but largely from financial methods devised by man.

The ingenuity of man substituted money for barter. Hundreds of years later, the ingenuity of man substituted the Federal Reserve System for a much poorer system. And now the ingenuity of man can devise ways of enabling men and women to buy, and pay for, all the automobiles, oil heaters, dwelling houses, fur coats, education, and other things which they are able and willing to produce.

Once men are convinced that the right flow of wages does not come by chance, and is wholly subject to control, they will not accept a slump in business as meekly as they are accepting it now—at this time.

They will insist on having their Economics Without Despair.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

I was reading Sidney Sly, Detecktive, and ma was in her room reddy to go out, and she was hunting for her other white glove and I saw it on the floor sticking out from under the bed, and I quick took it and stuck it in the toe of one of ma's empty shoes under there, and ma kepp on looking, saying, How things disappeer around here is one of the 8 mysteries of the werld. Id take my tying oath I layed them both rite here on the bed and now one of them is gone as compleet as a wissle.

Well then I just came in time, madam, Im Sidney Sly the werlds greatest detecktive, I sed. Ill haff to ask you a few questions ferst, madam. Have you noticed any strange fingerprints around? I sed.

Well now if you want to help me look you can help me look, but you wont help me by distracting my attention with a lot of foolishness, Im in a hurry, ma sed, and I sed, Ah ha, why are you in such a hurry, madam, can it be that you have a gilty conscients?

O hush, ma sed. It must be in the room but Ive looked under the bed and everywhere elts, its provoking, she sed, and I sed, Do you siapect anybody, madam?

Meening me, and I sed, Well thats plenty of questions for the present, I bleeve I have a clue. And I walked around bent all a ways over like a detecktive looking for footprints, and all of a sudden I pulled the glove out of ma's shoe, saying, Ah ha, just as I thawt, madam, how did it get in this shoe?

Well of all things, what a crazy place for it to fall into, and of corse it would take a crazy thing like you to find it, berds of a fether flock together, ma sed. Well Im certeny releeved, heers 2 cents, she sed.

And she hurry up went out and so did I to spend the 2 cents.

In the Long Ago

From the Register Files 14 Years Ago Today

JULY 8, 1916

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sprague and children, together with Mrs. Sprague's sister, Miss Bernice McBride, will leave Monday evening for a vacation trip to Sequoia National park.

The furniture and hardware stock of A. H. Williams, 309 West Fourth street, has been bought by the Pixley Furniture Co., and the Kogler Hardware Co., both of Orange.

The Newport saloons will go out of business July 10. All drys are invited to attend the picnic and rally july 11 in the beach city.

Because of the complaints concerning the actions of people who attend the band concerts and keep up a running conversation during the selections, it has been suggested that the city install an electric sign on the band stand with the words "Be Quiet" to be flashed by the band director when the band starts a number.

A ditch for a pipe line to be laid below the bed of the Santa Ana river north of Olive is being provided by the Bixby Development Co. The company's pipe line was washed out by the floods last winter.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

A SCHOLAR-STATEMENT

The other day, for the first time, I met and came to know William Z. Ripley, who has always seemed to me a superb example of the scholar-stateman without whom the well-springs of leadership in a nation dry up.

For thirty-five fruitful years, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at Harvard University, Mr. Ripley has been at once productive scholar and provocatice teacher.

On that research frontier of the social sciences that lies beyond the safe orthodoxies of the timid text-books, he has been a skilful guide of other minds.

He has not permitted the scolar's career to impose upon him a sterile neutrality in the social conflicts of his time.

He has proved that it is possible to be, at one and the same time, the objective scholar and the earnest crusader.

He is equally at ease as the calm expositor of truth and as its impassioned advocate.

In his scientific scholarship and social statesmanship have met and merged.

He has brought broad scholarship to bear upon the nation's crucially important railway problems.

In a well-documented elaboration of his thesis that "property should nexer be allowed to degenerate into an instrument of oppression," he courageously challenged the widespread shift of power from Main street to Wall street, and stabbed the modern mind awake to the social implications of the excessive concentration of power.

As a scholar, his analyses have actually effected changes in public and private policy.

I never meet such men that I am depressed by the fact that we drift so little of this sort of intelligence into positions of national leadership.

I am not an advocate of government by experts.

But it is becoming increasingly apparent that as modern society grows more complicated we must make use of the most intelligent and the most richly informed leadership we have.

We cannot afford to let such scholar-statesmen go to waste, save as they may play gadfly to official complacency.

OUR CHILDREN

THE CHILD OF IT

Adolescent children are given to extravagances, exaggerations and excesses. If they are being good they are tremendously good. Too good for ordinary purposes, and soon they restore the balance by being bad, very bad. They cannot be calm and reasonable no matter how they may be urged to be so by calm and reasonable teachers and parents.

"Why must you overdo everything? Always so extreme! Last week you hated dancing class. You couldn't be pushed into going. Now this week you want me to stop everything and get you ready an hour ahead of time. Help yourself. Your things are ready. Why all this excitement?

"I cannot understand you, Donald. Only this morning you said you would never, never speak to Sam again and now you want to stay overnight with him after having put in the entire day playing with him. You must try to be a little more sensible. No. You stay home. Remember, if you show such temper you will have to stay in your room for the remainder of the evening. Very well, you stay in your room."

"Claire, come away from the piano. I can't stand it another minute. Either you play all day and all night or you don't play at all. It does seem to me that you might try to follow your program a little more. Then you wouldn't overdo things so. And underdo them.

"Well, I think not. You and Mary have been together almost constantly this week. You're going to wear your welcome out. Better see a little less of one another and you will remain friends longer. Very well. Remember what I told you. When you fall out don't come to me."

They cannot help this. Their growth is not an evenly planned and programmed process. They have certain emotional overflows and they seem very unbalanced to us. If they are doing nothing dangerous better let the phase wear itself out. The after effect will be all the better.

Don't take every statement they make, although they make each of them almost fierce emphasis, as something permanent. It isn't. It is very likely the overflow of emotion, of surplus nervous energy, and as it must be used up, let it go, provided it is safe. And give that safety idea as wide a margin as possible for children seldom are in as much danger as their parents fear them to be.

If the demonstration is too close to the danger line try to direct it through indirection. Never attack adolescence in its overflow with a front movement. Remember the serpent and its devious path and take a hint from its gentle, steady forward push.

Provide some exciting outlet for such times—such as a ticket to the baseball game, a picnic dinner and trip, a shopping excursion for a cherished possession. Save such things for the occasions and you will find things easing up.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY of

ROCKEFELLER'S BIRTH

On July 8, 1839, John D. Rockefeller, American capitalist, who before his retirement in 1911 was regarded the wealthiest man in modern history, possessing a fortune estimated as high as $1,000,000,000, was born at Richford, N. Y.

At the age of 14 he moved to Cleveland, O., where, after receiving a public school education, became a clery in a commission house. In less than four years he became a partner. With his partner he invested in a new business of "oil refining." Within 10 years this company, under Rockefeller's leadership, established itself as the most important factor in the petroleum industry in America.

In 1865 the Standard Oil Works was built at Cleveland and five years later was consolidated with others to form the Standard Oil company. In forming his company it was found he had created a "trust" in violation of the law and was therefore compelled to dissolve it. He then formed separately operated companies.

Rockefeller devoted much time and money to the promotion of various educational, religious and charitable interests. In 1892 he established the University of Chicago, to which he made gifts exceeding $23,000,000. He built and initially endowed the Rockefeller Institute for medical research at a cost of $4,000,000. At the end of 1921 it was estimated his benefactions exceeded $500,000,000.
